PUBLIC HOUSING CAN GO AHEAD AS DEFENSE AID, FOLEY SAYS HERE

Administrator Tells Parley Federal Aid Will Be Restricted Only Where Slum Clearance Impedes War Work.

Federal aid to low-rent public housing and slum clearance programs will be restricted only to the extent that they impede the defense effort, Raymond M. Foley of Washington, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, said in St. Louis today.

Outlining federal policies before more than 400 housing leaders attending the National Housing Policy Conference at Hotel Jefferson, Foley asserted that local programs which contribute essentially to defense should be permitted to proceed.

"We believe that the public housing program can go ahead at a limited rate, and that it can make its essential contribution to solving our low-income housing problem and also help to serve the defense program," Foley said. "How successfully we proceed with public housing under present conditions, however, will depend to a large extent on local community leadership."

Arranged by St. Louisans.

Foley was one of three speakers at the opening session of the two-day conference, which was arranged by a group of St. Louisans to discuss housing problems in the light of the nation's present semi-war economy and to formulate policy recommendations to be submitted to the Government.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst, a chief sponsor of the conference, in a keynote address opening the sessions, told the visitors: "This meeting did not spring from a sudden impulse. I joined in asking that we hold this conference because I believe that we have here the basic understanding of our mutual problems from which, working as neighbors, we may build a housing, slum clearance and redevelopment program of very great magnitude."

Congratulations From Truman.

Darst read a letter from President Truman congratulating the city for calling the conference and expressing confidence it would "produce valuable guidelines" on housing problems for communities throughout the country.

"We must of necessity proceed at a lesser rate of progress than otherwise on some of our plans and actions and adapt others to enable them to serve today's needs as well as contribute to our continuing democratic progress," the President said. "It is important not only that we plan for defense, but that we continue to plan and build to the fullest extent possible for a better housed nation and more workable and livable communities in the years ahead."

The Mayor also made public a letter from Herbert U. Nelson of Washington, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of several leaders opposed to the national low-rent public housing program who were invited to the conference. Declining the invitation, Nelson wrote:

"We doubt that there should be any such thing as a national housing policy and would like to see local government accept increasing responsibility for those measures of planning and re-

Girl, 14, Who Vanished Into Hills Two Days to Seek Dream Returns

EDRIS ISAKSEN with her mother, MRS. JEANETTE MILLER, after returning to her home.

Indian Lore Devotee 'As Mixed Up as Ever' After Fasting in Seclusion.

PALO ALTO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl came down from the Los Altos hills yesterday and back to the land of the white man after trying for two days to find fulfillment of an Indian legend.

Edris Isaksen did not find her "vision dream." And, she said, she was still "as mixed up as ever."

Mrs. Jeanette R. Miller, her mother, explained her daughter had read a lot of Indian lore as she planned to be an archeologist. Edris recently wrote a prize essay on the Inca Indians of South America. The girl said that somewhere in her reading, she ran across the Hanandapi legend, which tells of a "dream vision" that comes to Indian maidens sent alone and without food into the mountains. According to the legend, the vision must be seen before she reaches her 15th year.

"I have gone somewhere for my Hanandapi . . . I won't be back for four days at least . . . Please don't try to stop me. I am prepared for punishment when I get back but if I don't go I will have to try again as this is my fourteenth year."

Sunday morning, after two days of fasting and seclusion, she phoned her mother that she was ready to come home. She was hungry.

RENT CONTROL EXTENSION SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

House Completes Action on Measure to Keep Curbs in Effect Until June 30.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The House passed and sent to the White House today legislation extending present federal rent controls for 90 days to June 30.

Passage was by voice vote after a motion by Representative Jesse P. Walcott (Rep.), Michigan, to send it back to committee was shouted down.

The measure would keep rent ceilings from expiring on March 31 for an estimated 2,750,000 rental units.

Without such an extension, rent controls would die March 31 for Detroit, Cleveland, Minneapolis, and several other major cities. These communities have failed to take advantage of the "local option" feature of present law which permits them to remain under controls another 90 days, if they want to do so.

The St. Louis Board of Aldermen last October adopted the standrad ordinance provided by the National Housing Expediter providing that St. Louis remain under federal control at least six months from last Dec. 31.

CRIPPLED PENCIL PEDDLER'S DOG REPORTED STOLEN

Tobey, 2-year-old Boston terrier and companion of a crippled pencil peddler, has been reported stolen.

Lloyd Edens, a familiar sight with his dog on downtown streets, has had Tobey as a companion since the dog's father, Rex, died last year.

Edens would drive from his home at 504 Elm street in an electric wheelchair, with Tobey on his lap. Unable to walk, Edens would get out of his chair on downtown sidewalks, and Tobey would bark to keep crowds from stepping on his master and to inform traffic policemen that Edens was about to cross a street.

"Tobey disappeared from my home, but he'd have come back if someone weren't keeping him," Edens said. The dog is brown with a white chest and a white streak on the face.

RIOT AT LEBANON POLITICAL RALLY ENDS IN FIVE DEATHS

BEIRUT, Lebanon, March 19 (AP)—A Social Progress party rally in the village of Barouk turned into a riot last night and two gendarmes and three party supporters were killed. Six gendarmes and a number of demonstrators were wounded. Twenty party supporters were arrested.

According to an official source, army detachments sent to the scene have the situation "well in hand" today. The riot started when gendarmes attempted to disarm members of the crowd gathered in the village to discuss parliamentary elections.

SENATE UNIT LOOKS INTO ACCURACY OF LIVING-COST INDEX

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP) A Senate Labor subcommittee started an investigation today of the accuracy of the Government's cost of living index.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, was called to testify in closed session before the subcommittee on labor-management relations, which has been investigating organized labor's complaints about the defense program.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, chairman, said the subcommittee wanted information on the cost of living, wage rates and wage increases, weekly earnings and the methods of computing the cost of living index. He said he expected to find that the Bureau of Labor Statistics is "sorely limited by its facilities" because of shortages of funds and personnel.

There has been grumbling from labor recently that the Government index has not accurately reflected the cost of living.

VANDENBERG'S CONDITION UNCHANGED, DOCTOR SAYS

Still Grave, Physician Reports; Senator Will Be 67 Years Old Thursday.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19 (AP)—The condition of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg remained grave today.

The Republican Senator's physician, Dr. A. B. Smith, said there was "no change." Vandenberg, who will be 67 years old Thursday, took a turn for the worse Saturday. He has been in serious condition since Feb. 26, when he suffered a relapse following a series of operations.

Hounds Kill Tyson Park Deer And Get Their Owners in Jam

Two men whose foxhounds left the job at hand to kill a deer Friday in Tyson Park today were "sweating out" a decision to be made by St. Louis county prosecuting officials.

Not only is the deer season closed but hunting of any kind is barred at the park, which is on U.S. Highway 66, west of Valley Park. A section of Missouri's game code also provides that hunters must have their dogs under control at all times.

The men, one from Eureka, St. Louis county, and the other from High Ridge, Jefferson county, said the dogs were being used only to run foxes in an area near the park.

Clarence Wohlschlaeger, park superintendent, said the foxhounds apparently sighted the deer on the reservation and crawled under a fence to chase it. The frightened animal finally was brought down by the baying pack near railroad tracks in the west section of the park.

When Wohlschlaeger arrived, the deer, a 2-year-old buck, was dead from numerous bites. Four of the hounds were caught and are held as evidence, but a fifth escaped.

The deer was one of six kept in the park, along with 12 elk and 10 buffalo.

TRUMAN TOLD HIM RFC CLEANUP WAS NEEDED, ASSERTS DIRECTOR ROWE

Witness Denies He Asked Dunham to Resign and Become 'Goat' or 'Fall Guy' in Senate Inquiry.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19—Director C. Edward Rowe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation told a Senate Banking subcommittee today that President Truman, in urging him to accept appointment to the RFC board in August 1950, told him the agency "needed to be cleaned up."

This appeared to fly in the face of the President's more recent denunciation of the committee's report on favoritism and influence as "asinine." Members of the subcommittee, headed by J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, obviously were intrigued with Rowe's disclosure.

Rowe testified he understood the President to be telling him, in effect, "to go over there and do it"—clean up the RFC.

Decided Truman Was Right.

After he took over his new duties at the giant lending agency, he said, he decided the President had been right. "I could agree with the President after I got over there—it needed a reorganization," he told the committee. Among other steps taken to better the agency, he said, was adoption of a rule that no RFC borrower could employ any RFC personnel for a period of two years after the personnel had ended their employment with the agency.

Earlier, a sharp contradiction in the testimony of Rowe and Director Walter L. Dunham had developed when Rowe swore he had never urged Dunham to resign as the "goat" or "fall guy" in the current inquiry.

Dunham, who has been in poor health, told the subcommittee in executive session last week that while he was trying to recuperate at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., earlier this year, Rowe had telephoned him to urge him to resign, taking responsibility for several of the "bad" loans for which the RFC board has been criticized. He specifically charged that Rowe had wanted him to be the "goat."

Today Rowe categorically denied this version of the telephone conversation. He insisted that he had called Dunham only to inquire about his health, and that subsequent discussion of Dunham's resignation had come up only coincidentally.

Didn't Seek His Resignation.

"I didn't try to get Mr. Dunham to resign," Rowe, a bland witness told the committee.

"I had talked to RFC Chairman Elmer Harber and to Director Walter Cosgriff that day. They had telephoned Mr. Dunham and were concerned about his health. Harber told me how bad he was—physically, that is.

"So I telephoned him that afternoon to see how he was feeling. He said much worse than when he left Washington. Then I told him there was a rumor he had sent his resignation to the White House. He told me it was more than a rumor, that I could read the resignation if I wished. He hadn't sent it, but he said it was at his Washington office. He said the resignation was available any time it was wanted.

"I said something to him along this line: 'Well, Walter, if you feel the way you do, why don't you chuck the whole matter and stay down there for your health?'

Investigation Discussed.

"We then went into some discussion of the investigation into the RFC, and the effect it was having, and he said to me, 'Will you put that stuff together and bring it to my girl in the Washington office?' I said I would."

Rowe emphatically denied Dunham's sworn statement to the committee that in the telephone talk he had told Dunham he thought it was imperative that he resign.

He said that after the conversation he dictated some suggested paragraphs for inclusion in Dunham's letter for resignation and brought it to Dunham's secretary. One of the paragraphs contained a a phrase which would have had Dunham saying he was being "crucified" by the committee.

When committee members, led by Chairman Fulbright, demanded to know why he had included that thought, Rowe insisted the word "crucify" was a pet one used by Dunham in describing his troubles.

"It was his word, not mine," explained Rowe.

The Texmass Loan.

The loans that Dunham felt worst about, continued Rowe, were the $10,100,000 Texmass loan, which went sour, and the $37,500,000 loan to Lustron Corp., now in receivership. However, Dunham was not on the board when the Lustron loan was authorized.

After Dunham had told the Fulbright group last week that Rowe wanted to make him the "goat," Rowe related, he sought out Dunham at the RFC and demanded an explanation.

Rowe testified Dunham said: "'I'm sorry, I was just trying to be funny. I guess I'm the world's worst witness.'"

"I said to him," Rowe went on.

6 WEST EUROPE NATIONS INITIAL PLAN TO POOL COAL AND STEEL

PARIS, March 19 (AP)—Six nations of Western Europe today initialed the Schuman plan for pooling most of their coal and steel.

The agreement, coming after nine months of negotiations, constituted one of the most ambitious economic proposals made in Europe in this century.

The plan for an international control of West Europe's major resources was initialed at the French Foreign Ministry by technical experts of France, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands and West Germany. Britain also had been asked to join in the scheme but refused.

Long Way to Go.

Today's initialing still leaves the plan a long way from realization. The Cabinets of the six nations next must approve it. Then the plan faces its greatest obstacle—ratification by the six national parliaments.

There is still much opposition to the proposal. Negotiators believe it will take months, possibly a year, before it can be called finished.

The plan calls for:

1. Creation of an international authority to administer the scheme.
2. Creation of a special assembly composed of members of the six national parliaments, to which the high authority would be responsible.
3. A common pool market for steel and coal of the signatory countries to eliminate price-rigging and prohiibtive tariffs.
4. Free inter-change of coal and steel workers among the signatory countries.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman proposed last May to put nearly two-thirds of free Europe's multi-billion dollar coal and steel industry into a single market.

Blow by Britain.

The first blow to the plan was Britain's refusal to take part. This was primarily the result of Labor party policy which feared the consequences of tying British planned economy to continental free enterprise.

Last June the six other nations began negotiations, during which the door was kept open for Britain. The wrangling became so intense, however, that American officials intervened recently in Germany to work out a compromise with the French and West Germans to save the plan.

An agreement was reached to let the 12 biggest German steel firms retain control of up to 76 per cent of their own coal needs. Before the war, they controlled 100 per cent.

This leaves 18 per cent of the total Ruhr coal output still under control of the big steel firms, compared with 56 per cent before the war.

RUSSIAN EDITOR IN A LATHER OVER BARBERS' BABBLE

LONDON, March 19 (UP)—Russian barbers may get a political trimming for babbling too much as they clip.

The newspaper Evening Moscow, received here, called on barbers to avoid idle chit-chat and discuss only long-haired matters like "mass cultural methods."

The newspaper blamed lack of culture for the barbers' untidiness, habit of overcharging and—worst of all—requests for tips.

Parent of Joliet (Ill.) Veteran of Korean War Appeals for Its Return.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., March 19 (AP)—The mother of Joliet (Ill.) quadruple amputee said yesterday she has lost $315 belonging to her Korean war veteran son.

Mrs. Wannetta Reeves said she believes she lost a wallet containing the money last Wednesday—probably on a shopping trip to a number of stores. She said she hoped it would turn up, but decided yesterday to make an appeal for return of the money.

Her son, Pvt. Hubert E. Reeves, 19 years old, is a patient at the Army's Valley Forge General Hospital here. He lost parts of all his limbs as a result of frostbite in Korea.

Mrs. Reeves said the money represents savings from Army pay and an accumulation of gifts from strangers. She said Joliet residents have begun raising a fund for the boy's future, but none of that must be touched for immediate needs.

ROKS SWIM COLD HONGCHON RIVER IN PURSUIT OF REDS

'Eager Beavers' Trap, Annihilate China Red Battalion, Spearhead Central Drive.

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, March 19 (AP)—South Korean troops swam the chilly Hongchon river in central Korea today in pursuit of Communist forces pulling back toward the thirty-eighth parallel.

The Republic of Korea soldiers were spearheading the central front drive of the United States Eighth Army, which has set up strong forces in a holding line only 17 miles south of the politically important parallel.

"There was no stopping those ROK troops," said a military spokesman. They swam the cold river rather than wait for boats to ferry them across in the northward drive. "They were just a lot of eager beavers."

The same ROK troops trapped and annihilated a Chinese Communist battalion Sunday.

The ROKs faded back when they first met the Reds. But they sent strong patrols out in a flanking movement until they were north of the Chinese. Then they smashed the Reds simultaneously from the front and rear.

231 Chinese Killed.

The ROKS captured a battery of 75-mm. Howitzers, several mortars and rifles, and large quantities of ammunition.

It was the first action of any size along the Korean front in 83 hours.

United States jet pilots Monday killed or wounded 300 or 1500 Reds concentrated in the village of Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul. They also reported damaging a tank in the town west of Chunchon, once the central Chinese command headquarters south of the thirty-eighth parallel but now apparently abandoned.

A United States armored patrol rolling north from Seoul threw back an enemy platoon that attacked it 20 miles south of the parallel on the western front.

On the eastern front, allied patrols probing within a few miles of the thirty-eighth parallel moved northward against Red small arms and mortar fire.

The Army, breaking a three-

NOT INVITED, WON'T APPEAR AT CRIME INQUIRY, SAYS SMITH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19—Gov. Forrest Smith told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he has not been invited to appear before the Kefauver committee and was not going to appear if he were invited.

Gov. Smith said he had not heard from the committee, "directly or indirectly." Then he added: "By the way, doesn't that committee die March 31?"

Asked if he did hear from the committee would he have an intention of appearing before it, Smith replied:

"No, none at all."

TEMPORARY HALT IN DRAFT ORDERED BY SOUTH KOREA

PUSAN, Korea, March 19 (UP)—The South Korean Government today halted conscriptions temporarily and ordered 200,000 draftees discharged.

WIDOW FALLS FROM BUILDING WHERE FRANK COSTELLO LIVES

She was identified as Mrs. Roslyn Lewis, 30 years old, and is in a critical condition in a hospital.

Mrs. Lewis, a New Yorker, who was visiting relatives, was said to have been depressed over the death of her husband a year ago.

BILL FOR DRAFT AT 18 1-2 CLEARED FOR HOUSE DEBATE

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The bill lowering the draft age to 18½ and laying the groundwork for a universal military training program was cleared for House debate by the House Rules Committee today.

Members said there was no opposition to the clearance, voted in a closed session.

The House will take up the measure on April 3 for four days of debate after an Easter recess. It will be open to any and all amendments. The legislation also extends the period of service from 21 to 26 months.

Stalin Cuckoos Time, Red Stooges Parrot It in 'Voice' Radio Skit

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The Voice of America today put Joseph Stalin in a cuckoo clock and had him cluck the time—the absolutely official time.

In a propaganda broadcast beamed to eastern Europe, a Hungarian clockmaker has invented a cuckoo-type clock that hourly pops out portraits of Stalin and Hungarian Communist leaders. It also reproduces their voices intoning the time.

In the skit, a Russian is inspecting the clockmaker's wonderful invention. He is quite impressed until the clock strikes 12.

A scratchy voice says:

The Russian thinks this is fine—but he chokes when a picture of Matyas Rakosi, secretary general of the Hungarian Communist party, jumps out and says it's 1 o'clock.

"This is Matyas Rakosi. Now that Stalin has said it's 2 o'clock, it is 2 o'clock."

A third voice joins in:

"Now that Stalin and Rakosi have said it's 2 o'clock, this is Alexander Zold, minister of interior, saying it is 2 o'clock."

The Russian admires the cuckoo clock approvingly.

Testifies It Was Because Witness in Police Custody Plunged to Death —Kefauver Invites Gov. Smith and Dewey.

By THEODORE C. LINK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

O'Dwyer's charge came when he was being questioned about a call he made at the apartment of Racketeer Frank Costello. Tobey observed that "it seemed strange that prominent men would trot up to his place for advice and counsel."

"They've got bookmaking all over the country, senator," O'Dwyer shouted.

"They say there's a lot of it in New Hampshire. They say $30,000,000 worth of bookmaking is done in your home state."

"Well, we haven't got a Costello in New Hampshire," Tobey thundered.

"I wonder," O'Dwyer said, adding that Tobey had "sent down to New York" to get contributions for his last campaign.

Bristling, Tobey shouted: "It's not true. I never called anyone in New York for contributions to my campaign."

"I'm under oath," O'Dwyer rejoined. "You're not."

Rising half out of his chair, Tobey offered to take an oath.

"I'm not a four flusher," he roared.

Senator Herbert O'Connor (Dem.), Maryland, interrupted with soothing words and O'Dwyer returned to the subject of Costello.

Names Gang Executioner.

Prior to this clash with Senator Tobey, O'Dwyer told the committee that Albert Anastasia, the man he failed to prosecute in a murder case when he was Brooklyn's district attorney, was in charge of gang execuions in Brooklyn for a criminal organization.

The former Mayor made the accusation when being questioned about his statement that he considered the murder charge against Anastasia which grew out of the infamous "Murder, Inc." organization, "a perfect case."

Key Witness Fell to Death.

His explanation for failure to prosecute Anastasia, a notorious waterfront hoodlum, was that a key witness, Abe (Kid Twist) Reles, was killed in a fall from a hotel window while under "protective custody" of police. The witness added that one defect in New York law is that witnesses other than co-conspirators must be available.

Before O'Dwyer, now Ambassador to Mexico, made his appearance as a voluntary witness, Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, committee chairman, extended an invitation to Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to appear before the committee.

Senator Kefauver said the invitation to Gov. Smith and Gov. Dewey also applied to Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio "and any other Governor."

The committee chairman said no specific request for the appearance of the Governors was made, but that Rudolph Halley, chief committee counsel, would inform Gov. Dewey specifically that he would be welcome.

Dewey Receives Call.

In Albany, James C. Hagerty, the Governor's secretary, said a telegraphed invitation had been received and would be delivered to the Governor this afternoon.

O'Dwyer said he learned from Reles, in a series of midnight conferences in the district attorney's office, that "Murder, Inc.," was "clear-cut and well organized."

"There were kankaroo courts, held in restaurants and cafes late at night, at which individuals were tried and condemned to death."

"We also found," he said, "that in certain sections of the country, there were men who carried out the orders of these courts, and there would be only one order—death, execution."

O'Dwyer said in many sections of the country "they had troops under one man who had authority to direct those troops."

"Albert Anastasia was the one who had authority to order the Brooklyn troops," he said.

Mentioned Mafia.

Senator Charles W. Tobey (Rep.), N.H., interrupted with the question: "Who was chairman of the board of directors of this organization."

"There was no one chief man at the top. Reles told me it was

SPAIN REPORTED WILLING TO FIGHT FOR WEST EUROPE IF U.S. ARMS IT

Franco Aids Said to Have Given Assurance to American Envoy — Would Send Troops Beyond Pyrenees.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Spain is reported to have told the United States it would send troops to the defense of Western Europe if desired, provided American weapons are sent to its forces.

Responsible officials said this assurance was given by the Spanish Foreign Office to American Ambassador Stanton Griffis.

Griffis sounded out the Franco government, they said, shortly after arriving in Madrid earlier this month to end a five-year diplomatic snubbing of Spain.

Points Made by Spain.

Officials in close touch with the situation said the Spanish Foreign Office made these points in talking to Griffis:

1. Under present conditions, Spain could not move any Spanish troops beyond the Pyrenees to help defend Western Europe. Spain's army is reported badly in need of modern weapons and parts.

2. If the United States sends military supplies to Spain, Spain would be willing to contribute to Western European defense, even by moving troops beyond the Pyrenees if desired.

Officials who disclosed this development emphasized that the talks are strictly exploratory and no commitments have been made on either side. This, they said, precludes any formal announcement.

Griffis apparently acted under instructions from the State Department despite some misgivings relayed by the French government to such a move. The State Department is reported to have promised to inform Paris of the results of the conversations and to have assured the French that they will be consulted fully before any move is made.

Spain's Participation Urged.

Many Congressmen, including some leading Republicans, long have been urging the State and Defense Departments to bring Spain into the western defense ring. Until now, Secretary of State Dean Acheson has resisted such pressure, saying Spain was a problem for the Western Europeans nations to agree upon first without American intervention.

Officially, this is still the State Department's attitude. Acheson, it is believed, would be extremely reluctant to add Spain to the western defense set-up unless its Western European allies, especially France, approved such a move first.

Some officials believe at least $300,000,000 in American weapons, ammunition and military transport would be needed to modernize Spain's army. This figure is highly tentative and is not necessarily the amount Spain would receive from the United States if and when the United States decided to ship arms to Spain.

10 RED DIVISIONS ARE REPORTED IN CARPATHO-UKRAINE

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 19 (AP)—Hungarian refugees report the Russians have concentrated nearly 10 Red army divisions in the strategic province of Carpatho-Ukraine, from which a Cominform invasion of Yugoslavia could be launched.

Furthermore, these sources said, the bulk of Hungary's road-building program last year was devoted to this strategic region. New roads were built and others widened, they said, to permit a blitz movement across Hungary to the Yugoslav and Austrian borders.

One such road—26 feet wide and built for heavy tank traffic — was built from Beregszasz, Hungary, to Szeged, on the Yugoslav frontier, the refugees said. Carpatho - Ukraine was called Ruthenia before Czechoslovakia ceded it to the Soviet Union.

The Russians also are strengthening the Hungarian Army and a Russian named Istvan Bata is now chief of staff of the satellite's forces, the refugees reported. Another Russian named Andrei Ragyanski directs a big air training program.

O'Dwyer Explains Failure to Press 'Perfect Murder Case'

sort of an alliance, although he did mention the Mafia (secret society). The witness added that he did not think Reles knew much about the Mafia.

O'Dwyer listed Charles (Lucky) Luciano, Joe Adonis, Willie Moretti, Meyer Lansky and the late Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel as "big" in the underworld ranks.

"What about Frank Costello?" he was asked.

The witness said Costello's name "was not mentioned."

O'Dwyer was questioned about a meeting he had with Costello in 1942, when O'Dwyer was on military leave from his job as district attorney.

"I was a major in the procurement division of the Air Force and had received instructions to 'clean up' Wright Field, the Air Force materiel base," O'Dwyer related.

"An anonymous letter had been received linking a Wright Field officer with Costello and several others who were reported interested in procurement contracts. My job was to learn what, if any, connection Costello and his friends had with Air Force contracts.

Saw Costello at Apartment.

"I saw Costello at his apartment, in company with Irving Sherman, Congressman Mike Kennedy and several others. Costello and I had a private conversation in which I asked if there had been conversations about Air Force contracts over Costello's wire at a hotel here. Costello denied knowing anything about the matter."

Sherman, who has been sought as a committee witness was reported today to have written from Katonah, N.Y., that he would be on hand tomorrow, the last day of the New York hearing.

The committee indicated it was incredulous about the reported purpose of O'Dwyer's visit to Costello's apartment.

"Instructed to See Him."

"Absolutely not," O'Dwyer replied. "I was instructed to see him, and did not think he would consent to a meeting at my office, so I went to his apartment and found him."

Asked about the "sinister influence" of Tammany Hall, O'Dwyer replied: "God help any candidate backed by Tammany Hall."

He then was asked if there was a tie between Costello and Tammany Hall.

"I believe there was a connection," O'Dwyer answered.

"When you were elected Mayor you were determined to rid Tammany of its influence, were you not?" Halley inquired.

"There was plenty to do to clean up Tammany, and I did not shirk my share of the job," the former Mayor replied.

O'Dwyer said the "Brooklyn troop" was involved in murders in New York, Newark, N.J., and Los Angeles.

He said that by agreement among underworld figures in various cities "the little fellows," who actually did the murdering, were "rewarded with pinball concessions, houses of prostitution and certain other unlawful activities."

The underworld trials, he said, dealt with "any violation of jurisdiction of rules and regulations and it was also found that these meetings were held all over the country. We also found that the charges had to be substantiated by someone assigned to do that."

Learned of Gang Setup.

"It was in 1940 that we learned there was some form of organization in the underworld," O'Dwyer testfied. "There was a low level, medium level and high level organization. Reles and "Happy" Miaone were in the Tombs. We heard of an exchange of information of these men with the gang, usually through another person while they attended church services.

"Some of their discussion pertained to a murder case, that of George Rudney. We learned that the gangsters figured that if they had one man out of the way they could successfully beat prosecution.

"The man selected for murder was known as 'Joe the Baker' and we immediately took him into custody. While we were investigating the facts in this case, Mrs. Reles came to me and suggested that her husband might talk.

"He agreed to talk and I only promised him that I would deal fairly with him if I had his full co-operation. I told him I wanted nothing but the truth and that he could not use my office to get even with his personal enemies.

"I told Reles if I found he was lying he would be the first one I would prosecute for murder. He talked under those arrangements. Through his statements we learned that the underworld was organized and that certain groups had certain jurisdiction—allocated to them, one might say."

O'Dwyer touched his handkerchief to his forehead, moist from exertion and the heat of television lights. Photographers lowered cameras without taking pictures because the gesture was too quick for them. "Sorry to disappoint you, boys," the witness quipped when he saw the disgruntled faces.

Explains Action in Case.

Asked why he did not seek an indictment in the "perfect case," O'Dwyer stressed that he needed witnesses, such as Reles, who were not co-conspirators.

"There is a difference between the indictment and the trial part of the case," he said.

"When was the 'perfect case' lost?" asked Senator Tobey.

"When Reles died," said O'Dwyer.

O'Dwyer said Anastasia was not in the "middle of the block" where the killing occurred, but in an automobile at the corner of the street.

He said a "little boy" was an eyewitness, but that he did not seek an immediate indictment because of his concern for the "little boy." He said it would have been necessary to detain the boy and the boy's parents might have been threatened by gangsters.

ALBERT ANASTASIA

O'Dwyer and Senator Tobey engaged in a heated exchange over the cause of Reles' death, the Senator asking if any of the "six sleeping policemen looked at the body to determine if the man had been stabbed or shot."

Aroused by Question.

"The medical examiner saw the body and said death was due to the fall," O'Dwyer said, his voice raised. "We are talking here to an audience (television) of more than 2,000,000 people. It is unfair to suggest that Reles died of causes other than those reported by the medical examiner."

Senator Tobey countered by recalling that former Police Commissioner Frank Bals, a witness last week, suggested that Reles started to slide down a rope of sheets while his police guards were asleep in order to play a joke on them.

"This man Bals told a different story from what you told and different from what I believe," the Senator said.

"You are talking about some dream you have in your mind," O'Dwyer said.

Blames "Negligence."

The former Mayor said he and the late Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine both were satisfied that Reles's death "narrowed down to police negligence." "The men were punished," O'Dwyer added.

Halley interrupted to say that O'Dwyer had been described in newspaper reports as having defended the six policemen in the Reles case.

O'Dwyer replied that he did not defend them, but was a defense witness in a departmental trial of the police.

"Did you not thereafter take their boss (Bals) and make him seventh deputy police commissioner?" Halley asked.

"Yes, I did," O'Dwyer said.

The former Mayor quoted Reles, in agreeing to unveil the underworld story, as saying: "This is the biggest thing in the United States. You'll never get anywhere with it. You can expect to be hurt. I'm warning you. I'm prepared to talk."

Grand jury presentments in 1945 were discussed by O'Dwyer. The presentments charged that the murder case had been mishandled and that "wanted cards" on several hoodlums, including Anastasia, had been removed by O'Dwyer's chief clerk, James J. Moran, now a $15,000-a-year commissioner on the Board of Water Control to which lifetime job he was appointed by O'Dwyer.

"The judge expunged the presentments from the record because he thought they had been made on political grounds," O'Dwyer stated.

"In the Anastasia case as well as in the Anthony Romeo and Jack Parisi cases the wanted cards were removed, what was done about that?" asked Halley.

"I learned about that after I had returned from duty in the Army. I don't think the lifting of the cards had effect on the murder cases involving the men," O'Dwyer declared, adding that the statute of limitations did not run out on murder and prosecution was always possible.

O'Dwyer laid the blame for failure to follow through on the "perfect murder case" at the door of Thomas Craddock Hughes, who took over his office while he was in the Army.

"Hughes had 20 more years of experience as a lawyer than I had, and when I left the office I had suggested the investigation continue, although no indictments had been returned."

"I ask you a fair, square question, Senator," O'Dwyer flared angrily at Tobey as he beat his breast in his evident desire to impress the committee with his sincerity. "Am I to be held responsible for what went on while I was in the Army?"

"Most Important Case."

"Did you ever check up on what was the most important murder case in your career?" asked Halley.

O'Dwyer explained that he was appointed to the War Refugee Board by the late President Roosevelt and that other matters occupied his time. He conceded that while the Anastasia case was a "big thing" he did not take it up on his return.

"No," O'Dwyer answered.

"I didn't know the cards were pulled until I went before the grand jury," O'Dwyer said. In response to further questions O'Dwyer insisted that the grand jury which investigated his handling of the Anastasia case had been "fed" information selected by the district attorney.

"It is axiomatic that virtue is its own reward," Senator Tobey interposed. The facts speak for themselves. Moran was appointed to a $15,000-a-year job for life."

"He's a good man," the witness said, stubbornly.

O'Dwyer mopped his brow frequently during his several exchanges with Senator Tobey, and helped himself to an occasional glass of water. A brief recess was taken at one period when he expressed a wish "to compose myself." The request followed a particularly heated exchange with Senator Tobey, who called former Police Commissioner Bals "a flat tire."

KSD-TV RESUMES TELECASTS OF CRIME HEARING

Post-Dispatch television station KSD-TV today resumed its telecasts of the Senate Crime Committee hearings in New York, interrupted by the committee's weekend recess.

The morning session was telecast from 8:50 a.m. until 11:45 a.m. when the committee adjourned for luncheon.

Telecasts here were begun again at 1:15 p.m. when the afternoon session began. KSD-TV officials said that today's hearing would be telecast here as long as Ambassador William O'Dwyer, former Mayor of New York, is testifying.

Blames Prohibition.

O'Dwyer prefaced his testimony with a lengthy statement of his experiences, dating from his becoming a policeman in 1917. He told the committee that, in his opinion, prohibition changed the public attitude toward the criminal "and made him respectable."

The former Mayor, who shares today's spotlight with Costello, told the committee that national prohibition "placed the customer, the speakeasy operator and the bootlegger on a common plane."

"There were speakeasies in every city in the nation, and the people did not respect the law," O'Dwyer said. "Before prohibition crime was localized, and the criminal was not accepted in respectable society."

Connects Crime, Bad Housing.

"That alone is not the sole cause," O'Dwyer added.

The former Mayor recalled that he started a low-cost housing program, when he became Mayor, which he said resulted in 190,000 slum dwellers being transferred to better housing,

He then turned to his experiences with "one-armed bandits," which he said was the cause of much petty thievery. "I learned when I was a magistrate," he testified, "that children stole to obtain money to play the machines."

O'Dwyer took credit for instituting legislation to outlaw slot machines and similar devices. "You can search New York from Coney Island to Yonkers without finding a single pinball machine," he said.

The committee on Saturday voted to ask the Senate to cite Costello and gamblers Adonis and Frank Erickson for contempt of Congress because of their refusal to answer questions fully. In addition to refusing to answer committee questions, Costello twice walked out of the hearing last week, asserting he was too ill to remain.

If the inquiry continues in the Anastasia case, the killing of Max Greenberg, St. Louis gangster affiliated with the old Hogan gang headed by State Senator Edward J. (Jellyroll) Hogan in the Egan-Hogan gang feud of the 1920s, will figure prominently. Costello was named in a series of confessions by Reles as engineering the killing of Greenberg and Max Hassel, Pennsylvania beer baron, in a hotel in Elizabeth, N.J., in 1933.

Reles, whose nerve broke, made several confessions in 1941, in which he gave the lowdown on 56 gang murders in and around New York and New Jersey, and related how Costello got his rise to national prominence as a gang leader through the Greenberg killing. Greenberg, banished from St. Louis, was rapidly becoming a leading gang figure here when he was assassinated.

Reles was killed when he fell—or was pushed—from a window of the Half Moon Hotel on Coney Island while he was in protective custody of the police, and was telling about New York and New Jersey hoodlums connected with "Murder, Inc."

Doctor Checks Costello.

Costello was examined Saturday by Dr. John D. Kernan, appointed by the committee to determine whether the nation's No. 1 racketeer is in condition to be a witness. Costello's two personal doctors disagreed as to the seriousness of his throat ailment, in reports to the committee.

Dr. Kernan's report said: "I would say on this examination there would be a more than normal strain for this man to talk for long periods. There is no reason, however, why he cannot testify for a reasonable length of time, such as two hours. If testimony is for two hours in the morning, he could testify again on the following morning."

George Wolf, Costello's attorney, said last night his client would be at the hearing at the appointed time this afternoon, but the attorney would not say whether the racketeer would testify.

Rudolph Halley, chief committee counsel, wants to continue his examination of Costello in four phases:

1. Legitimate and illegal business enterprises.
2. Assets and net assets.
3. Criminal associates.
4. Political connections and their import.

The political phase, Halley said, is considered of great importance, and for that reason the committee is anxious to get Costello's testimony on record.

Costello, who has maintained he is a much-maligned figure, is in a difficult position. The Senate committee knows that his income tax returns show he reported income averaging $60,000 annually over the last 10 years, with the exception of 1950. Last year he reported income of approximately $178,000, which represented a profit of about $100,000 in the sale of some Wall Street property.

So, if he tells the committee he is worth many millions in real estate or securities he is in an equally difficult position with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which would find it hard to reconcile his total worth with his reported income over the years.

Joseph L. Nellis, associate counsel for the committee, said the group will turn its attention to waterfront rackets and crime when it gets through questioning O'Dwyer and Costello.

Nellis said witnesses in the waterfront inquiry will include Michael Borelli, public safety commissioner of Hoboken; Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association; Edward Florio, an organizer in Hoboken for the ILA, and Anthony Anastasia, brother of Albert. Nellis would not disclose the specific nature of the questioning the committee would follow in the waterfront study.

Robert S. Peare Dies.

SCHNECTADY, N.Y., March 19 (AP)—Robert S. Peare, vice president in charge of the General Electric Co.'s public relations and advertising policies, died last night. He suffered a heart attack a week ago. He was 50 years old.

RAZMARA CABINET MEMBER SHOT BY ASSASSIN IN IRAN

Foe of Oil Nationalization Wounded by Agent of Same Sect Blamed in Premier's Killing.

TEHRAN, March 19 (UP)—A member of the fanatic religious sect which provided the assassin of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara, shot and seriously wounded a member of Razmara's Cabinet today for opposing nationalization of Iran's oil fields.

Dr. Abdul Hamid Zanganeh, education minister who resigned with the other members of the Cabinet after Razmara's death, was shot in the side at Tehran University by a student belonging to the fanatic Fedayan Islam (Devotees of Islam) sect. A law student who grappled with the assassin while he was drawing a bead on the ex-minister was wounded in the hand.

Assailant Seized.

Police arrested the assailant on the scene. He was identified as Nosratollah Ghomi. He told police Zanganeh was a "traitor" for opposing the nationalization bill. He said, "All traitors must be exterminated."

The Fedayan Islam sect a week ago threatened to kill the Shah and all Cabinet officials if they opposed nationalization of oil. As a result, Premier Hussein Ala, charged with forming a new government after Razmara's death, was meeting considerable difficulty.

Ghomi's words were almost identical with those of the killer of Razmara. The late Premier was murdered 12 days ago at the door of a mosque in Tehran.

Zanganeh is deputy chancellor of Tehran University and dean of the law faculty.

The shooting coincided with the visit to Tehran of United States Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee. He conferred at length yesterday with Premier Ala on Iran's economic crisis.

Vote on Oil Delayed.

Meanwhile, the Senate postponed until tomorrow a vote expected to complete parliamentary approval of the proposed nationalization of the oil industry. Three Senate committees unanimously backed the nationalization bill yesterday.

The proposal to bring the giant British-controlled Anglo - Iranian Oil Co. under state ownership after a three-month study was approved by the Majlis (lower house) last Thursday.

Pointing up widespread fears among Americans and British that nationalization will mean reduced government revenues from the oil fields and possibly national bankruptcy, the Majlis last night ordered the national bank to call in all large currency notes in an effort to meet back pay demands of irate civil servants and soldiers. The Government owes 600,000 rials (about $18,000) in February wages and apparently is scraping the bottom of the treasury barrel.

$32,500 IN BONDS STOLEN BUT MAY BE HARD TO CASH

Burglars took $32,500 in series E Government bonds from the home of Abraham R. Hurst, 1089 Pennsylvania avenue, University City, yesterday but presumably will have difficulty realizing the cash from their haul.

The bonds are of a non-negotiable type payable only to persons whose names are inscribed on them. To cash them, the burglars would have to forge both signatures and identification.

When Hurst, a salesman, and his wife returned home at 9:45 p.m., they found a front window had been broken and the contents of a metal box, kept in a secretary drawer, had been rifled. The burglary apparently took place after 4 p.m. The intruders also took $10 in cash, but disturbed nothing else.

Price Cut on TV Sets.

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—The Admiral Corp. yesterday announced price cuts on three of its television sets. The cuts ranged from $30 to $40 on sets selling in the $200 and up class.

WILSON SAYS U.S. CAN TAKE DEFENSE OUTPUT IN STRIDE WITHIN 3 YEARS

Production of Consumer Goods Can Be Expanded Then, He Thinks — He Hopes to Avoid Rationing.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said in effect today that America can take its present defense program in stride—a relatively short three-year stride.

Within that time, he said he believed "our production of defense material and building of armed forces will have brought our country both to a point of real military strength and to an even greater military potential."

In the third year, Wilson added, "We ought to be able actually to expand our output of civilian goods, and at the same time, meet our requirements of defense material."

"The capacity is unlimited," he declared. "That's what we really have—capacity unlimited."

Gives Interview.

Wilson expressed his views in a copyrighted interview published by the magazine, "United States News and World Report."

He predicted that defense production will hit a 50-billion-dollar-a-year pace in 1953; the supply of consumer goods will start loosening up late next year; rationing may not be necessary.

He added that "we have an understanding with the military" that defense production at the 50-billion-dollar a year rate over the next three years will meet the needs for arms and materials.

He expressed hope that "we will not need compulsory manpower controls."

He said he did not think "there will be a runaway inflation."

During the changeover in some industries from civilian to military production, Wilson said, "I think we are bound to get dislocations of labor and of other groups." He added, however, he did not believe this would last long.

Of labor's accusations that "big business" controls the defense mobilization program, Wilson said: "I haven't seen any sign of it."

Farm Price Control.

Price Director Michael V. Di Salle ruled today that farm products automatically will be brought under price control whenever producer prices reach a level at which ceilings are permitted.

He explained that the Defense Production Act of 1950 prohibits price controls on any agricultural commodity selling below parity or below the highest price in the period May 24 to June 24, 1950.

The new order provides that the price control exemption now applying to such commodities will be removed within five days after the Secretary of Agriculture announces the producer price has reached or exceeded parity or its legal equivalent. Parity is a formula designed to give the farmer a fair price for his products in relation to prices of the things he buys.

Labor Studies Compromise.

Meanwhile, the United Labor Policy Committee took another look at its terms for returning to active participation in the Government's mobilization set-up.

The committee, made up of 14 of the nation's top labor leaders, studied again the compromise plan of Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston for re-establishing the Wage Stabilization Board.

The board has been inoperative for more than a month. The three labor members walked out in protest against a ceiling on wage levels 10 per cent above Jan. 15, 1950. They acted at the direction of the ULPC, which includes the AFL, CIO and non-operating rail unions.

Strikes have been threatened in the meat packing and shipbuilding industries because no agency is functioning to pass on proposed wage increases.

Still in Disagreement.

The unions and industry groups have agreed to rebuilding the wage board as an 18-man agency—twice its former size—and giving it authority to settle disputes, but they don't agree on the type of disputes it should handle.

Wilson said today a request to labor for a "no strike" pledge probably would be considered by the disputes board if such an agency eventually is set up. Wilson said a no-strike pledge—"if you could get it"—would help in such situations as the recent woolen industry strike. He said that had given "some serious trouble" because it cut the supply of woolens needed for military uniforms.

Johnston's compromise would limit the disputes to three general types: those involving wages for board interpretation; those certified by the President as affecting the national welfare; or those in which the employer and employes agree in advance to be bound by the board's decision.

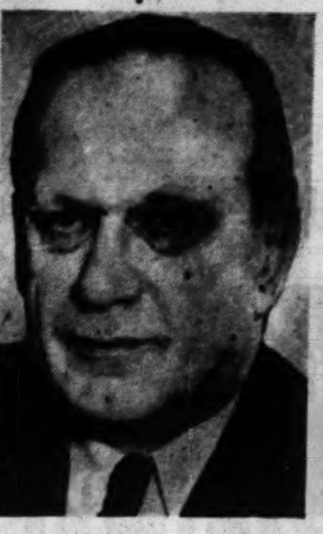
Speakers at Housing Conference



RAYMOND M. FOLEY

EDWARD F. BARRY

development which can result in good housing conditions."

Program Here Praised.

Foley, opening his address, declared it "particularly significant" that the meeting was being held in St. Louis, which he said was "distinguished in its approach to its housing and urban development programs through co-operative effort by business, civic, labor, consumer, press and governmental groups."

Reviewing national progress in the housing field from the end of World War II until the start of the Korean war last June, Foley said housing leaders had "crystalized and confirmed by congressional action a statement of national housing objectives and of a national housing policy."

"Within a month (after start of Korean hostilities) we had shifted our housing programs and policies to a realistic framework of the defense mobilization that was clearly unavoidable," he continued.

Curbs on Housing Credit.

"To avoid inflation and meet the defense demands for materials and manpower, we had to lower our housing production sights. In October we issued comprehensive housing credit controls based on the best estimate we could then make that not more than 800,000 to 850,000 nonfarm housing units could safely be started in 1951. That target still holds, although it is under continuous review and will be modified if defense or economic developments require.

"Such a volume is, of course, too small to continue our housing progress at the rate that we had achieved. It is 40 per cent below the banner record of 1,400,000 units last year. But the cutback is one of necessity, not choice. It is still a large enough volume of home building to enable us to continue to make worthwhile advances in the improvement of our housing supply.

Two Key Questions.

"I think our course in housing and community development hinges chiefly around the answers to two questions: What is the role that housing and community development must play in the defense effort? What is the place of our long-range housing and community objectives under these circumstances?

"With respect to housing for defense, there are two things that should be kept clear. One is that even with a substantial amount of housing built for defense workers this year, most of 1951 housing production will still be available for general use. The second is that defense housing is for people the same as any other housing, and to the extent that it can be well planned and well built, will contribute to our long-term housing progress."

Continued planning by the cities is of great importance, despite present difficulties in obtaining immediate action toward slum clearance and urban redevelopment, Foley went on. The cities should be prepared to move ahead promptly whenever it becomes possible to direct more resources into the programs, he said.

Memphis Experience.

A speaker at the afternoon session, Edward F. Barry, chairman of the Memphis (Tenn.) Housing Authority, said that agency operated under the philosophy that "public housing is a stepping stone from the slums to private housing." In the five years since the end of World War II, he poined out, about 700 families had moved out of the authority's projects and into homes of their own.

Barry had little patience with accusations of socialism sometimes leveled at public housing. Besides Barry, a real estate man, the agency's five-man board includes the president of the Memphis Cotton Exchange, a prominent merchant, a physician and a minister.

"None of us is looking for any socialism," Barry said.

"I don't believe we should continue to risk our security by leaving undone things that make for a better way of living, simply because, for some isolated reason, we refuse to avail ourselves of federal aid or subsidy in providing good homes," he declared. "Good homes pay dividends to any community."

3305 Units in Operation.

The Memphis Housing Authority now operates 3305 public housing units, and 86 additional units are under construction. Barry said it is hoped that 1500 more units can be built within the next three years.

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, speaking at the morning session on "The City and Housing," said that in preparing his talk he had been struck by the "relative novelty of the relationship between cities and the housing of their people."

"Twenty years ago, which is not a long time as such things are measured, nobody would have thought of inviting a mayor to a national housing policy conference," he said. "It wouldn't have been any of his business."

"There was no acceptance then, and no application, of the belief which has now become national policy that government has an obligation to clear slums, to provide for the redevelopment of blighted urban areas, to develop decent public housing for those who cannot buy housing for themselves, to control rents in times of emergency, and to make available the credit on which practically all the construction of the greatest housing boom in history has been based.

"There are not many Americans who like to see government move into what are regarded as primarily our private concerns. It goes against our grain. It is something we do reluctantly, and only by the pressure of necessity.

"But I am sure you will agree with me that this revolutionary change in the relationship of government and housing was brought about by the most extreme of pressures.

"It is my hope that this conference will be an instrument which will help us maintain the unity, the spirit, the realization of acute need which brought about the passage of the National Housing Act.

"Not one problem which that act—which you will remember was supported by Senators as far apart in political philosophy as Robert A. Taft and Robert Wagner—not one problem, I repeat, with which it dealt has been made easier in the two years since its passage.

"The housing shortage for low-income families is as acute.

"The need for slum clearance is as real.

"The necessity for sweeping urban redevelopment is still before us if our cities are to be functional, solvent, and properly productive of decent values, both human and material."

Darst Tells of Progress.

Mayor Darst, who gave his keynote address following a welcoming talk by Gale F. Johnston, president of Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., and conference chairman, described progress in St. Louis toward slum clearance and housing, and said the city's program was backed both by business men and the people as a whole.

"We all face the fact that the total job cannot be accomplished without teamwork between private enterprise and government," he continued. "We are not ashamed of that program because we know that it is democracy at work."

Pointing out that while some interests are at work to destroy the current program, he said these interests had not been successful in St. Louis.

"But we all know of their efforts elsewhere," he added. "If they succeed in destroying the program nationally, we also will see our plans crumble and disappear."

Understanding Sought.

Johnston, in welcoming the delegates, said: "It is our hope that the findings of this conference will aid the nation to know and understand just where we find ourselves today—how great is our future problem—how adequately we are meeting the present situation."

He urged the visitors to participate actively, pointing out that "we want this to be a good, democratic conference in which you can express the feelings that are on your mind."

Bartholomew Speaks.

Harland Bartholomew of St. Louis, noted city planner and third principal speaker on the morning program, told the conference that slum clearance and urban redevelopment are not only good business policy but good public policy "if approached and executed on the basis of the city's comprehensive city plan."

Such programs offer an unprecedented opportunity for large-scale rebuilding of American cities, he continued.

"This is not a Utopian dream," he said. "A realistic appraisal of the average American city today discloses large areas of decadence which are not merely a social liability but actual economic liabilities."

A highlight of tomorrow's program will be an address by William J. Levitt of New York. He is head of Levitt & Sons, mass producers of low- and middle-income homes.

The conference will close with a banquet beginning tomorrow at 7 p.m. to be followed by a talk by United States Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, chairman of the housing subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

FINED $305 AFTER COLLISION WITH POLICE OFFICIAL'S AUTO

Fred Mitchell, 2127 Eugenia avenue, was fined $305 today and his driver's license was revoked for a year by Police Judge James H. Connor after Mitchell, whose automobile collided with a police vehicle yesterday, pleaded guilty of careless and drunken driving and driving without a city license.

Mitchell's machine struck Assistant Chief Joseph Casey's car when it was being driven by Police Department Chauffeur Richard Carney, who said the collision resulted when Mitchell made a wide right turn from Papin street into Eighteenth street.

$225 Robbery at Market.

About $225 was taken early yesterday in a burglary at Reisner's Market, 2001 North Broadway. The money was taken from the cash register and a cigar box under the counter. Entrance was gained by cutting a small hole in the plate glass of the front door so the latch could be reached.

INQUIRY BY JURY ON EX-SHERIFF HARRELL ORDERED

Court Denies Publisher's Petition for Special Prosecutor to Replace Lewis.

The Madison county grand jury was ordered today by Circuit Judge Edward F. Bareis at Edwardsville to investigate the administration of former Sheriff Dallas T. Harrell, who has been accused of permitting open and notorious gambling during his term of office.

Judge Bareis denied a petition filed by Paul Simon, youthful publisher of the weekly Troy (Ill.) Tribune, asking for appointment of a special prosecutor to replace State's Attorney Austin Lewis.

Lewis, who resisted Simon's motion, said he would call Simon and "14 or 15 other witnesses" to testify and would present any witnesses who might wish to appear. He said most of the witnesses were being called at the request of the Madison County Ministerial Alliance.

Anti-Gambling Campaigner.

Simon, who has conducted an editorial campaign against wide-open gambling, filed a complaint with Lewis in January requesting that the grand jury investigate Harrell.

He said during 1949 and 1950 gambling in the county was widespread. The largest casinos were the Hyde Park Club in Venice and the 200 Club in Madison. Both have been closed since a raid by state police last May.

In an appearance before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee last month Harrell, who left office in December, admitted there was a great deal of gambling during his administration. He said it was his policy to police unincorporated areas and leave law enforcement in communities to local officials.

Simon appeared at a hearing which followed impaneling of the grand jury today. In response to questioning by Judge Bareis he said he felt that Lewis "might be embarrassed" since the prosecutor had acted as Harrell's legal advisor during 1949 and 1950. An Illinois Bar Association investigation of Lewis's conduct of office during the same period has also been requested by the publisher.

"You Will Be Called."

Denying the petition, Judge Bareis, addressing Simon, said: "I think you are sincere in what you are trying to do. However, the state's attorney has given his assurance that you will be called before the grand jury and can have any witnesses subpenaed that you care to.

"I have instructed the grand jury that if it feels any matter has not been fully presented and its members request me to appoint a special prosecutor, I will do so."

Judge Bareis said that Simon had made general allegations that the state's attorney had interests adverse to the rights of the people but had failed to present specific facts.

Lewis, who said he would present about 35 routine cases to the investigative body before taking up the gambling matters, declared he had offered to file any complaint Simon might make against Harrell and that he would assist in preparation of the charge.

Zoo Given Deadly Palm Viper Brought to City in Bananas

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
A 20-inch palm viper poses unwillingly at the zoo.

The St. Louis Zoo had on exhibit today a venomous palm viper—the only specimen in its collection—which arrived here via a bunch of green bananas and was discovered when a freight car was unloaded Saturday.

A workman for M. Rizzo & Co., wholesale banana dealers at 907 North Fourth street, found the 20-inch snake entwined around a stem of bananas as the fruit was being stored for ripening. It was captured and turned over to the zoo.

Moody Lentz, general curator for the zoo, said the snake is a pit viper, olive green with a band of orange on the side. It gets its name from its habit of taking refuge in palm trees in Central America, he said, and is very poisonous. Most snakes arriving here on fruit from Central America are of the harmless type, he added.

CASE DISMISSED, NOTE WRITER ASKS TO PLEAD GUILTY

Anderson B. Topp, Negro, today joined the list of letter writers who lash off notes in rash moments and then wish they hadn't.

Topp was called before Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood on a charge of tampering with an automobile. On motion of Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph L. Walsh the charge was dismissed because of "lack of evidence."

Following the court session, Judge Kirkwood retired to his chambers and looked through the morning mail. In it was a letter from Topp, written Saturday in a cell in the city jail.

"Judge, your honor, will you please call me over," the letter read. 'I want to plead guilty on the charge they got me on."

Walsh said that in view of the letter he would reinstate the case and permit the defendant to plead guilty. Topp, who lives in the 3200 block of LaSalle street, was arrested Jan. 20 by a watchman at a parking lot in the 700 block of South Spring avenue. The watchman said he found Topp in one of the parked cars.

Collapses in Restaurant, Dies.

Martin W. Davis, a clerk at the Eden Hotel, 1719A Market street, collapsed last night, apparently of a heart attack, in a restaurant at 1727 Market street, and died on the way to Barnes Hospital. Police said the 61-year-old man had over $800 on his person.

RECEPTION GUESTS SURPRISE MAYOR ON HIS BIRTHDAY

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Delegates to the National Housing Policy Conference last night turned an informal reception for themselves into a surprise birthday party for Mayor Joseph M. Darst.

The Mayor, himself, had sent out the engraved invitations for the reception so the delegates could get acquainted, but somehow the word out out it was the Mayor's sixty-second birthday and when he and Mrs. Darst arrived they became the guests of honor.

A large birthday cake, bearing one candle, was produced and Darst and former Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann huffed and puffed in unison until they blew it out.

While the Mayor and Mrs. Darst beamed, the 250 guests, led by Gale F. Johnston, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., and chairman of the housing conference, sang "Happy Birthday."

YOUTH AND GIRL KILLED IN AUTO, TRUCK COLLISION

Vehicles Crash Near Sylvan Beach Bridge — Coupe Said to Have Been in Wrong Lane.

Charles E. Burnett, 17 years old, a filling station attendant, and his companion, Doris Meade, 15, were killed last night when an automobile in which they were riding crashed against a truck on United States Highway 66 about 200 feet west of the Sylvan Beach bridge in St. Louis county.

Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Burnett, 1735 South Eighteenth street, was driving east in a light coupe. The truck, going west, was driven by Harold A. Ocheskey, Hermann (Mo.) farmer.

Ocheskey said he was driving in his outer lane when he saw Burnett on the wrong side of the highway coming toward him. Ocheskey swerved to the left in an effort to avoid a collision, he said, but the youth swerved to the right at the same time. The coupe struck the right side of the truck.

Burnett and the Meade girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Meade, 1815A South Jefferson avenue, were pronounced dead on arrival at County Hospital.

Panama (Ill.) Man Killed When Auto Hits Stopped Truck.

Joseph Lewandowski, Panama, Ill., was killed when his automobile crashed against the rear of a stopped Kroger Grocery Co. truck at United States Highway 40 and the Highland-Marine road near Highland, Ill., early today.

The truck driver, Leonard Hart, 3236 Morganford road, told Illinois Highway Police he had halted his vehicle because of a stop sign at the intersection. Lewandowski, 37 years old, was pronounced dead at St. Joseph's Hospital, Highland.

Two Are Injured in Crash of Auto Against Telephone Pole.

Harold Hoggard, 5230 Helen avenue, Jennings, was injured seriously when his stepson, Fred Crites, 16 years old, lost control of their automobile and crashed against a telephone pole on Lemay Ferry road, one mile south of Mehlville, early yesterday. Crites also was injured.

Hoggard, a mechanic, was taken to DePaul Hospital suffering from a cerebral concussion and a fractured jaw. His stepson was treated for fractured ribs at County Hospital and released. The telephone pole was broken off.

Held for Murder

PETER D. SAUNDERS

YOUTH GOES WEST, KILLS AND ROBS MAN, BUYS COWBOY GARB

YUMA, Ariz., March 19 (AP)—A 16-year-old youth from the East has admitted killing a railroad employe, robbing him and buying cowboy clothes with part of the loot.

Peter Donald Saunders is charged with first-degree murder. He said he forged travelers' checks found in his victim's pockets, bought $108 worth of western gear and got a job as a ranch hand.

The youth quit the job shortly because, he said, it didn't require horseback riding.

He told officers: "It still doesn't seem I killed a man."

Saunders, of Corona, Long Island, N.Y., verbally confessed the Feb. 14 shooting of Leonard Rexford Fenton, 40, Los Angeles railroader. Sheriff Jim Washum said the wire-recorded confession was made to him and Yuma County Attorney F. Lewis Ingraham Saturday night. Earlier Saunders had claimed the shooting was accidental.

'LOST WEEKEND' AUTHOR FINED AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., March 19 (UP)—Charles R. Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend," was fined $75 in district court for drunken driving.

Jackson, 48 years old, was arrested Saturday by state police and charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Postman's Problem.

ANAHEIM, Calif.—Soon the North Clementine street postman will always have to ring twice.

E. E. Smith lives at No. 621. A house is being completed next door, at 625, to be occupied by a man named Smith, initials E. E., and no relation.

Oversized Loot.

PHILADELPHIA — A man walked up to Ronald Martin, knocked him down, took a bass fiddle he had been holding, jumped into a car and drove off with the fiddle.

Martin was waiting for a streetcar when he was attacked. He said he had no idea who had slugged him. The fiddle was worth $275, he said.

New-Style Fire Alarm.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Imagine going to a neighbor's place to watch television, then hearing the program interrupted to tell you to go home—because your house is on fire. That's what happened to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stengel.

Knowing the couple was viewing TV in one of the nearby homes, other neighbors called station WDTV when they saw the Stengel house aflame. The station interrupted its program and broadcast the message. The Stengels ran home and found the fire under control and their young son, Thomas, safe.

3 PLEAD NOT GUILTY IN TAX FRAUD CASES

Two Others Defer Replies at Arraignment in U.S. District Court.

Three persons indicted on charges of federal income tax evasion pleaded not guilty when arraigned in United States District Court today. Two others deferred their pleas.

Those who entered not guilty pleas through their attorneys were William G. Bigalte, president of the Bigalte Electric Co., 5400 Gravois avenue; Frank H. Niehaus, an undertaker at 1431 Union boulevard, and George J. Seeger, Creve Coeur dealer in tractors and farm machinery.

Bigalte, who lives at 6517 Itaska street, was charged with evading taxes totaling $6290 in 1945 and 1946.

Niehaus was accused of evading payment of $52,967 for 1944 and 1945. He lives near Ladue and Mosley roads, Creve Coeur.

Seeger was charged with underestimating his income for 1945, 1946 and 1947 to evade payment of $30,101.

Vernon Anderson, Negro, operator of a tavern at 2800A Delmar boulevard, who was charged with evading payment of $24,571 in the years 1944 through 1948, appeared in court with two attorneys, but his plea was deferred until April 6.

Dr. Samuel M. Rich, dentist with an office at 6508 Delmar, University City, charged with evading payment of $18,820 in 1946, 1947 and 1948, came into court without a lawyer. He told Judge George H. Moore he wanted time for selection of an attorney, and was given until March 30.

HELICOPTERS PICK UP 16 U.S. WOUNDED IN ENEMY AREA

ON THE CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, March 19 (UP)—Helicopters rescued a group of 16 wounded American soldiers recently from behind enemy lines, a Second Division spokesman revealed today.

Chinese Communists captured the Americans Feb. 12 in the "Massacre valley" ambush north of Hoengsong. All had received medical aid and reported no mistreatment.

A Seventeenth member of the group died before he could be rescued.

Communist troops had retreated three days before from the area where the men were found by Marine helicopter pilots. The Reds had left food with the wounded.

One of the two men who were able to walk said the Chinese had planned to return them in trucks close to Allied lines but United Nations planes destroyed the trucks in an air strike.

ST. LOUIS AREA TEAM-OF-FOUR WINS BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

The first knockout team-of-four contract bridge championship to be sponsored by the American Contract Bridge League of St. Louis closed yesterday after three days of play at the Lennox Hotel with a St. Louis area team winning.

The winners in the Southwestern team-of-four event were Mrs. Braham Benjamin, 7401 Oxford drive, Clayton; Mrs. Philip Steinberg, 6954 Amherst avenue, University City; Edward Melchior, 3119 Osage street, and Earl Ochs, 5665A Maple avenue. The open individual championship was won by Herbert W. Allen, Greenup, Ill.

Two teams finished in a tie in the men's pair event. They were Millard P. Kaiser, Missouri Athletic Club, who teamed with George DeRuntz, 4163 Fairview avenue, and Robert M. Woodworth, 412 Greeley avenue, Webster Groves, and John H. Sanders, 7025 Northmoor drive, University City. Other winners were Mrs. Charles Newbill, 8105 Madison avenue, St. Louis county; Mrs. George Weiner, 7536 York drive, Clayton, in the women's pair; Mrs. Charles J. Sweeney, 1413 Rowan avenue, and Garrett Nash, 3201 Barrett avenue, in the mixed pair.

Modern Way to Get Ahead: Marry Union Chief's Daughter

NEW YORK, March 19 (INS)—Many young men once were aided up the ladder of success by following the adage "marry the boss's daughter."

Now the advice of Dr. James F. Bender, director of the National Institute of Human Relations, to young men is "marry the union leader's daughter."

Dr. Bender told the National Association for Training Directors that "the union leader's suggestions about promotions are listened to with acquiescent breath by many a company president." The union chief, he added, also knows his way around state capitals and Washington, D.C., "where he can often do somebody a lot of good."

Dr. Bender advised not to long for beauties among the daughters of union chiefs but added: "Just remember beauty is only skin deep. She'll be tenderly grateful and so will her father. . . ."

day silence, announced "holding elements are 17 miles from the thirty-eighth parallel at five points." It did not locate the points. Holding elements presumably are capable of holding their ground against heavy attack.

The brief announcement said patrols were operating "miles north" of the five points and in all other sectors. It did not say how many miles.

Base Apparently Given Up.

Reports to Eighth Army headquarters also indicated the Reds had abandoned well-prepared defenses alon gthe Hongchon, south of Chunchon.

The Eighth Army said Monday mid-afternoon there had been no contact worthy of the name with Reds in 72 hours.

But there was flashing air action.

Twenty-four F-80 Shooting Stars, flying under cover of 12 F-86 Saber jets, firebombed, rocketed and strafed the airfield at Sinuiju on the Yalu river boundary between Manchuria and Korea. The attack was within sight of the Red air base at Antung, just across the river in Manchuria.

Several Russian-made MIG-15 jets took off from the Antung airfield but did not attack the American planes.

Twelve more F-80s joined the flight attacking Sinuiju. The 36 Shooting Stars then pounded rail targets near Sinuiju and Huichon and destroyed three locomotives and 50 railroad cars.

Hungnam Bombed by B-29s.

Wonsan itself was bombarded by the United States battleship Missouri. It was the thirty-first consecutive day Wonsan had been shelled.

The Navy reported 400 Chinese Communist troops were killed or wounded Saturday by the bombardment of the Wonsan area. Enemy shore batteries replied, hitting a South Korean minesweeper. Three Koreans were killed and eight wounded.

An undisclosed number of Communist planes dropped flares for the second successive night Sunday over American positions near Hongchon on the central front.

Allied patrols probed (arrows) within a few miles of the thirty-eighth parallel while holding forces set up defenses (sawtooth line) 17 miles from the boundary. Blast symbols mark United Nations air strikes at major targets. The port city of Wonsan also was blasted by the battleship Missouri.

MOSCOW RADIO SAYS RED CHINA AIMS TO DESTROY 'AGGRESSORS' IN KOREA

LONDON, March 19 (AP).

THE Moscow radio broadcast yesterday a Red China report declaring Communist Chinese troops are determined to fight in Korea until the "aggressors" are annihilated.

The broadcast, heard here, quoted the Communist New China news agency in a lengthy attack on the "cruel and inhuman crimes"—including the repeated charge of the use of the poison gas—committed by the Americans in Korea.

It ended with the statement that the Chinese Communist troops "are filled with determination to fight shoulder to shoulder with the men of the Korean Peoples' (North Korean) army until the troops of the aggressors who have invaded Korea are completely annihilated."

TRUMAN TOLD HIM RFC CLEANUP WAS NEEDED, SAYS ROWE

"'Walter, why do you thing I telephoned you that day in Florida?'

"And he replied, 'Because you were trying to be kind to me.'"

Investigator on Stand.

Because of the disparity between the sworn statements of directors Rowe and Dunham, chairman Fulbright resorted to the unusual step of swearing in his chief investigator, Theodore Herz.

Herz testified that Dunham, while in Florida, had telephoned him and stated, during the conversation, had said:

"'I think I'd better come back there—I'm a little disturbed about what some of my colleagues want me to do.'"

Earlier, in a prepared statement, Rowe denied he had ever been guilty of any wrongdoing or use of influence in connection with RFC loans. He stanchly defended a $225,000 RFC loan to the Harrington & Richardson Arms Co., of Worchester, Mass., a company he controls as the largest single stockholder, pointing out that the loan had been both made and repaid before he took his new post as RFC director last September. He has since resigned from the company's board.

He insisted, moreover, that nothing extraordinary had been done in the granting of the loan, although Director William E. Willett testified last month he had departed from customary procedure in the RFC by personally selecting a new examiner in the Harrington & Richardson loan, as a "favor" to his friend Rowe. Preceding RFC examiners had turned the loan down, but Hubert Steele, the special man picked by Willett, recommended favorable action on the loan application.

Cosgriff Statement.

Another director, Walter E. Cosgriff, in a statement to the subcommittee, declared he has seen no evidence of an influence ring operation around RFC since he took office last Oct. 12. He said he considers the other board members to be "honest and capable" men. The subcommittee has never criticized Cosgriff.

If there is such an influence clique, he said, "they did not see fit to include me in their activities."

In advance of the directors, the subcommittee heard Willard E. Unzicker, who resigned Friday as assistant controller of the RFC. Unzicker said in a statement then that the RFC board had created an "administrative mess" by "hasty, unbusinesslike actions."

With tears in his eyes, Unzicker told the Senators he believes RFC employes "would walk out almost in a body" if they were financially able to give up their jobs. "We used to walk around with our heads up and our chins out, but that no longer is true," he said.

Unzicker, who has been with the RFC since 1932, urged that the agency be continued but with its five-man board of directors replaced by a single administrator. "I mean today," he said in urging reorganization of the agency.

Unzicker said he knows only what he "read in the paper" about influence in RFC loan policies.

Says All Should Quit.

Over the weekend Cosgriff asserted that all present RFC top management "must get out to restore public confidence and employe morale." He said attacks on the agency made it impossible to stay and that RFC is threatened with a paralyzing rash of resignations. Cosgriff said he would like to resign except that he dislikes the idea of "deserting a ship in distress."

Cosgriff, who said he is a life-Long Republican, told the subcommittee today that "no one at the White House" ever tried to influence him "nor has any director at any time intimated to me that the White House was interested in the outcome of any uending matter." He said "the same is true" of both the Democratic and Republican national committees.

Cosgriff said the board is entitled to credit for tightening RFC rules and invoking economies that will save many millions of dollars a year.

Rowe conceded that he had, as the subcommittee reported, recommended that a firm of auctioners from Worcester, Mass., the home town of "Rowe's business enterprise," handle the sale of some disputed properties on which RFC had foreclosed.

Firm Did Good Job.

The auction firm, Aaron Krock & Co., he said, did a "pre-eminently successful" job and the RFC got more money than it expected from the sale.

"From reading the report," he protested, "one would gather that Aaron Krock first appeared on the RFC scene after I became a director. Actually, he has been employed as an auctioneer by the RFC on several occasions since the RFC's inception."

Rowe urged the group to declare now that:

1. "I did not become a director of the RFC until Oct. 3, 1950, less than five months ago;
2. "Your committee has never charged I have been guilty of abuses of authority as a director of the RFC.
3. "The loan negotiated by Harrington & Richardson Arms Co. was proper and sound;
4. "An exhaustive investigation of my conduct proves I have acted in a perfectly ethical and legal manner."

2½ MILLION IN U.S. LOANS WILL HELP MINK COAT SUPPLY

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The Government has put up more than $2,600,000 in loans to raisers of potential mink coats and silver fox capes in the past 22 months, it was disclosed today.

The money was advanced by the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration under a program of financial aid to "distressed" farmers which Congress approved early in 1949.

The average loan to fur ranchers was six times as big as similar loans to growers of such farm staples as wheat and corn. Fur loans averaged $6700, compared with $1150 for staple commodities.

Marcus B. Braswell, director of its disaster loan division, said the largest fur loan was $300,000 but he refused to say, as a matter of policy, who got it. He said 397 fur loans ranging "from $500 up" have been made.

The disaster loans are designed to give financial aid to farms whose crops are hard hit by pests and bad weather and to fur farmers unable to borrow needed funds from private institutions.

TAVERN MAN FOUND SHOT IN HIS LIVING QUARTERS

Charles Clarke, 19 year-old husband of the operator of the Green Lantern Tavern, Chambers and Halls Ferry road, St. Louis county, was in critical condition at St. Louis County Hospital today after being found shot in the right chest yesterday in living quarters in the rear of the tavern.

The bartender, Alex Jetton, said he and Clarke were cleaning up the tavern yesterday morning when Clarke went to a bedroom in the rear. Jetton said he heard a shot and ran back finding Clarke lying on his back on the bed and a rifle on the floor.

Mrs. Betty Clarke, who is 35 years old and holds the tavern license, told deputies her husband had been in good spirits. She was visiting at a nearby tavern at the time Clarke was found shot, deputies said.

30-Month-Old Boy Dies After Fall From Banister Rail in His Home

Firmin Desloge Fusz III Had Been Playing in Hall — Accident Seen by Father.

FIRMIN DESLOGE FUSZ III

Firmin Desloge Fusz III, 30-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Firmin Desloge Fusz Jr., died yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital of head injuries suffered Saturday in a fall from a banister rail of the Fusz home, 320 Bristol road, Webster Groves.

The fall was witnessed by his father, a partner in the firm of Fusz, Schmelzle & Co., investment brokers, who ran into the hallway in time to pick the child up. He summoned two physicians, who ordered the boy taken to the hospital.

Before the fall, the child was playing in the upper hall with his sisters, Ann, 6 years old, and Ellen, 4. Surviving, in addition to his parents, is a third sister, Catherine, 8.

His mother, the former Catherine Cowhey, is the second Mrs. Fusz. The first, Mrs. Edna Lawrence Fusz, was killed in 1936 in an automobile accident in Michigan.

The child was the grandson of the late Firmin Desloge Fusz, former head of the old Regina Milling Co., who died in 1945 of a head injury suffered in a fall on an ice-covered driveway.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Holy Redeemer Church, Webster Groves, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

SOUTH KOREAN GOVERNMENT NOT GOING BACK TO SEOUL

PUSAN, Korea, March 19 (UP)—The South Korean government decided today not to return to Seoul for the time being.

Instead, it will send 112 selected officials into the recaptured capital. Syngman Rhee's government also decided to provide free train service to farmers wishing to return to their homes below Wonju.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur has warned that in the present war of maneuver Seoul cannot be considered secure.

East St. Louis Machine Said to Have Made Proposal in Fight on McRoberts Slate.

Representatives of the East St. Louis City Hall machine have offered two Republican Negro leaders $13,000 to quit working for the slate of candidates headed by mayoral candidate James W. McRoberts, it was charged in political talks made yesterday.

The charge was made by Tom Lewis and Elitor Wallace, both of whom worked for the City Hall machine before Dan McGlynn, East Side Republican boss, broke with Police Commissioner John T. English last summer. McGlynn is supporting the McRoberts slate.

Lewis said the offers were made to him about two weeks ago. He and Wallace were to receive the money, he said, merely for "sitting out" the campaign, which will end with the election April 3.

McRoberts, speaking in another meeting at Czech National Hall, 1102 North Eleventh street, said the City Hall group was using "high pressure" methods to whip precinct workers into line.

He said a raid led by Sheriff Max L. Hill on Tom Lewis's Cosmopolitan Club, 1644 Bond avenue, Friday night, was carried out as part of a campaign of intimidation. Deputy sheriffs seized 13 slot machines, which were stored in the basement.

McRoberts, an attorney, said gambling operations have been carried on with the blessing of some commissioners seeking reelection. He pointed out that a brother of one City Council candidate, Dan Foley of the East Side Levee Board, was associated with a handbook and dice game.

Leveling on his opponent for Mayor, Street Commissioner Alvin G. Fields, McRoberts said: "There is more payroll padding in his street department than in any other at the City Hall."

Chief Deputy Sheriff Edward Keiflien of St. Clair county, who is supporting the Fields slate of candidates, denied McRoberts's charges that slot machines were being operated in the back room of a tavern owned by him. He said there are no slot machines in the tavern and that he has had no connection with operation of the business since he took office in December.

BISHOP HOLT WARNS OF TIE OF GAMBLERS, GOVERNMENT

Methodist Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis spoke yesterday at the opening of the new Normandy Methodist Church, 8001 Glen Echo drive, Normandy. He said the Kefauver hearings here should serve as a warning to church groups that they must band together to prevent the tie between gambling interests and government.

An overflow crowd attended the initial morning services to hear Bishop Holt's talk. The Rev. Dr. B. L. Schubel, superintendent of the St. Louis District of the Methodist Church, spoke at the evening services.

Ministers of other Methodist churches here will speak at the new church each night this week through Good Friday.

CITY, U.S. AGREE ON TRANSFER OF VANDEVENTER PLACE LOTS

The Government has reached agreement with the City of St. Louis for the acquisition of 14 city-owned lots in Vandeventer place where the new John J. Cochran Veterans' Hospital will be constructed, Charles J. Hughes, head of the condemnation division of the United States district attorney's office, reported today.

In a report to United States District Judge Ruby M. Hulen, Hughes said the city had been given a judgment for $23,500 for the lots, based on a price of $35 per front foot. The city acquired the lots because of non-payment of taxes.

DICKSON S. STAUFFER NAMED OPS LEATHER, FUR CHIEF

Dickson S. Stauffer, formerly of St. Louis and now living in Mount Pleasant, Pa., has been appointed chief of the leather, furs and fibers branch of the Office of Price Stabilization, it was announced today in Washington. He was one of 23 men named to OPS posts by Director Michael V. DiSalle.

Stauffer, who is 66 years old, retired last year as vice president of International Shoe Co. after 25 years with the firm. He lived here at 6630 Pershing avenue, University City.

GRAU, EX-LEADER OF CUBA, NAMED IN 40-MILLION FRAUD

Accused of 'Principal Responsibility' in Alleged Theft or Misuse of Public Funds.

HAVANA, March 19 (AP) — Former Cuban President Ramon Grau San Martin stood accused today of "principal responsibility" in the alleged theft or misappropriation of more than $40,000,000 of Government money.

Judge Federico Justiniani, after many months' investigation of charges that Grau's government mishandled more than $174,000,000 in Government funds, indicted the former President and 10 men closely associated with him during his 1944-48 presidential term on charges of criminal responsibility.

Grau was not ordered to prison because he twice had occupied the presidential chair, the first time from Sept. 10, 1933, until Jan. 15, 1934. He was required to post bond.

Makes No Comment.

No comment was immediately forthcoming from Grau on the indictment. In the past he and his followers have denied the accusations, terming them maneuvers by their political opponents. Grau and Cuba's present President, Carlos Prio Socarras, had been friends for many years but split in a political dispute after Prio took office in 1948.

Grau's former minister of education, the late Jose Manuel Aleman, was named with his chief as a principal in the alleged fraud. Aleman died last March, leaving property holdings in Cuba and Miami, Fla., estimated to be worth from $50,000,000 to $150,000,000. The indictment charged wholesale mishandling of education funds.

The court asked Congress to waive immunity from arrest for two of its members named in the indictment, Senator Carlos Arazoza Forcade and Representative Armando de Lama. Three other defendants were ordered to post bonds of $10,000 each.

Exonerated of Some Acts.

Judge Justiniani last January exonerated Grau from one phase of the alleged mishandlings, law violations in connection with Cuba's complex sugar differntial statute.

Of the peculations charged in the current indictment, however, the judge said the ex-President "knew of these shameful events" and defied Congress in keeping them going. Under Cuba's legal system, the investigating judge issues an indictment rather than a grand jury, as in the United States.

SNOWSLIDE HURLS 7 BOYS 1000 FEET, ONLY ONE INJURED

MILLINOCKET, Me., March 19 (AP)—Caught in a swirling, roaring snowslide on the perilous heights of mile-high Mt. Katahdin, seven Phillips Exeter Academy students were hurled more than a 1000 feet down the mountainside yesterday.

One of the boys, Richard Greene of Leavenworth, Wash., was injured. A snow pick plunged into his thigh. He suffered loss of blood and shock. None of the others was hospitalized.

Perry Greene, Waldoboro resident, who was attempting a winter ascent of the mountain with a group of Boy Scouts, set out by dog sled—he has eight chinooks —with two of his party. They gave first aid to the injured boy.

Young Greene, who is no relation to Perry Greene, was hauled down the mountain nine miles by dog sled, then taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Sign of the Times.

UPLAND, Calif., March 19 (UP) —City councilmen moved today to abolish an old ordinance forbidding motorists to park a car on Euclid avenue without placing a pan of sand beneath it.

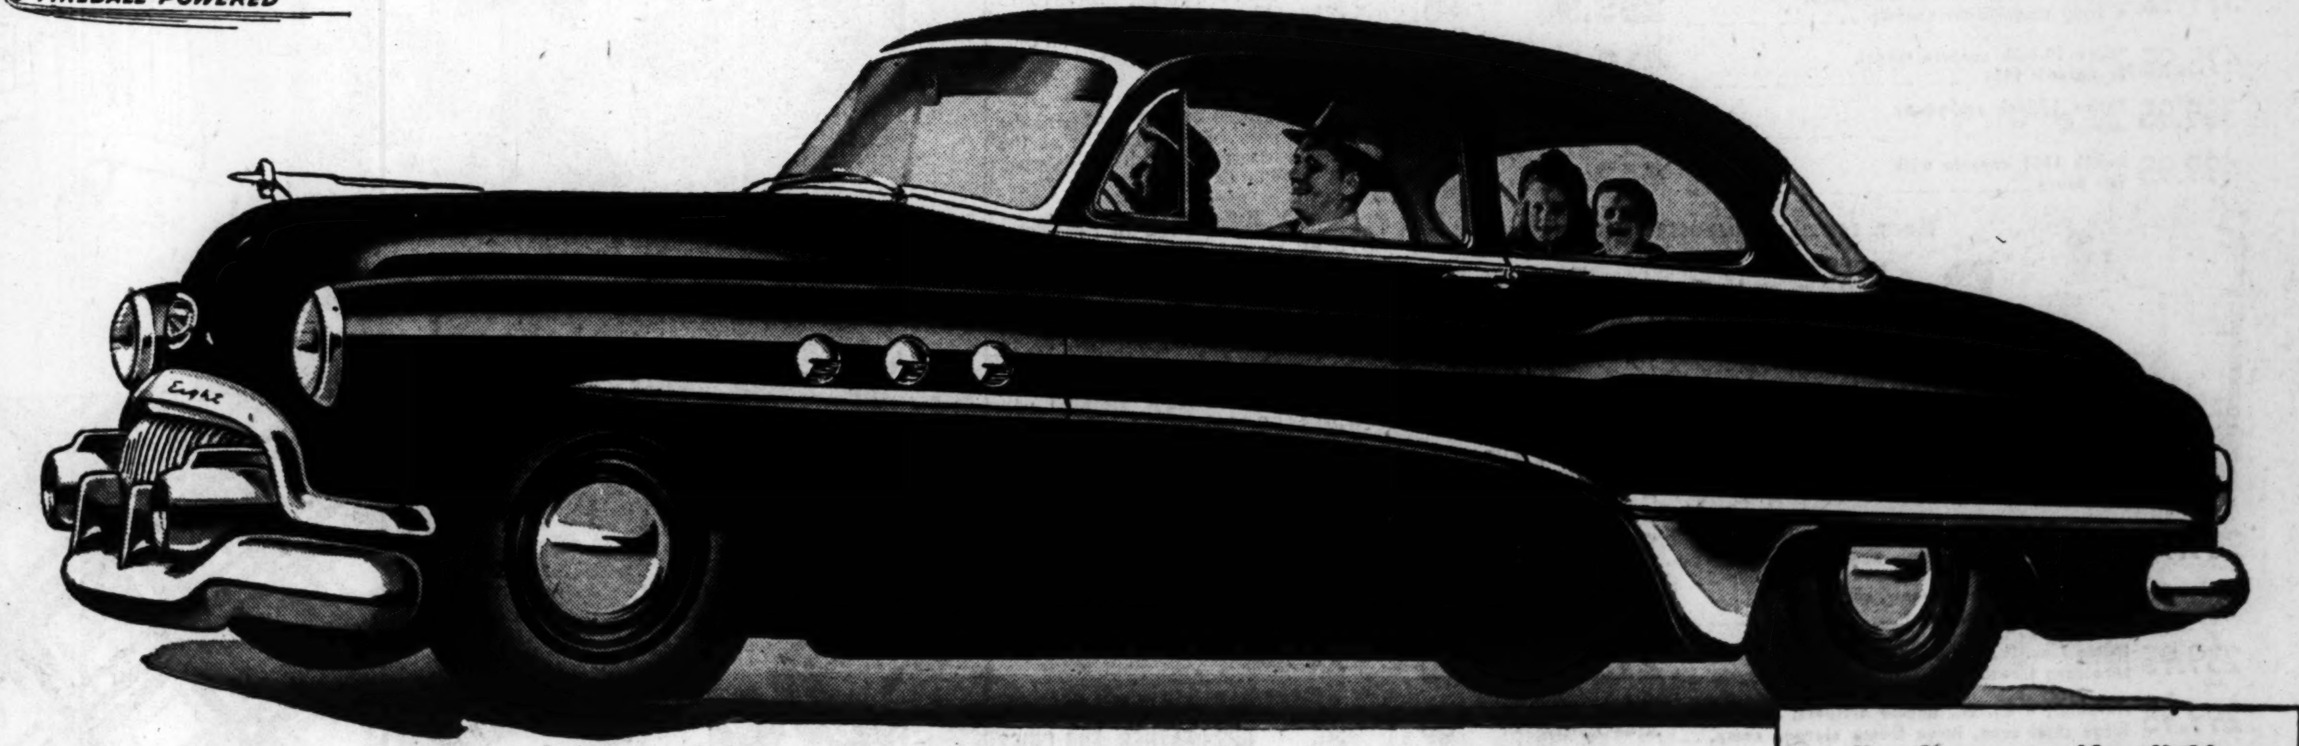
Powered for thrills-Priced for thrift!
FIREBALL POWERED



Here, packed in 3,615 nimble pounds and 204.8 inches of over-all length, is the car marvel of '51.
In the few short weeks since it started to roll off the assembly lines, it has written a bright new page in automotive history for the low-priced field.
What Buick engineers have done is come up with a brand-new high-style body—new in every contour and dimension.
They've designed a brand-new, weight-saving frame, exclusively for this SPECIAL.
Then they've added the power-packed F-263 Fireball engine—which was new in the 1950 SUPER—and just wait till you see what that does for this nimble performer.
There's a power-to-weight ratio that spells thrill and thrift in operation—at a first cost that's just a breath away from the lowest price level.
We'd like you to see and drive this newest Buick marvel—find out for yourself what a honey it is to handle, and what a cinch it is to buy. Why not drop in and see us the very first chance you get?
Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

JEWISH PLEA FOR $5,000,000

TRENTON, N.J., March 19 (AP)—The United Jewish Appeal issued an emergency plea yesterday for $5,000,000 within the next two weeks to finance a "salvation shuttle service" to move Iraq Jews to Israel.

Moritz M. Gottlieb of Allentown, Pa., national U.J.A. chairman for regions made the nationwide appeal at a meeting here. Speakers said violence and freezing of Jewish funds in Iraq are creating a desperate situation and producing the largest refugee movement to Israel in recent years.

ONE FROM AREA KILLED IN KOREA AND TWO WOUNDED

Pfc. Oliver B. Kupferle Lost Life Feb. 22—Two Others Reported Missing in Action.

Pfc. Oliver B. Kupferle, 7425 Dale avenue, Richmond Heights, was killed in action in Korea, the Defense Department announced last night.

Two other St. Louis area men were reported wounded and two as missing in action in casualty lists issued last night and today.

Kupferle, 20 years old, was killed Feb. 22. He had served a year in the Army after his graduation from Maplewood-Richmond Heights High School. After attending Washington University for one semester as an electrical engineering student, he was called back to active duty last August. He and his father, Oliver M. Kupferle, had lived for 17 years with Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hennessy at the Dale avenue address.

Wounded Third Time.

Pfc. James W. Evans, Negro, 4921 Page boulevard, was wounded for the third time Feb. 14. His left arm was injured, and he has been evacuated to Percy Jones Army Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich. He is 22. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Evans.

Pfc. Oliver L. Dahm, 27, son of Mrs. Erma C. Dahm, 103 South Thirty-fourth street, Belleville, was wounded slightly Feb. 12 and is being treated at an Army hospital in Japan. He was drafted last October.

Pvt. James Thomas Jr., Negro, 3030 Madison street, has been missing since Feb. 12. He is 20. He enlisted in the Army last May after graduation from Vashon High School. He was sent to Korea in October.

Cpl. Theodore Thornton, Negro, 24, formerly of 782 Aubert avenue, has been reported missing. He was drafted in 1945 and served for a time in Germany and Italy. His sister, Mrs. Winston Jones, lives at 64 Vandeventer place.

Other Missouri soldiers killed in action were Sgt. Duncan N. Daugherty, Weston; Cpl. Floyd N. Falconer, Sedalia, and Pfc. Fred G. McCormick, Moberly.

Missourians wounded in action included Pfc. Calvin E. Ashley, Clinton; Pfc. Walter W. Ellison, Sullivan; Cpl. James W. Laden, Hornersville; Pfc. Vernon O. Simmon, Hemple; Pvt. Billy G. Sloan, Joplin; Pfc. Thomas J. Underwood, Fredericktown, and Marine Pfc. John Valenciano, Kansas City. Cpl. Donald J. Handley of St. Joseph was injured.

Missourians Missing.

Missouri soldiers missing in action were Cpl. Crystal M. Green, Kansas City; Sgt. John W. Parkey, Montgomery City; Sgt. Harry E. Potter, New Madrid; Pfc. Lowell D. Shipman, Galena; Pfc. Contee L. Switzer, Kansas City; Pfc. Chester E. Tharp, Marquand, and Pvt. David Woodruff, Poplar Bluff.

Among the Illinois soldiers killed in action were Cpl. Rex Gordon Johnson, Milford; Pfc. Glen Orlie Sachteleben, St. Peter, and Cpl. William E. Hopkins, Hoopeston.

Illinoisans wounded in action included Sgt. Cecil Jerome Baldwin, Anna; Cpl. Jack Ray Perkins, Coello; Sgt. George Sharpe Jr., Cuba; Pvt. William Eugene Thouvenin, Centralia; Pfc. Bobbie Lee Williams, McLeansboro; Marine Cpl. Marlin Sidney Johnson, Morris; Pfc. George J. Breckenridge, Lewistown, and Cpl. Monroe L. Law, Rock Falls. Sgt. Wayne Albert Reyniers of Pontiac was injured.

NEW WONDER ELECTRONIC EAR HIDES DEAFNESS

CHICAGO, ILL. (Special)—A fabulous new electronic ear which miraculously conceals deafness was revealed by an eminent Chicago acoustical scientist.

In an exclusive interview with the Business Research Associates, he disclosed that "through the miracle of modern electronics it is now possible for millions of hard of hearing to recapture their loss without a button showing in either ear."

In a remarkable demonstration he showed how his tiny revolutionary electronic discovery has rendered old style hearing aids obsolete.

Pointing out that his invention gives new hope to those who have heretofore refused to wear a hearing aid with a conspicuous ear button or head-band, he said that "this electronic ear transmits even whispers with startling clarity."

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new wonder discovery which hides deafness, full details will be sent in a plain wrapper without obligation to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Director, 696-D Beltone Building, 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill. A penny postcard will do.

SOVIET, CHINESE FORCES PUT AT 8,000,000 MEN

British War Minister Estimates Russian Ground Army at 2,800,000.

By JOHN RODERICK

LONDON, March 19 (AP)—Britain's War Office last night estimated Russian and Chinese Communist armed forces together at 8,000,000 men. War Minister John Strachey put the Soviet ground army at 2,800,000 soldiers—a "very large" peacetime mobilization but "not the incredibly vast force which some people seem to fear."

Strachey, speaking at Dundee, and a War Office release of hitherto secret intelligence reports in effect refuted a formal Russian note to Britain Feb. 24 in which the Kremlin said it had little more than 2,500,000 men under arms.

Instead, the British estimated, the two major Communist nations each has about 4,000,000 weapon - wielders — including army, navy, air force and internal security troops. The statement, however, made no reference to the Russian note.

Combatting Ignorance.

The War Office opened its files, Strachey explained, to dispel "the dangers of ignorance."

"It is not the case that the Russian forces are innumerable and invincible," he said.

The United States Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees reported last month that the Atlantic Pact powers have 4,476,000 men under arms and 2,600,000 in the ground forces.

"So far the Atlantic Pact countries have not built up their armed forces on as large a scale as the Russians, but if we are forced to do so we can do it without putting any intolerable strain on ourselves," Strachey said.

"Russia has a perfect right to maintain its large army, navy and air force," he continued. "But the inevitable consequence is that Britain and the other western countries will build up their strength to match Russia's."

"The alternative is to live in the power of Russia and her mercy," he said.

175 Soviet Divisions.

The War Office estimated the Soviet army has 175 line divisions, excluding artillery, antiaircraft and other supporting formations. These last are grouped into rifle and mechanized armies.

The report said the Soviet equipment includes "very great numbers of excellent tanks and artillery weapons." It added that the Russians were "greatly helped" when the Allies turned over to them a great deal of lend-lease equipment after World War II.

The report said morale is high in both the Soviet and Chinese Red armies, because the soldier realizes he is much better off than the folks at home. It said both forces are permeated by vast informer networks so that "nearly all ranks live in fear of denunciation."

ADMITS STEALING $175 FROM OIL STATION WHERE HE WORKS

Robert A. Robidoux of the 6400 block of Lindenwood place, surrendered to police yesterday and admitted, they said, that he broke into a filling station at 1905 South Kingshighway where he is employed and stole $175 from a safe after making the rounds of several taverns.

Robidoux, police said, decided to give himself up when he learned officers were seeking him. He took them to Tower Grove Park where they recovered $150 of the stolen money which he had buried there.

Police said Robidoux entered the station through a wash-rack window, opened the outer door of a safe without trouble and used a key to open the inner door. The station is owned by Joseph Berra, 5026A Mardel avenue.

PLAN FOR GAS LINE TO MICHIGAN FROM GULF VIA ST. LOUIS

Part of Capacity of Proposed 700-Mile Tube Would Be Made Available Here.

Plans for construction of a 30-inch natural gas pipeline from Monroe, La., to Michiban City, Ind., by way of the St. Louis area were announced today by William G. Marbury, president of the newly organized Gulf-Michigan Gas Transmission Corp. The project would involve an expenditure of approximately $90,000,000.

The 700-mile line would have an initial delivery capacity of approximately 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day and an ultimate capacity of 650,000,000 feet. Approximately one third of this volume would be available to relieve the acute gas shortage in this area, Marbury stated.

If the Federal Power Commission approves the project and steel pipe can be obtained, the line could be completed and put into operation in the latter part of 1952, it was announced. An application with FPC is to be filed immediately.

Gulf-Michigan Gas Transmission Corp. was formed by a syndicate including Mississippi River Fuel Corp., which has headquarters in St. Louis, and Stupp Bros. Bridge & Iron Co., 3800 Weber road, Lemay. Marbury, who heads Mississippi River Fuel also, said the new firm has placed an order with A. O. Smith Corp. of Texas for approximately 240,000 tons of steel pipe, deliveries to begin next January.

Natural gas from the Gulf coast areas of Louisiana and Texas would be transported under purchase contracts being negotiated with the United Gas Pipe Line Co., a subsidiary of United Gas Corp. The new line, running east of and roughly paralleling Mississippi River Fuel's line from Monroe to St. Louis, would enter Missouri east of Poplar Bluff, cross the Mississippi river under water near Chester, Ill., and skirt the St. Louis area near Belleville before swinging northeastward.

The Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., which supplies markets in Wisconsin and Michigan, has contracted for approximately two-thirds of the volume, Marbury said, but the remainder would be available to Laclede Gas Co., which receives 268,000,000 cubic feet a day from Mississippi River Fuel, and Illinois Power Co., which receives about 42,000,000 feet for the East Side market.

CLAUDE I. BAKEWELL SWORN AS MISSOURI CONGRESSMAN

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Claude I. Bakewell of St. Louis, a Republican, was sworn today in the House to succeed the late John B. Sullivan of St. Louis, a Democrat. Bakewell, who defeated Harry Schendel, Democrat, in a special election recently, was presented by Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts. Bakewell represented Missouri's Eleventh Congressional District in the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress.

Former Representative Thomas R. Underwood, (Dem.), Kentucky, took his oath of office as Senator today, succeeding the late Senator Virgil M. Chapman, (Dem.), Kentucky. He was appointed by Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby on Saturday.

W. M'C. MARTIN FORMALLY NOMINATED FOR RESERVE POST

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—President Truman today formally nominated William McChesney Martin Jr. to succeed Thomas B. McCabe as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. McCabe proposed Martin for the post last week and his nomination was regarded as assured.

Martin left a brokerage firm in St. Louis in 1938 to become president of the New York Stock Exchange at the age of 31. He later was board chairman of the Export-Import Bank and now is assistant secretary of the treasury.

The President also sent to the Senate the nominations of Philip B. Fleming of New Hampshire, to be Ambassador to Costa Rica, and Delos Wilson Rentzel of Texas to succeed Fleming as undersecretary of commerce.

HOUSE GROUP TO CALL SNYDER BACK IN TAX RISE HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The House Ways and Means Committee neared completion of public hearings today on President Truman's request for a quick increase in taxes. The committee will recall Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder for additional testimony on April 2, and then will start drafting a bill. A top-ranking committee Democrat said he expects Congress to fall short of raising the full 10 billion dollars asked by Truman.

$526 STOLEN FROM SAFE

About $526 was taken from an insecure safe in a service station at 7300 South Broadway yesterday while the attendants were servicing two automobiles on the apron.

The attendants, Paul Gill, 6913A South Broadway, and August Hatton, 5602 South Compton avenue, told police they saw the man in the station and when they approached him, he fled. The money was kept in a small metal box.

Nine-Man Committee Named To Take Over La Prensa; All but One Are Peronista Legislators

Group Empowered to Run Newspaper and Investigate Firms Doing Business With It —Action Questioned by La Nacion, Second Largest Independent Journal.

BUENOS AIRES, March 19 (UP).

THE nine-man legislative committee created to "intervene and investigate" the independent newspaper La Prensa was completed today. La Prensa, frequent critic of President Juan D. Peron's administration, was closed on Jan. 26 by a union boycott. Last week Congress voted to "intervene" and investigate La Prensa and firms doing business with it, including news agencies.

Dr. Hector Campora, president of the Chamber of Deputies, today announced that five Peronista Deputies and one opposition Deputy would sit on the investigating committee. The opposition Deputy is Arturo Frondizzi, who made a speech in behalf of La Prensa at a special session of Congress last week. Three Peronista Senators already had been appointed to the committee.

Under Argentine law, "intervention" usually means the taking over of an institution or business with full powers to run it. The process is similar to "receivership" in the United States, although financial standing does not play a deciding role in the Argentine law.

La Prensa was forced to suspend publication after the government-backed news vendors' union declared a boycott against it in support of the union's demand for a share of the newspaper's want ad receipts.

Questioned by La Nacion.

Pro-government newspapers yesterday praised the congressional action against La Prensa. However, La Nacion, Argentina's second largest independent daily, questioned the legality of the decision and the motives which brought it about.

The pro-government Democracia said editorially the La Prensa situation has boiled down to this: "La Prensa or Peron." Democracia echoed the Peronista charges that La Prensa sought to make Argentina a colony subservient to international capitalism.

La Nacion said it has been clearly demonstrated that the controversy over La Presna is basically political. Democracia agreed with La Nacion that the dispute was now clearly a political and not a labor question, but said Peron acted in order to oppose the "mobilization of international capitalism."

The congressional action last Friday which took direct control of La Prensa away from the Paz family for the first time since the newspaper was founded, Oct. 18, 1869, was the latest in a series of attacks against the great newspaper. These attacks started Oct. 11, 1943, soon after that year's revolution. On that date La Prensa's 52-year-old main building was stoned by unknown persons. Then followed:

April 25, 1944. The newspaper was closed for five days by the government of Gen. Edelmiro Farrel for publishing a story under the headline: "Savings in Municipal Hospitals."

"Press Freedom Will End."

July 6, 1945. Censorship was established over the local press when the then War Minister, Col. Juan D. Peron, called the directors of all Buenos Aires newspapers and informed them: "Freedom of the press will end at midnight tonight. The government will not permit opposition of the Argentine press."

July 26, 1945. Groups organized by the pro-government General Confederation of Commercial Employes attempted to invade La Prensa.

August 14, 1945. On the occasion of the Japanese surrender, mobs fired on La Prensa, and two other newspapers which were still independent at that time: Critica and La Razon.

Sept. 24, 1945. La Prensa publisher Alberto Gainza Paz was jailed for 18 hours.

Sept. 28, 1945. Adolfo Lanus and Alfredo Genser, La Prensa editorial employes, and other metropolitan newspaper men were arrested.

Jan. 8, 1946. Officials charged La Prensa with publishing tendentious news.

Mobs Attack Plant.

Jan. 24, 1947. Mobs attacked La Prensa following a mass meeting of the General Confederation of Labor in support of Peron's five-year plan.

Feb. 2, 1947. Nationalists stoned La Prensa's branch in the Flores residential district of Buenos Aires.

Feb. 19, 1947. La Prensa and La Nacion were accused of violating customs laws by using duty-free newsprint for publishing newspapers containing advertising.

March 7, 1947. Police stopped a Nationalist march against La Prensa which followed a speech by President Peron to directors of the General Confederation of Labor in which he listed "the press" as one of his four enemies.

March 8, 1947. Posters approved by the subsecretary of information appeared saying "La Prensa against the country."

March 9, 1947. The news vendors' union displayed posters saying:

Posters Urge Boycott.

March 12, 1947. Posters of the Peronista party urged: "Don't buy La Prensa; don't advertise in La Prensa."

March 16, 1947. The news vendors' union asked the Ministry of Labor and Welfare to order La Prensa to eliminate its subscribers and asked that the Sunday edition, then retailing at 15 centavos, be sold to them for 7 centavos. La Prensa declined.

Oct. 17, 1947. Mobs attacked La Prensa building, breaking windows, shutters and lights but failed to gain entrance.

Oct. 4, 1948. The Government expropriated 3374 tons of La Prensa newsprint and limited editions of all newspapers to 16 pages. La Prensa had been publishing between 30 and 40 pages.

Nov. 27, 1948. The Government turned down La Prensa's request for a return of 10 per cent of its newsprint imports, previously taken by the Government.

Printers Strike.

Feb. 8 through March 4, 1949. La Prensa and all other Buenos Aires newspapers were closed by a printers' strike.

Nov. 23, 1949. La Prensa accounting office taken over by a congressional committee and police posted in and at the doors of the building.

March 9, 1950. La Prensa eliminated from the importers list, preventing its importing of its own newsprint. A congressional committee halted installation of a new La Prensa press.

Nov. 16, 1950. Newsprint supplies, controlled by the Government, reduced by 20 per cent, which cut La Prensa circulation to 90,000 daily and 110,000 Sunday.

Vendor's Demand.

Jan. 25, 1951. The news vendors' union presented a 48-hour ultimatum dated Jan. 23, asking for 20 per cent of La Prensa classified advertisement revenue; complete control of sale of the paper by elimination of subscribers and the newspaper branches, and one centavo per copy from La Prensa for the union welfare fund.

Jan. 26, 1951. La Prensa was unable to publish.

Jan. 26 through Feb. 26, 1951. Efforts to mediate with the news vendors' union failed and La Prensa employes petitioned the Ministry of Labor and Welfare, the police and the presidency for reopening the newspaper and their right to work.

Feb. 27, 1951. La Prensa employes attempted to return to work. One was killed and 15 wounded; police cleared the printing plant and sealed the doors.

March 9, 1951. General Confederation of Labor voted a general boycott of La Prensa.

March 13, 1951. A 15-minute general strike called by the General Confederation of Labor in support of news vendors and repudiating La Prensa.

March 15, 1951. Special session of Congress called for March 16 to consider La Prensa case.

SNOW BLINDNESS SAID TO BESET RED CHINESE IN TIBET

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 19 (INS)—Members of the Chinese Communist expeditionary forces in Tibet were reported today to be suffering from a strange disease causing color blindness.

Reports from the Chinese mainland reaching Formosa said that strong reflections of the sun from snow-covered mountains are believed in part responsible.

These reports said that two thirds of the 32,000-man Red expeditionary force in Tibet has been withwrawn to Kikong province because of the eye condition.

Military operations in Tibet were reported at a virtual standstill, with the invasion force cut to less than 10,000.

Duff Taking Position Like Vandenberg's

Senator Demands Foreign Policy Be Put Back on Bipartisan Basis.

By DORIS FLEESON

(Copyright, 1951.)

WASHINGTON, March 14.

THE REPORT that Sen. Arthur Vandenberg is losing ground in his fight for life coincides with a low ebb in the fortunes of the Bipartisan Foreign Policy to which his name imperishably attaches.

Those who believe in that policy have always praised Vandenberg; now, with the Michigan Senator's condition worsening, they are tremendously concerned over finding a successor who can reforge his policy for the battles that lie ahead. No obvious choice presents itself.

Senator Lodge is too young, his seniors will not follow him. Most G.O.P. seniors of stature do not wholly share the Vandenberg views. Envy among the Democrats has contributed to widening the gap between the White House and Republican Senators who might have been induced to make the fight.

Call By Senator Duff.

Yet a clear Republican call for a new bipartisan foreign policy has come from the senate. True, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania is a freshman; he has literally taken a back seat in the chamber for two months and has yet to make his maiden speech there.

But when he speaks up outside Washington, as he does with increasing frequency, it is clear that the Republicans will shortly find themselves with a Paul Douglas of their own on their hands. Senator Duff does not put that gloss on the passing show that a party's interest presumably demands or people are supposed to prefer. The details don't fret him; as with Senator Vandenberg, his interest is for the central fact—we are at war in Korea, the national emergency is real.

Senator Duff demanded in Philadelphia this week that the foreign policy of the United States be put back on a bipartisan basis so we can avert all-out war with Russia if possible, or, if not, win it.

Three-Prong Message

For the benefit of President Truman, the Pennsylvania Senator said that any impartial observer knew that many Americans mistrust the foreign policy of the United States. For all hands he said one person and one party couldn't put together a fully accredited foreign policy. For his own colleagues, he had the emphatic message that it was a tremendous disservice to arouse distrust of our military leaders.

"We are not prepared—we can only be safe if we are prepared for the worst," Senator Duff declared.

This is Spartan gospel which most politicians are resisting as Congress drags along with major legislation stalled. Senator Taft's further challenge to the current drift is plain talk.

"America was aroused to the necessity of military preparation by the sudden and unprovoked outbreak of the war in Korea," he said. "But, strangely enough, the longer the war lasts, the more our fears seem to subside. This is despite the fact that every analysis of the situation shows that the longer the Korean war lasts, the more conclusively it proves that Russia is willing to risk World War III rather that reach a peaceful end to the war in Korea.

"Surely we must all realize that America cannot carry on war in Korea or anywhere else or undertake a vast preparation program and at the same time carry on

Business Outlook

RAMPANT CONFIDENCE IN INFLATION ON WANE

By J. A. Livingston

A TURN in sentiment could be at hand.. High and rampant confidence in inflation is on the wane. To illustrate: The price of tin recently took a spill from $1.80 to $1.34 a pound when the Government ceased stockpiling. Obviously, here was an air pocket. As soon as the big buyer quit the market, most other buyers fled.

Business loans of commercial banks dropped for the first time in 41 weeks. The decline wasn't large—$53,000,000 to $18,680,000,000. Nor was it untimely. Usually, business men begin to pay off loans just before Easter. Nevertheless, it's a sign that bank credit is not on a one-way street.

Secretary Snyder's Concession.

Even more important, as an anti-inflation suggestion, is the way Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and Thomas B. McCabe, resigned chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, carried out their agreement settling their dispute over monetary policies. Both the Treasury and the Reserve Board stopped supporting the prices of long-term Government bonds. This is a dramatic warning to bankers and business men that finally the country's top monetary authorities have decided that inflation must be stopped, and no fooling.

President Truman's appointment of William McChesney Martin Jr. as McCabe's successor suggests that this policy will be continued. Martin, as assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was instrumental in persuading Snyder to go along with the Reserve Board plan to let the Government bond market go free. That meant that Snyder would sacrifice savings in interest costs on the Government debt to the broader design of curbing inflation.

Secretary Snyder was departing from the tradition established by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who insisted that long-term Government 2½ per cent bonds must always sell at 100 cents on the dollar. They've been selling under that, as a consequence of the accord.

Martin, incidentally, is steeped in the atmosphere of the Federal Reserve. His father, an attorney in St. Louis, was once governor (president) of the Federal Reserve

4 Moves Seek Korean Peace At Parallel 38

Trygve Lie's Plan for Truce First Is Viewed as Most Promising.

By ERNIE HILL

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 19.

FOUR separate efforts to negotiate a peace in Korea at the thirty-eighth parallel are being made by the Western world and its adherents.

Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations is getting together a plan that would call for cessation of hostilities to be followed by a series of conferences that would determine what comes next.

Lie's plan is different from others in that it would place a "truce" first and arguments about other details later. He contends that peace is more important than pre-determining what follows peace.

Because of the unpopularity of the war in this country and in Britain and France, there appears to be a chance that he might make headway if the Chinese Communists also are tired of the conflict.

The U.N.'s Good Offices Committee, composed of representatives from Iran, Mexico and Sweden, is still trying to get an answer from Peiping about terms for a settlement. Its plan is tied together with a proposed Asian conference to determine the future of Formosa, Red China's admission to the U.N. and the future of Korean unification.

The British charge d'affaires in Peiping is making a third effort on the spot while India's ambassador to China is known to be acting independently.

Lie's plan for getting peace first and arguing later is given the best chance of success because neither side in the conflict is prepared to agree to quit if the other appears to gain an advantage from the fighting.

Should Lie win a truce, the argument over the unsolved problems probably would go on for years. His point is that the military operations at least would cease and the matter would be in a diplomatic stage.

Lie contends that the fighting also could go on for years. This means thousands more casualties for both sides. If it is to be a continuing disagreement, he says, why not make it diplomatic so the killing will be ended.

Powerful U.N. 'Restrictionist' Bloc Threatens to Gag U.S. Publications, Says Editor

If Group Has Way, Printing of Reports on Farouk's Love Life or of Mohammed's Picture Would Be Forbidden in America, Binder Asserts.

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP).

A POWERFUL bloc of "restrictionists" is threatening to strike a successful blow at freedom of information in the name of the United Nations, Carroll Binder, United States delegate in a U.N. drafting sommittee, charges.

If this bloc has its way American magazines no longer will be permitted to publish a picture of Mohammed and "mention of King Farouk's love life will become verboten," Binder writes in the new issue of the Saturday Review of Literature.

The press also would be prevented from reporting "the concentration of troops on the border of Yugoslavia, the creation of armed forces in East Germany or the existence of 175 Soviet divisions on active service."

Binder, editorial page editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, was one of a committee of 15 national delegates who met at Lake Success for three weeks in February attempting to draft a 19-article convention on freedom of information.

Opposed Article.

The United States delegate stoutly opposed the draft that was finally prepared for submission to the economic and social council which has been meeting in Santiago, Chile, since Feb. 20.

The council probably will not decide until its next meeting at Geneva this summer, after it has received the written comments of the 60 United Nations members, whether to call an international conference to write a final treaty.

"What was intended to facilitate the gathering and transmission of news has been transformed into an effort to give the sanction of international law to restrictions upon such gathering and transmission of news," Binder writes.

"What was intended to extend to other people the freedom to seek, publish, and discuss information enjoyed in this country has been perverted into an attempt to discredit, circumscribe, and if possible outlaw our free practices."

Injury of Feelings.

A bloc of middle east, Asian, Latin American and Cominform countries, he said, believe that they can line up a majority of the 60 U.N. members "so that the final draft will incorporate provisions barring 'false or distorted reports which undermine friendly relations between peoples and states' and banish 'information likely to injure the feelings of nationals of a state.'"

"Certainly the current attempts to muzzle La Prensa, Argentina's renowned independent newspaper, would be less subject to international reproach if the Perons could invoke a restrictive U.N. convention," Binder said.

"What makes the whole affair so diabolic, is the patina of U.N. sanction that would protect it," he asserted.

The convention would permit governments to restrict the movements of American newspaper men, censor dispatches, and protest against what is published in the United States "without exposing themselves to accusations of dictatorial suppression," because they could cite a U.N. convention ratified by the necessary number of sovereign states.

Asian and Middle East nations, representing nearly one-fourth of the U.N. membership, he said, allege that American newspapers, and other media of information violate "our religious or national sensibilities or offend our national prestige and dignity." They want such "abuses" outlawed.

Reinforced by Cominform.

They are reinforced by the cominform states, who charge that the capitalist press uses its freedom to "slander other nations and foster bad relations between peoples and governments."

In Communist eyes, reports of troop concentrations on Yugoslavia's border promote "unfriendly relations between peoples" and should be barred.

Many Latin American nations, the editor says, line up with the Pre-arrangement

TO ARRANGE for a funeral in advance—to select the casket, to decide the kind of vault, to determine on the items of service and the all-inclusive cost—is the logical thing to do.

The response to the Ambruster Pre-arranged Funeral plan fully justifies the effort we are making to spare the survivors from the distress and over-expenditures of last-moment transactions.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Moral Tone

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I read with interest the article by your chief Washington correspondent under the title. "That Washington Mess." I think Mr. Brandt has labored hard and brought forth a mouse. The song is that while the Vaughans, the Merl Youngs, and the Donald Dawsons are "chicken feed" and smell a trifle, they fade into obscurity when compared to the "Ohio Gang" of Warren Harding. With that, I'm inclined to agree.

Fortunately, I've never claimed all the virtues for my party, or charged all the vices to the Democrats. I've always contended that the Republican party in the stature of Lincoln and the Democratic party in the stature of Jefferson are the two finest political parties in all history.

But as to this abortion called the New Deal or later, the Fair Deal, I don't think it's anything except the foulest elements of all parties—fed and nourished at its source by the Federal Treasury to give every pressure group its special hand-out, designed to furnish every potent voters' bloc its special privilege to raid and rob the American people.

Mr. Brandt states that he's convinced that the moral level of government has risen over the last quarter of a century. With that, I most violently disagree. I don't think, as we dispassionately and objectively search the record, we can say that the Roosevelts, the Trumans, the Frankfurters, the Hopkinses, the Cohens, the Corcorans, the Kelleys, the Nashs, the Pendergasts, the Flynns, the Longs, the Achesons, the Hisses, the Remingtons, the Coplons, etc. have contributed greatly toward raising the moral level of our government.

I'm inclined to believe that people like that have sapped the very foundations of our entire government structure. If that be so, then all the depredations of "The Ohio Gang" were really the "chicken feed," for they were, after all, petty crooks on a large scale, apprehended, convicted and sent to prison. They didn't undermine our basic structure — they couldn't. They were in the penitentiary.

Mr. Brandt further states that "replacing the Democrats with Republicans in Washington will not automatically raise the 'moral level' of government." Not automatically, Mr. Brandt, no. But in all fairness, does the Post-Dispatch seriously believe that Colonel McCormick and Senator McCarthy would take over in Washington, should my party prevail in '52? That's what Mr. Brandt implies.

Would the Post-Dispatch honestly contend that the Morses, the Judds, the Warrens, the Saltonstalls, the Duffs, the Knowlands, the Lodges, the Stassens, the Iveses would turn tail and run when McCormick and McCarthy crack the whip?

I don't object if you use the "World's Greatest Newspaper" and Joe McCarthy as your whipping boys. That's what we do too—pick out the weak links in the chain of our opposition. But do you really believe that Senator Morse and Congressmen Judd et al, are weak? That's the issue we are going to draw with you next year, so you might as well start anticipating now.

WILLIAM F. LITTLE.
Evansville, Ind.

On Television

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

So the Senate OKs television for the bookies, but the free lunch-grabbers and the race track check-tearers in the Senate go behind closed doors.

If the public wants "pitiless publicity," why not bring back the stocks, and the pillory, and the branding iron, and the scarlet letter and, while we are at it, the rack and wheel? But our lawmakers should assert their belief in our democratic way of life and not exempt themselves.

EXCUSE, PLEASE.

The Fighters' Families

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

With the way prices and wages have been allowed to rise, one wonders if anyone has thought of the servicemen's families. Their allotments do not rise as the cost of living rises.

It would be better to keep the cost of living down and within the reach of the serviceman's family, rather than let it soar and leave this group struggling to keep their heads above water.

A SERVICEMAN'S WIFE.

Spanish Bread

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Five warships to Barcelona sailed
When the wild cry of hunger rang;
Their black-mouthed guns with magic power
Silenced the belly's sickening pang.
Bullets for bread! is the State's reply
When the worker pleads for a loaf to gnaw;
It's Spain's New Order upon the march,
And Bloody Franco is still the Law.

E. GROSSENHEIDER.

Choice of Time.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The present uncertainty of 18-year-olds as to their draft status could be easily resolved by adopting the old French system. Every male should be required to serve one year in the armed forces after passing his eighteenth birthday, and before reaching his twenty-sixth. However, each individual could choose the time within those limits when he would perform his military service.

In this manner, a young man could plan his life ahead for a few years, and know definitely when he will have to drop civilian life for a while.

HUGH BERTSCH.

Small Loans: Not So Fast

The Missouri State Senate last week passed a small loans bill with little debate and little study. The House should make up its mind to do a better job. The bill which has the approval of the small loan lobby and the Missouri Bankers Association demands critical examination and, we think, extensive revision.

The Post-Dispatch agrees that enactment of a law to fix interest rates and regulate the small loans business is urgently needed.

Since the new state Constitution knocked out the old law, the field of personal loans has been wide open to salary buyers, loan sharks, illegal operators and fly-by-nights. The big consumer finance companies have withdrawn from the state, but some of them conduct a personal-loan business across the state line—especially from East St. Louis—wholly unregulated by Missouri law. Some banks have been expanding personal loans, but they do not fully serve the field of small loans below $150 or $200.

As nearly as we can determine, it costs a reputable lender somewhere between $15 and $25 to service a typical 12-month installment loan. At the present legal interest rate, the lender can collect only $4 a year on a $100 loan, or $8 on $200.

Except for "good will" business and for the cream of credit risks, therefore, reputable lenders tend to stay out of the small loan field. Since there is a strong demand for loans of this type, much of the business goes to the unconscionable sharpers who clip the public for usurious rates running up to 240 per cent.

That is why Missouri needs a small loans law —a law that will set interest rates high enough to bring legitimate, regulated lenders into the field, and low enough to prevent unreasonable profiteering.

The bill before the Legislature fails to meet the latter specification for two reasons. First, it brings under the same umbrella two distinct types of loan—the small personal loan, from $500 down, and the consumer credit loan, for financing automobiles, household appliances, home repairs and the like, which may run up to $1500 or $2000. Secondly, the bill permits too high an interest yield for the larger personal loans.

• • •

Under this bill, a lender could charge for an automobile loan of $1000 the personal-loan rate on the first $400 plus the legal 8 per cent rate on the remaining $600. Thus, he could legally collect $84 interest in 12 months. Yet some banks and other lenders are today profitably making the same loan for a total interest yield of $40 in a year. Why should the new law permit interest charges higher than those actually in effect on profitable loans now being made?

We see no reason for providing a combination interest rate for loans over $400, whereby the first $400 comes under one rate and the balance under another. Either the whole field of loans over $400 should be left under the present law, or the new law should provide a declining interest rate on the larger loans which brings the ceiling on each loan in line with present practice. When $1000 loans are being made for $40 there is no need for a law which permits $84.

Our second objection to the pending bill runs against the interest yields permitted on loans under $400. The lenders can probably justify charging $15 for a $100 loan, since servicing costs on a 12-month installment loan run close to that figure. But generally it costs no more to service a $400 loan. In fact it may often cost less, for the larger loans are usually the better credit risks. Collection costs and losses tend to be higher in the lower brackets.

• • •

The pending bill, however, would permit the lender to collect as much per hundred on the $400 loan as he collects at the lower level. The $400 loan would yield him $60 in a year, as against actual costs to him of perhaps one-fourth as much.

While some spread may be legitimate, it seems to us that such a spread is excessive. No matter how the interest rates are worked out mathematically, the bill ought to provide an interest yield per hundred which decreases as the loan goes up, and which bears a reasonable relation to actual costs of making the loan.

How the interest rates should be figured is a matter for the experts with their slide rules. But it seems to us that if a legitimate lender is willing to lend $100 for $15 a year—as the banks and small loan companies confess by sponsoring the present bill—then he should be able to make reasonable profits by lending $400 at $35 to $40 a year, instead of the $60 which the present bill permits.

The House at Jefferson City should buckle down and write its own small loans law, rather than simply accepting that drafted by the lenders' lobby. Missouri needs fair and reasonable regulation for an important business, so that the sharks and sharpers will be driven out, but it also needs a law which scales the interest yield on each loan to the actual cost of making the loan.

In Housing, It Takes All Kinds

The National Housing Policy Conference, now in session here, would perform a great service if it could bring about recognition of the need for all kinds of effort in solving the housing needs of the nation's cities.

The problem is so big that private enterprise alone cannot solve it. Neither can public housing alone, nor mixed public-private enterprise, nor semi-public redevelopment, nor any other single method. The successful city is the one which utilizes all these methods, which fuses the energies of many groups in a common enterprise.

"Housers" of various persuasions can best serve their cause by concentrating on housing, not on trying to beat each other out.

Gov. Byrnes' Angry Threat

Gov. Byrnes of South Carolina should be above descending to the nonsense he spoke about segregation in the public schools. It is truly a comedown for a man who has been a Supreme Court Justice, Secretary of State and "assistant President" to be saying that the State of which he is now Governor will abandon the public school system before it will abandon segregation. People can only feel embarrassed for him.

Can it be that Gov. Byrnes actually means what he says? Surely the literate citizens of South Carolina would not abandon education for all their children whose parents cannot afford to give it privately. Surely they would not prefer for their children not to learn at all rather than for them to learn in company with Negro children.

Since we find it almost impossible to believe that Gov. Byrnes means the monstrous thing he says, we can only guess at why he says it. We would guess he says it because he cannot advance a reasonable objection to equal education, and because he is angered by the feeling of helplessness which his awareness of this fact, in combination with his racial prejudice, gives him.

For the dignity of his state, of the office he holds, and of the offices he has held, we should think that the least Gov. Byrnes could do would be to conceal an unreasoning anger such as this while he strives to rise above it.

Votes for 18-Year-Olds

Missouri's 18-year-olds will be given the right to vote if the lower chamber of the Legislature has its way. It approved a constitutional amendment to this effect the other day by the thumping vote of 101 to 12.

Of course, the State Senate still will have its say, and then the amendment must be submitted to the electorate. But it is our guess that the Senators and the people will vote just about the way the House did. We feel sure that they will respond to the irresistible argument of the times: If the 18-year-olds are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote.

Granted, there is a measure of sentimentality in that argument. To some extent, it may also represent a desire on the part of older citizens to "make it up" to those they send to their wars. While there is nothing particularly wrong with these motives, there is a more rational argument in favor of the reform.

American educational standards have been raised—perhaps not as much as they should have been, but considerably raised nonetheless —since the 21-year age was established as the standard for voting. Missouri high school students, for example, now study a course in "American Problems." Basic history courses also are required. And courses in such subjects as government, economics and sociology are available to them. The result is that most 18-year-olds at least have the opportunity to be better qualified for the ballot than were, let us say, their grandparents.

So the old argument that the ballot should not be handed over to the immature holds less water than ever. Other states are beginning to realize that the 18-year-olds are capable of having a voice in making the decisions whose execution is beginning to fall on them so heavily. And Missouri will do well to be among the first to act on this realization.

Resignations Are Not Enough

An RFC director who was not criticized in the Senate investigation of that agency says the whole five-man board of directors should resign. Walter E. Cosgriff's straightforward advice ought to be accept with alacrity by the board members who have been under fire.

By this time it is as plain as a mink coat that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has lost public confidence, from the Senate subcommittee's revelations of influence peddling and misconduct. Mr. Cosgriff adds that the RFC is threatened with "paralysis" by a rush of employes to get out of the tainted agency.

In fact, it is unlikely that confidence in the RFC will be restored simply by the mass resignation of its top management. The Fulbright subcommittee has called for replacement of the board system with a single administrator. Senator Taft and some other members of the Senate are demanding outright abolition of the RFC.

The question Congress has yet to decide is whether the big lending agency should be reformed, or whether it has finally outlived its usefulness.

Needed: a Special Prosecutor

To expect State's Attorney Austin Lewis to handle the case brought by Editor Paul Simon of Troy, Ill., against former Sheriff Dallas T. Harrell, before the Madison county grand jury, is in effect to ask Lewis to prosecute himself. Lewis' own system of periodic fines for operators of commercialized gambling joints is as much before the grand jury—or should be—as Harrell's convenient policy of leaving law enforcement in cities and towns to municipal authorities.

What is needed in Madison county right now is a special prosecutor. A special prosecutor is needed for the same reason that a special prosecutor was needed in Peoria county in 1948. At that time Circuit Judge Henry J. Ingram saw that the State's Attorney of Peoria county could not be relied on to protect the people's interests in the bribery and shakedown issues before the grand jury. So Judge Ingram appointed Verle W. Safford, who performed distinguished service.

The Circuit Court at Edwardsville is aware, of course, that Editor Simon has asked the Illinois Bar Association to take disciplinary action against State's Attorney Lewis as a member of the legal profession. The suspension of Warner Wall from the office of State's Attorney of Pulaski county, where organized gambling was rampant and fines were regularly collected, is proof that disciplinary action is altogether possible in Madison county in a similar situation.

Madison county needs a special prosecutor and the Circuit Court should name one. If he should be as good a man as Verle Safford was in Peoria the decent citizens of Madison county will get their first real break in a long time.

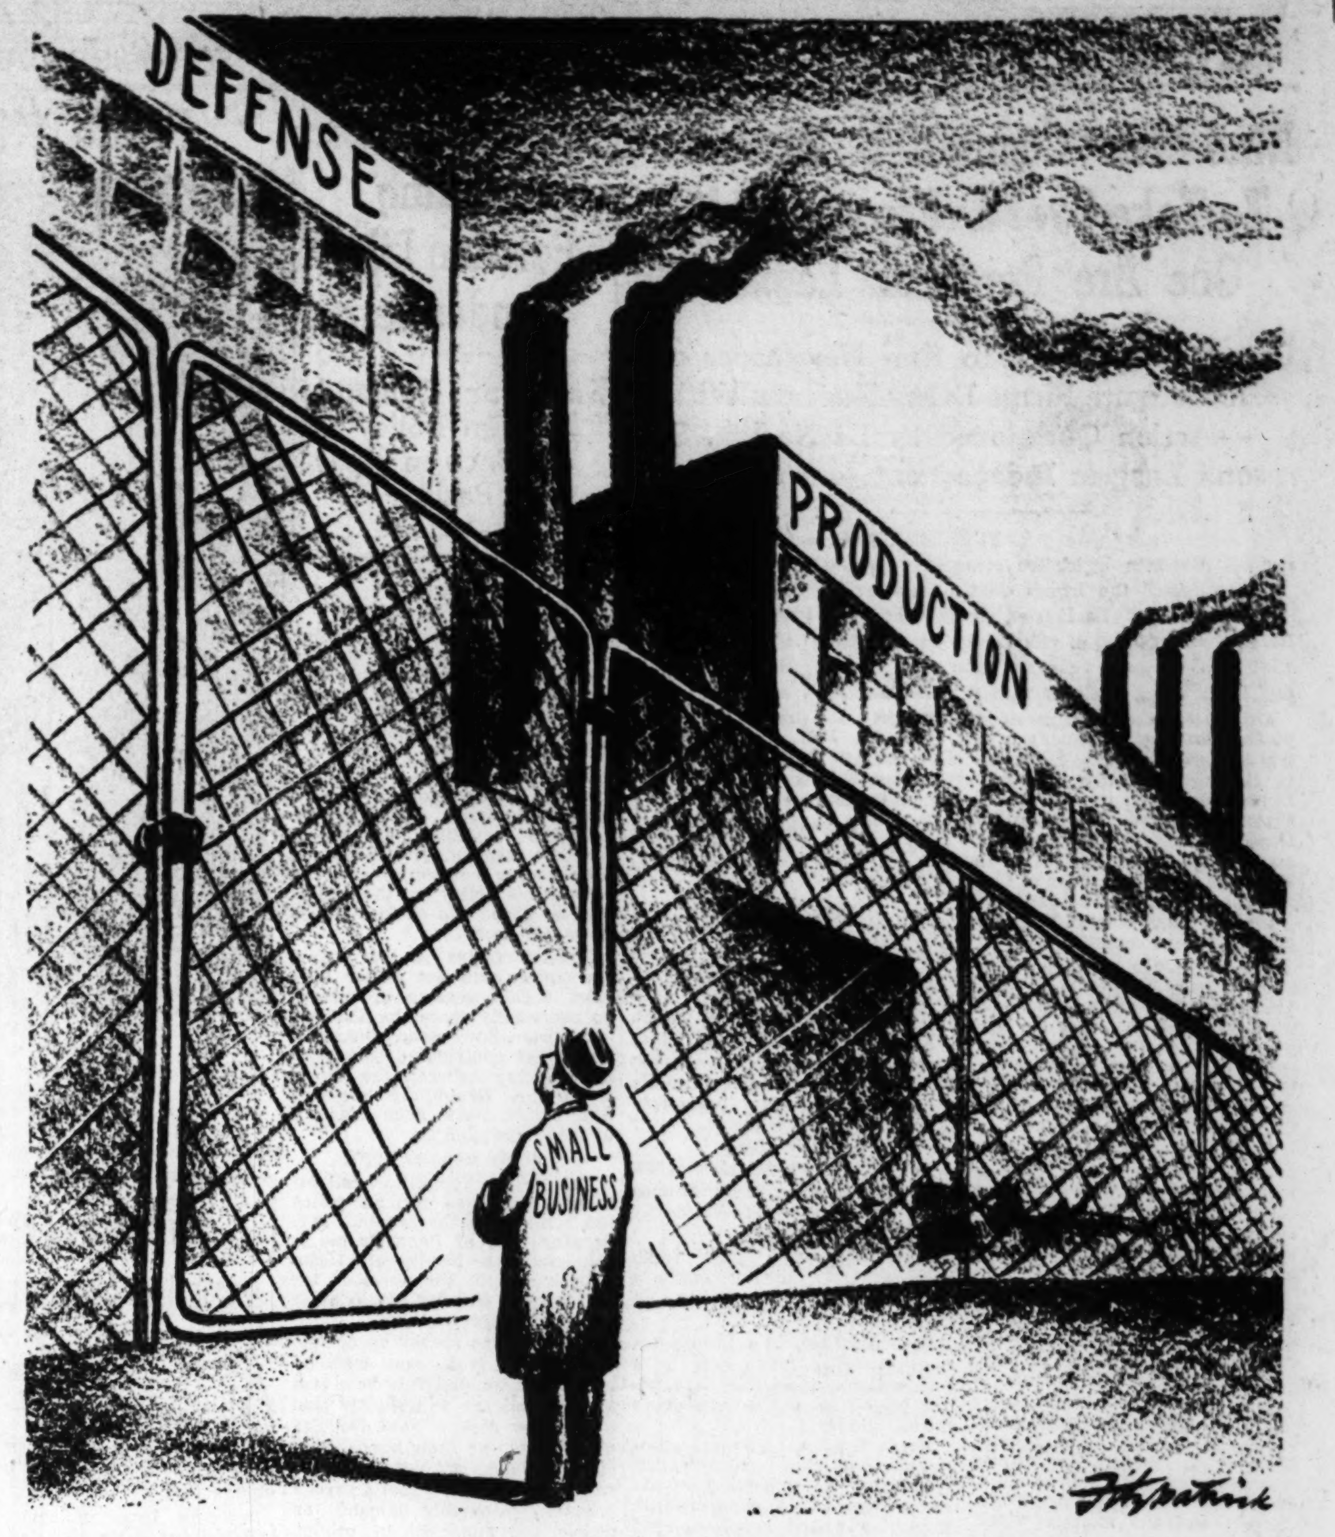
It Was Easy at Los Alamos

There may be a certain degree of braggadocio in David Greenglass's testimony that stealing atomic secrets at Los Alamos was "easy." He told the New York jury in the trial of three alleged spies that as an Army sergeant in 1944 he just walked about the Los Alamos project and picked up information by talking to people.

Discounted for exaggeration, still this testimony is worth thinking about. For in 1944 the atomic project was under the strictest kind of military security regulation. Some scientists working on the enterprise were so appalled by the security red-tape that they stayed on the job only through patriotism. Yet here we have evidence that in spite of the most stringent precautions, and an almost pathological demand for total secrecy, useful secrets did get out.

Since the atomic bomb was the toppest-secret secret of them all, one must assume that the same goes for other military projects vested with special security status. The conclusion seems to be that a prudent nation will not place too much reliance upon its supposedly exclusive military knowledge. As long as people are people the dike of security is always in danger of springing a leak. A wise nation will try to keep its secrets, but will not assume that it has been successful.



MAN WITHOUT INFLUENCE

A Catholic's View of Censorship

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Effort to suppress Italian film, "The Miracle," as sacrilege raises basic question of censorship; where state and church are separate, no secular body has right to suppress anything on theological grounds; effort embarrasses Catholics and their church traditions.

Allen Tate, Poet, Critic and Editor, in a Letter to The New York Times

The attempt to bring about the suppression of the Italian motion picture "The Miracle" raises questions that I have not seen raised in any of the public discussions, and probably will not be raised so long as there are threats of bomb-throwing by the fanatics of both sides.

The picture seems to me to be superior in acting and photography but inferior dramatically. Passive suffering is not a subject of first-rate art in any medium, and I cannot believe that an imbecile, as the main character, can sustain a plot of dramatic significance.

Cardinal Spellman

But the Board of Regents of the State of New York has not been asked to deliver an esthetic judgment. The charge against "The Miracle" is sacrilege, a theological category different in kind from that of public morals or public decency.

The question then arises: Is there any institution in the United States, civil or religious, which has the legitimate authority to suppress books and motion pictures, however disagreeable they may be to certain persons on theological grounds?

In my opinion, there is no such institution under a system that separates church and state.

Obviously, the State of New York has the legal authority to suppress "The Miracle"; there is a New York statute authorizing the Board of Regents to take such action.

But does New York, or any state, possess this legal authority legitimately? Has any secular body the legitimate authority to decide a theological question? As a Catholic, I cannot see that it has.

Likewise, although the Catholic Church has full authority to publish an Index Expurgatorius and a censorship list, and the authority to condemn publicly, as Cardinal Spellman has done, "The Miracle," or any other motion picture, and commands the obedience of the faithful, it is a usurpation of the secular power if the church tries to implement its religious authority with civil force.

I do not assume that the Catholic Church has acted officially in this matter. What has happened, I believe, is that Catholic individuals and groups have brought pressure to bear upon New York politicians to uphold by force what they believe to be Catholic standards.

To my mind, this action is a violation not only of the relation of church and state but of the great Catholic moral and intellectual tradition, and points also to a latent heresy within the church that has been variously known as Puritanism and Jansenism.

Bad books and plays, bad as literature and bad as morality, in the long run suppress themselves. No good book or play can ever be suppressed.

When we remember that the works of Dante Alighieri were publicly burned by a fourteenth-century Pope, the weapon of suppression begins to look ridiculous.

If "The Miracle" is, as Cardinal Spellman has described it, "an insult to Italian womanhood," it is a little odd that the Holy See, which has in its spiritual charge more Italian women than live within the Archiepiscopy of New York, should have let it be shown throughout Italy for more than a year.

It should be borne in mind that Cardinal Spellman has full authority to denounce this picture as sacrilegious, but that his opinion of its effect upon Italian or any other womanhood is not authoritative and is no better than yours or mine.

In the long run what Cardinal Spellman will have succeeded in doing is insulting the intelligence and faith of American Catholics with the assumption that a second-rate motion picture could in any way undermine their morals or shake their faith.

At the George and Vulture

From the New York Herald Tribune

Sad tidings have come to us from London. It seems that the George and Vulture, the peculiar inn of Samuel Pickwick, Esq., in Castle Court, is to be torn down to make way for a bank building—a melancholy fate indeed for this venerable caravansary after surviving for several centuries and escaping devastating wartime bombing. According to tradition, it was built on the site of a twelfth-century inn, the George, a favorite resort of Chaucer and Dick Whittington, which was destroyed in the Great Fire of 1666.

The George and Vulture figures largely in Charles Dickens's "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club." It was there that Mr. Pickwick and Sam Weller took up their abode at the time of the famous Bardell v. Pickwick trial. It was from there that Mr. Pickwick was taken by sheriff's officers and lodged in the Fleet prison because of his persistent refusal to pay the costs and damages incident to the trial.

The inn also was the scene of Mr. Pickwick's triumphant return from the Fleet. And it was there that the elder Mr. Winkle had his momentous interview with his son's young bride. All in all, the place has been a shrine for the vast company of Dickens lovers.

Of late years the George and Vulture has been a restaurant; the Pickwick room with its high-backed pews has been kept much as Dickens knew it in 1830. The City Pickwick Club since 1909 has held four dinners there every year, with its 60 members, each bearing the name of a male character in "Pickwick." One cannot but hope that a way may be found to preserve the inn as it is.

Yet if worse comes to worst, the bankers cannot really destroy the ancient George and Vulture. Though its smoke-blackened beams may vanish, it will live on in the hearts of all true worshipers of the immortal Pickwick and his ever-faithful Sam.

ON THE WRONG TRACK.

Between Book Ends

Photographs of the Year

U.S. CAMERA ANNUAL 1951, edited by Tom Maloney. (Duell, Sloan & Pearce, 420 pgs., $4.50.)

During the last 16 years, U. S. Camera Annual has gained for itself acceptance as probably the best of the yearly representations of photographs. Certainly its selection is the freshest, most varied, most vitally concerned with the contemporary scene. While many annuals each year perpetrate the same hazy, monotonous school of salon photography, U. S. Camera Annual brashly explores the fields of documentary, experimental and scientific as well as the arty.

The 1951 edition is paced by an outstanding series of Korean war pictures taken by Life magazine photographers David Douglas Duncan and Carl Mydans. Unfettered by security regulations and military red tape, they were able to record more thoroughly and more intimately than the combat photographers of World War II. One picture in particular by Duncan seems to catch the nature of the present war. It shows two medics bandaging the shrapnel head wound of a young Korean mother as she nurses her child.

Thirty-six photographs of women by Irving Penn, Vogue magazine fashion photographer, are singled out as a feature presentation. They are impressive as sharply delineated stylizations in which form and line are consciously emphasized. Other noteworthy features include the three-dimensional cartoons in which artist Saul Steinberg superimposed his eerie drawings on Louis Faurer's photographs; Horace Bristol's pictures of comely Balinese women; R. F. McGraw's color photograph of a double rainbow.

The 1951 issue continues the inclusion, begun last year, of a section on international photography. Unlike last year, the current section includes a high percentage of mediocre pictures. Many are merely tourist-like snapshots, hackneyed landscapes, and contrived attempts to be artistic. Awareness of this is noted by editors who explain that ". . . either the editor's efforts or the pictures available do not present European work in as favorable light as last year."

It would seem that the camera's recording ability could have been utilized to document and interpret the deep social, cultural and economic changes as well as the physical devastation of postwar Europe. But still photography, unlike motion picture photography in Italy, has been generally escapist. PAUL BERG.

The People of This Earth

PEOPLE ARE IMPORTANT, by Eva Knox Evans. (Capitol Publishing Co., 86 pgs., $2.50.)

Children from 6 to 12 will enjoy this book dealing with the two billion persons who inhabit the globe and their ways of living, eating, dressing and being polite. Miss Evans has translated the anthropologists' jargon into a chatty language that children can understand and relate to their own experience. The chapter on names will interest adults too.

Here it is learned that Lincoln comes from two old English words: "Lin" meaning a pool, and "coln" shortened from colony. Abe's ancestors apparently lived in a colony around a pool. And the Kizilbashis of Turkey, the O'Rourkes of Ireland, and the Rossinis of Italy all have names that mean the same thing—red head. A chapter on the amenities of living together reveals that the Mrus of India might teach Americans something; when they have an argument they call in a third person who asks the spirits who is right—and that's the end of the argument.

Noble and Dairy Maid

LAIRD'S CHOICE, by Rosamond Marshall. (Prentice-Hall, Inc., 298 pgs., $3.)

According to the Marshall tradition in her rags to riches books, Laurie MacNeill attracts the attention of the Laird Duff-Drummond while serving as a dairymaid to his bailiff. Circumstances cause her to flee from Scotland to London where she becomes custodian of eight frisky poodles of the onetime Lo Monette, famous danseuse. Here Laurie is the toast of London society and marries Duff-Drummond. The plot is trite and the situations impossible, but the book no doubt will be made into a super-colossal movie as was Miss Marshall's first novel, "Kitty."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Bad Turn in the Veterans Administration

QUIETLY and effectively without benefit of sensational headlines an investigation has gone forward here that could produce greater good than the more publicized spectacles. That is the inquiry conducted by Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota into the medical policy of the Veterans Administration.

Humphrey.

So much has gone awry here as standards of administration have dropped that events with tragic implications occur and yet are hardly more than noted in news. That applies to the recent action of Veterans Administrator Carl Gray in removing Dr. Paul Magnuson as VA medical director.

Few have realized that thus with one stroke a major gain achieved only after the most painful and difficult effort was wiped out. That this is no small matter is shown by the ever increasing population of the VA hospitals and the constant pressure on Congress to provide more beds.

On Feb. 20 there were 98,961 veterans in veterans' hospitals and 8092 in non-veteran hospitals. Of the nearly 99,000, some 45,000 are psychotics, that is to say mental cases, which says a lot for the terrible toll, that war takes. Nearly 20,000 veterans, all but 135 of them suffering from disabilities that have no direct connection with war, are waiting to get into veterans' hospitals.

The irony in what has just happened is that President Truman, himself, gave the original go signal for much-needed reforms in the VA. The President has boundless admiration for the courage and honesty of his fellow Missourian, Gen. Omar N. Bradley. When Bradley came home at the end of the war, Mr. Truman asked him to take a very tough, disagreeable and probably thankless assignment.

Staff at Low Ebb.

The Veterans Administration had deteriorated and especially on the medical service side. Veterans' organizations with their great political pull had virtually taken over the direction of the hospitals. Their officers demanded and in many instances got special privileges.

But more serious was the isolation of the VA medical service from the whole stream of research and progress in modern medicine. Underpaid doctors worked in a musty bureaucratic dead end. The few good men who stayed in the service did so out of a sense of duty.

With full authority from the President to proceed without regard to politics of any kind, Bradley went ahead with one of the hardest tasks in a career that has not been noted for its softness and ease. He had Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley as director of medical services. Co-operating also was Dr. Magnuson, one of the country's leading physicians with wide contacts with medical research throughout the country. This was the team that shook up the old moribund bureaucracy and brought modern medical practices to the VA hospitals.

Veterans vs. Experts.

Bradley recognized that the medical director should have independence of action in his field. But his successor as VA administrator, Carl Gray, did not see it that way. While Gray made Magnuson chief of medical service, friction grew up between them over decisions that Magnuson felt were properly in his province. The climax came when the administrator fired Magnuson and replaced him with Adm. Joel T. Boone out of the Navy. Boone was physician to Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

In the course of the closed hearings conducted by Senator Humphrey, Gen. Hawley gave a remarkable statement praising Magnuson and strongly urging that the medical director be given independent status. This was the testimony of all the experts.

Legislation Needed.

Unfortunately, most of the veterans' organizations sided with Gray. In the intervening period, of course, they have not had the same commanding position as they held prior to the reforms initiated by Bradley.

When he ended the hearings, Humphrey declared that VA medical services must be free from any outside interference. The medical director must have a clear line of control under the general supervision of the administrator. This was a complete vindication for Dr. Magnuson.

But what can be done to get it is something else. Humphrey hopes that Gray will issue an order giving the medical service autonomy. This would presumably protect the co-operative relationship built up by Magnuson with the deans of leading American medical schools. But legislation specifically providing for an independent service is the only real safeguard.

Neither move will bring back to public service a man who had given much out of a sense of duty. Such loses are irreplaceable and they are rapidly adding up to a dangerous erosion in government.

ANNA ROSENBERG PUT ON BEST-DRESSED LIST

Assistant Defense Secretary Replaces Mrs. Barkley for Fashion Award.

NEW YORK, March 19 (UP)—Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Assistant Secretary of Defense, was named one of America's 17 "best-dressed women for 1951" today by Fashion Academy.

Mrs. Rosenberg's "ability to solve weighty national problems with a womanly love for finery" won her the sartorial citation, the fashion organization announced. She replaced Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Vice President, on the list as the best-dressed woman in public life. Mrs. Barkley is the former Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley of St. Louis.

Others named to receive the twenty-second annual Fashion Academy gold medal award were:

Stage, Gloria Swanson; screen, Gene Tierney; radio, Jo Stafford; entertainment, Georgia Gibbs; television, Joyce Matthews; supper clubs, Margaret Phelan; concert, Juliana Larson; author, Ilka Chase; commentator, Dorothy Kilgallen; hostess, Mrs. Vincent Impellitteri, wife of New York's mayor; society, Mrs. William Paley, wife of the board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System; opera set, Mrs. Lauritz Melchior, wife of the opera star; international set, Mrs. Leon Mandel of Chicago; fashion, Mrs. Jerome K. Ohrbach, wife of a New York department store president; business, Mrs. Helen Neushaefer, Rye, N.Y., head of a cosmetic firm; all American, Maggi McNellis, television star.

WILLIAM G. WACKER SR. DIES

William G. Wacker Sr., a salesman for the Peter Hauptmann Tobacco Co. for the last 30 years, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home, 5648 Goethe avenue. He was 62 years old.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Esther Mary Krupp Wacker; a son, William G. Wacker Jr., 2732 Dalton avenue, and a sister, Mrs. Mamie Wacker Rethwilm, formerly of St. Louis, now living in Los Angeles. Funeral services will be Wednesday at 9 a.m. at Our Lady of Sorrows Church, 5835 South Kingshighway, with burial in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

WILLIAM A. M'KENZIE FUNERAL

Funeral services for William A. McKenzie, an insurance man for 50 years, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Christ the King Church, 7324 Balson avenue, University City, with burial in Keokuk, Ia. He was 69 years old and died Saturday after a long illness at St. Luke's Hospital. He lived at 7359 Delmar boulevard, University City.

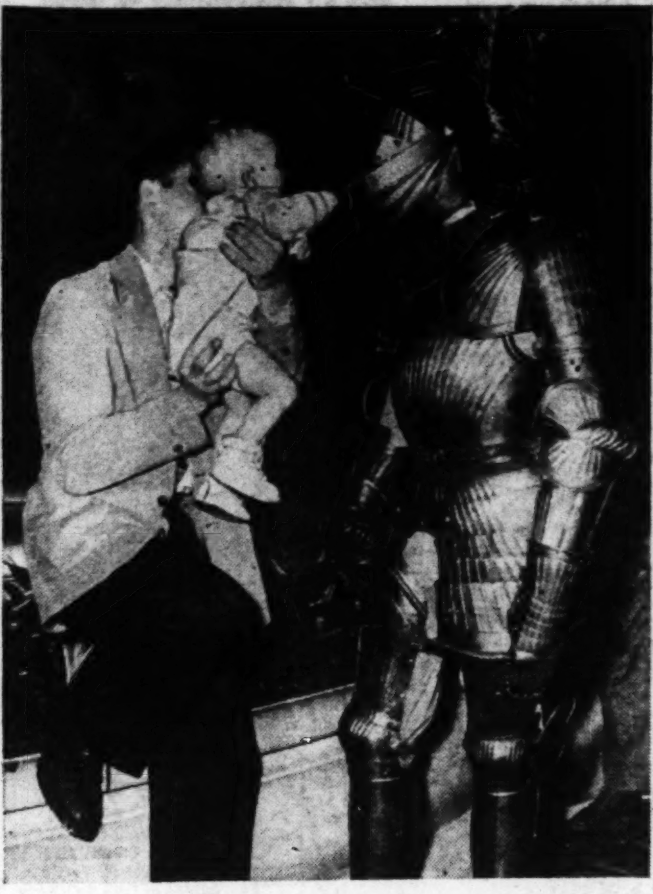
Mr. McKenzie was associated with the Underwriters Adjusting Co. here for 25 years. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Vena McKenzie, and a son, Karl McKenzie.

GEN. PETER C. HARRIS DIES

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Peter Charles Harris, adjutant general of the Army during World War I, died yesterday at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital. He was 85 years old.

He fought in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, winning a citation for gallantry, and later served in the Philippines. He was named adjutant general in September 1918 and retired in 1922. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Princeton, N.J.

Jitterbugging Knight in Armor Entertains Art Museum Crowd



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Thirteen-month-old RITA CORCORAN peering over the lowered visor of WALTER J. GLEIBER yesterday at the City Art Museum. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Corcoran, 2115 North Warson road, Overland, is being held by RICHARD SPRATLEY, 9438 Burdella avenue.

A knight in shining armor "jitterbugged" to recorded baroque music with a fair young partner at the City Art Museum yesterday against a background of immobile armored figures, brilliant Gobelin tapestries, paintings and other precious objects that once graced the imperial Hapsburg court.

The incident, which was impromptu, climaxed a planned demonstration of the flexibility of the armor, subject of many questions from adults as well as children ever since the show opened March 4.

Abrupt end was put to the strangely anachronistic dance when the plumed knight's partner became aware of several hundred amused beholders. In bashful confusion, she broke away, merging hastily with the crowd.

Attendance Record Set.

As expected, the day's attendance broke the show's record, though the armor demonstration had not been announced in advance. The display was visited yesterday by 10,576 persons, compared with the previous high of 7177, established at the opening. Galleries will stay open today until 9:30 p.m.

By 5 p.m. yesterday, turnstiles showed 60,797 persons had seen the treasures in St. Louis. Crowds here are estimated to be running about 90 per cent above those at the collection's last showing, at the Chicago Art Institute.

The armor demonstrated was not part of the Austrian treasures, though it is the same type as that of Maximilian I, which is part of the show. For the stunt, the suit was borrowed from a Hollywood studio by Vincent Price, St. Louis-born actor.

Inside the clanking 47 pounds of metal was Walter J. Gleiber, museum worker whose routine tasks include hanging and removing paintings. The unscheduled dance grew out of his rising to the challenge of a skeptical young woman about 15 years old. "Bet you can't dance in that outfit," she told him.

"Can, too."

"Bet you can't jitterbug."

"I'll prove I can," Gleiber said. "I'll jitterbug with you."

Girl Takes Flight.

But when the laughing crowd gave the dancers room, the girl, whose name Gleiber failed to learn, fled, he said, as if she were Cinderella and the clock were striking 12.

Throughout the demonstration, which is to be repeated Fridays and Saturdays from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. until the show closes April 22, Gleiber was the center of a crowd of about 500. Scales showed he lost a pound during the afternoon.

Eagerly - questioning boys wanted to be shown how the visor worked, whether he wore shoes under his sollerets, or footpieces, and what "that chest hook" (a lance rest) was for. Wide-eyed small fry perched on shoulders of parents who ringed the group.

But 2-year-old Diane Gleiber felt the cold metal just once and then refused to have anything more to do with her father as long as he wore the suit.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS BACH FESTIVAL HERE

Choir and Symphony Orchestra to Be Brought Together Friday, Saturday

The eleventh annual Bach Festival, which will be held here next Friday and Saturday, was termed "one of America's outstanding musical events of Easter week," today by Mayor Joseph M. Darst. The Mayor's statement was made at the signing of a proclamation setting Friday and Saturday aside as "Bach Festival Days."

For the first time, the festival this year will bring together the 150-voice Bach Choir and the 85-piece St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. William Heyne, who founded the Bach Chorus here in 1940, will be the conductor.

Soloists will be Nancy Carr, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Glenn Schnittke, tenor; Bruce Foote, baritone, and Mack Harrell, bass. Harrell has appeared in Municipal Opera performances.

The Good Friday program, which will start at 3:30 p.m., will feature the "Passion According to St. John." At 8:30 p.m. on Saturday will be presented the Easter Oratorio, Easter Cantatas 4 and 31, and Passacaglia in C Minor. The latter is an orchestral number.

Both performances will be in the Opera House of Kiel Auditorium. Tickets are on sale at the auditorium and at the Aeolian ticket office, 1004 Olive street.

MRS. SAMUEL L. GEISINGER DIES; FUNERAL TOMORROW

Mrs. Samuel L. Geisinger, widow of an advertising executive, died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital following an operation four weeks ago. She was 72 years old and lived at the Park Plaza Hotel.

Mrs. Geisinger, the former Miss Mae Newman, and her husband celebrated their golden wedding Jan. 29, 1950. He died Feb. 11. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Donald C. Bixby; a son, Samuel M. Geisinger, and four grandchildren, Mrs. Jackson Johnson III, Miss Patricia Bixby and Patricia Ann and David Geisinger.

Private funeral services will be at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City, with entombment in Oak Grove Mausoleum.

CLEM A. SCHNEIDER DIES; BURIAL TO BE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Clem A. Schneider, president of the Schneider Implement Co. at St. Peters, Mo., will be Wednesday at 8:45 a.m. from the Stiefvater undertaking establishment in St. Peters, to All Saints Catholic Church, with burial in the cemetery there.

Mr. Schneider was 65 years old and died of cancer yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles. He was a director of the Bank of St. Peters, and a former president and director of the Mississippi Valley Farm Equipment Association.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Schneider, a daughter, Mrs. Louise Schappe, and six sons, Eugene, Raymond, Cyril, William, Leonard and Clem Jr.

MILTON BERLE SIGNS 30-YEAR NBC CONTRACT

'7-Figure' Pact Gives Network Option on His Services in Radio, Television.

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Milton Berle has signed a 30-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co.

The contract gives NBC first call on the 42-year-old comedian's services, either as actor, producer, writer or director, in both radio and television. It is subject to his present contract with the Texas Co. for next year.

The network announced yesterday that Berle had signed.

His attorney, Irwin W. Rosenberg, said later that the contract would run into "seven figures"—$1,000,000 and up—over the 30-year period.

The lawyer said this sum merely covered the granting of exclusive services to NBC, and that Berle's activities as actor, producer, writer or director will call for additional pay.

The agreement covers Berle's regular appearances on his own television show sponsored by the Texas Co. on Tuesday (at 7 p.m. over KSD-TV) as well as guest appearances on other programs.

Berle's television career started with the "Texaco Star Theater" that began on NBC television June 8, 1948.

Besides his radio and television work, Berle is known as a screen and stage star and a composer. He was born in New York in 1908.

Berle's contract is the longest ever signed in the radio and television field. The previous record was a 20-year contract reserving the services of Don McNeil, star of the "Breakfast Club" program, to the American Broadcasting Co.

CLAUDE O. MILES FUNERAL TO BE WEDNESDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Claude O. Miles, founder and president of the Highland Machine and Screw Products Co. at Highland, Ill., and a former St. Louisan, will be Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Church in Highland, with burial at Valhalla Cemetery in Belleville.

Mr. Miles, who was 43 years old and lived at Highland, died Saturday of a heart ailment while vacationing in Florida. He was a co-owner of the old Kline-Miles Tool and Die Co. in St. Louis until 1943, when he founded the Highland firm. He was a vice president of the First National Bank of Lerna, Ill., and a director of the Bank of Advance at Advance, Mo.

STATE'S LAST UNION ARMY VETERAN DIES

John Hutchinson, 105, Also Was Oklahoma's Only Civil War Ex-Soldier.

STROUD, Okla., March 19 (AP) John Hutchinson, Missouri's last Civil War veteran of the Union Army, died here yesterday at the age of 105. Mr. Hutchinson, who had lived with two of his daughters here and at Bristow, Okla., since 1943, also was the last Union veteran living in Oklahoma. Mr. Hutchinson suffered a broken hip Jan. 12 when he fell at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Doshier Holdaway. He was in a hospital at Oklahoma City nine weeks, returning to Stroud 12 days ago.

He was seriously ill in bed on March 14—his 105th birthday—when he received greetings from the Missouri State Senate, which had passed a resolution paying tribute to him as Missouri's sole surviving Union Army Civil War veteran.

He outlived his wife and four of his 11 children; but seven children survive, along with 185 other descendants.

He was born in Grange county, Tenn., March 14, 1846, and two years later moved with his parents to Ozark county Missouri. He lived there until he enlisted in the Union Army in 1864.

FUNERAL OF THOMAS P. LAHEY

Funeral services for Thomas P. Lahey, a retired grain broker, will be held Wednesday at 9 a.m. at St. Leo's Catholic Church, 2315 Mullanphy street, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery. He was 76 years old and died of heart disease yesterday at St. John's Hospital.

Mr. Lahey was a member of the St. Louis Merchants Exchange and had been active as a grain broker here for 30 years until his retirement about 10 years ago. Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Hazel Carter Lahey. He lived at 5735 DeGiverville avenue.

RED CROSS AID TO VETERANS

The Red Cross Service Department, which aids thousands of veterans and servicemen and their families, has been increasingly busy since the outbreak of the Korean war. Last month, the St. Louis Chapter's Home Service Department received or placed 1615 emergency telephone calls, 1417 families received some service or information; 742 received assistance to solve personal problems; 361 telegrams were sent or received regarding emergencies and 36 services were rendered by volunteer specialists in the foreign inquiry department. All this work was handled by 18 volunteers and two paid workers. Your contribution to the Red Cross fund campaign will help support this emergency service.

Tigers for a Change Not Too Optimistic.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—RED ROLFE'S Detroit Tigers finished second last year, only three games behind the Yankees, but there's not much optimism in the camp this spring. Art Houtteman is in the service, there are no important new men on the roster and there's a feeling that the Tigers may have difficulty finishing ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who were fourth in 1950, six games off the pace of the Yankees.

In many recent years the Tigers have pinned pennant hopes on a fine pitching staff. But with Houtteman gone and much uncertainty about what Virgil Trucks can do, pitching is mentioned now as one of the club problems when followers of the Tigers discuss the coming pennant race.

Uncertain pitching, a light batting attack and lack of reserve strength are mentioned as the factors that eliminate the usual spring pennant fever from the camp of the Tigers, and some of the Detroit observers go farther and say that the catching is another thing that may hobble Rolfe's club.

Harold Newhouser, Ted Gray, Freddie Hutchinson and Paul Trout are Rolfe's Big Four and there's not too much after the quartet. Hank Borowy, Paul Calvert and Earl Johnson look like the best of the reserves, although it is hoped that Trucks will come back and bolster the staff into something like the big asset it once was. It's possible, too, that Hal White may arrive this year. Probably the best of the newcomers, judging by spring game performances, is Herbert. He held the Cardinals to one hit in a four-inning job at St. Petersburg, and the Redbirds admitted the hight-hander was rather sharp.

Red Rolfe Admits Outlook Not Bright.

LAST year the Tigers made like pennant winners for a long stretch and might have done the job if it hadn't been for misfortunes in the pitching department. This spring, however, Rolfe isn't trying to create any false optimism. He admits his problems and predicts that unless things break very well, the Tigers may find themselves struggling to stay ahead of the Cleveland Indians.

Aaron Robinson, who batted only .226 last season, is the No. 1 catcher, with the veteran Bob Swift next in line and Myron Ginsberg as the third stringer. Frank House Jr., the bonus catcher, is on the roster again, but nobody enjoys mention of the fact. House has been one of the biggest disappointments for the Tigers in recent years.

If there are no injuries, the Tiger infield can rate very well. Don Kolloway will be at first base again, with the capable Gerry Priddy at second, Johnny Lipon at short and George Kell at third. But when you ask about depth in the infield Connie Berry is mentioned and that's about the end of it. Steve Souchock is on the roster as an infielder, but he's classified in camp as an outfielder and pinch-hitter. Dick Kryhoski also is on the squad, but he's a reserve only for the first base spot.

If there's any bragging to be done about the Tigers, it concerns the outfield, for Rolfe really has a fine combination in Hoot Evers, Johnny Groth and Vic Wertz. The combination has speed and defensive strength and batting power, too, each of the trio hitting better than .300. And in reserve there are Pat Mullin and Charley Keller.

St. Louis Area Swimmers Win In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (INS)—Helen Hughes, 15-year-old Ferguson (Mo.) girl, set two swim marks yesterday in the sixth annual Kansas City Invitational championships at the K.C.A.C.

Paddling for the St. Louis Y.W.H.A., she won the 50-yard free style in 30.7 seconds and the 100-yard freestyle in 1:06.5. The previous meet records were 31.2 set in 1949 by Pat Conklin of Wichita, and 1:10.6 set by Elizabeth Harsh of Ponca City, Okla.

Two other records were established. Dick Dobyns, 15, of Normandy, Mo., won the 50-yard breaststroke in 32.6 seconds, and Robinson Ord Jr., 17, of St. Louis Country Day School, won the 50-yard freestyle in 24.2.

Joan McFarlin, 17, of Ponca City, tied the record of 1:19.3 in the 100-yard backstroke to capture that event. She also won three other races, the 50, 100 and 200-yard freestyle in the women's division.

Price Controls Net In Table Tennis Meet

First-seeded Bill Price defeated third-ranked George Hendry, 15-21, 21-12, 21-18, 21-12, to win the men's singles championship at the St. Louis District Table Tennis Tournament at the Table Tennis Center last night.

It was another big night for Price, as he also shared in the men's and mixed doubles titles. He paired with Jane Allison to defeat Al Holtmann and Dorothy Nash, 21-17, 21-9, for the mixed crown, and with Holtmann to down Jim Tancill and Wallace Gundlach, 23-21, 19-21, 21-15, for the doubles title.

Ned Garver Fails Again In Seventh Loss in Row

By Bob Broeg

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BURBANK, Calif., March 19—Not even the most loyal and optimistic Brownie fan can expect too much from the St. Louis Americans in a top-heavy league that includes the Yankees, Red Sox, Tigers and Indians. On the other hand, there's really nothing to be alarmed about today in the Browns' failure to win in the Grapefruit League.

The string of consecutive defeats, reaching seven after yesterday's fourth setback at the hands of the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 7, isn't good for the advance ticket sale, of course, and Zack Tayqlor doesn't like to lose any more than the next manager. But the skipper of the Browns knows just how little these games mean when pitchers and lineups are changed for purposes of conditioning and evaluation of players.

"I've know too many ball clubs that looked great in the Grapefruit League and then folded when regular-season play began. So I'm not getting panicky over losing out here, Taylor said.

Looks Back Over Shoulder.

Ol' Zack knows, too, that interclub spring competition seldom carries over into league play. Last year, for instance, the Browns took four out of six from the White Sox, who were a miserable team along the cactus trail, winning only five of 17 games from major league clubs before the season opened. But in the American League, Chicago won 12 of 22 games from the Browns, who had been a solid .500 club in spring contests, and Sox edge in the season's series represented the two lengths by which they nosed out Taylor's athletes for sixth place.

Over the weekend, the Browns were a better-looking ball club, and they well might have won Saturday's 11-inning game at Pasadena and yesterday's contest here if Ol' Zack hadn't stuck carefully to his plan to work pitchers not quite as far advanced as others. For instance, Bill Kennedy, who was set back a week by the flu, was weak in the knees, but eager to pitch, and Stubby Overmier, who knows how to nurse his veteran left arm to reach a peak when things count, just eased through a three-inning stretch in the same game Saturday.

Garver Far From Himself.

The best example on the Brownie roster of the difference between exhibition and regular-season play is Ned Garver, the righthanded ace. Always slow starting, fleshy and needing hard work to get into pitching condition, Garver reminds Taylor of Burleigh Grimes, Ted Lyons and Bob Feller among other good hurlers who got their lumps early.

Before yesterday's game, Taylor said with a sigh on the bench, "Charley DeWitt would like to win this one, but I'm afraid we're in for trouble again. I'll bet Al Widmar holds Chicago, but that Garver"—and here the manager shook his head—"he'll probably get his ears pinned back again. I've got to pitch him to get him ready to open the season, don't I?"

Ol' Zack called the turn again. Widmar, practically certain to be a starter in the opening American League series at Sportsman's Park beginning April 17, pitched six smooth innings in which the White Sox collected five hits and only one run, a tainted tally that resulted from a fly lost in the sun by Ken Wood for a fluke triple.

Then Garver, taking over with a 4-1 lead, was cuffed as predicted, allowing nine hits and eight runs in three innings, and there went the ball game. Actually the Browns' baby-faced killer of the mound wasn't hit as hard as last week when Chicago teed off for six runs in three innings, though he again was missing the plate, yielding three walks.

Isn't Hitting the Corners.

"Every spring it's the same," Taylor went on. "Ned needs time to get sharp control. When he gets it, he's catching the corners he's missing now. As he said himself, it's too bad we don't have a B team so he could get ready without embarrassing himself or the club."

For the second straight game, however, the Browns weren't embarrassed at bat, collecting 12 hits which included three by Hank Arft and two each by Bob Young and Tommy Upton. Jim Delsing and Upton whacked triples, and the spindly-shanked Upton showed power when he belted to dead center field a long drive that was collared on the run by Chicago's Ed McGhee about 430 feet from the plate. The smash by the

Bilko Gets Shot at Job---It's No Blank; Triples to Put Cards Over Phils, 1-0

By J. Roy Stockton

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19—Steve Bilko, the big boy from Nanticoke, Pa., who went through the 1950 training season without ever looking like a big league prospect, in the field or at bat, is a different athlete this year.

Steve still may not make it this season, as the competition is keen and Marty Marion wouldn't think of having a Bilko on the bench. But Steve is hitting this year, and now that he's down to a trim 235 pounds, he's showing that he can field his position and run with fair speed, considering the load he carries.

Steve furnished the big punch yesterday as the Cardinals defeated the National League champion Phillies 1 to 0 in a windblown ball game. Leading off in the sixth inning against Ken Johnson, Steve belted a line drive to left-center, the ball hitting the wall on an early bounce.

Somebody remarked as Bilko faced Johnson that if Steve's powerful swing ever met Johnson's speed head-on, something would happen. It did. The ball sailed on a line, like a golfer's tee shot, rising with the carry and with a momentum that defied the gusty wind. It was a triple and developed into the only run of the game when Enos Slaughter sent a fly to Richie Ashburn in center.

Looks Good in Field.

Bilko handled a lot of throws at first base, scooping some out of the dirt and stretching for others. One swallow doesn't make another story about Capistrano, but this was one ball game in which the big boy from Nanticoke looked the ball player Cardinal observers have been raving about for some time. He made one Hal Chase stop of a hot smash off Johnson's bat in the sixth inning.

Once again Cardinal pitching was good. George Munger, making his first appearance of the season, yielded two hits in four innings, and young Cloyd Boyer, pleasingly sharp, worked five innings and retired the Phils in order except for a double by Stan Lopata in the eighth and an infield single by Del Wilber in the ninth. Boyer nullified the Lopata double by picking the Phillie catches off second base with a snap throw.

Tommy Glaviano played shortstop and indicated that his throwing arm was still bothering him. Tommy isn't throwing naturally. He seems to have a complex about throwing, fearful that he'll throw wild; and when a ball is hit to him you instinctively wonder if he'll hit his target.

Eddie Kazak played third base, but Don Richmond will be back there today when the Cards play the Phillies a return game at Clearwater. Richmond was stopped by the top flight pitching of Ewell Blackwell, Walter Masterson and Maurice McDermott, but those pitchers will stop anybody. Marion knows about what Kazak can do, as he explained after yesterday's game that he would use Richmond as frequently as possible. It may be that Richmond will open the season at third base.

Phils Shoot With Best.

The Phillies presented the line-up that probably will take the field opening day. Dick Sisler has been ill and is overweight, and Del Ennis, Ashburn and Bill Nicholson at the moment are the three rating outfielders. Eddie Sawyer also had his regular infield of Waitkus, Goliat, Hamner and Willie Jones on duty for the entire game.

Marion presented a patched up team. The infield was Kazak, Glaviano, Cole and Bilko, not exactly a championship major league combination. Red Schoendienst is still getting ready to play and Solly Hemus, No. 1 replacement at second, was ordered to rest a few days after being beaned Saturday.

Saigh, Pollet Still at It.

Fred Saigh announced that he had wired Howard Pollet, inviting the left-handed pitcher to come here for a contract conference and suggesting that it would be the courteous thing to do, inasmuch as the Cardinals had sent Pollet a check to cover his traveling expenses.

Pollet replied that he was being courteous but that the club had been discourteous in not telephoning to him, and said there was no sense in his coming here, as he had stated the salary he would play for and would not budge from his demands.

Saigh replied that the telegram "bordered on impudence," and that he wanted to pay Pollet what he was worth, but he would not pay him what he was paid last year, when as Saigh said, "Pollet did not deliver." Saigh said in the wire to Pollet that the club would not budge in its offer.

Pollet thus becomes the most stubborn holdout since the days of Chick Hafey, who one year was sent to Danville, Ill., for personal spring training because he missed the entire training season.

When it was suggested that Pollet might sue the Cardinals to test the reserve clause, bringing into the picture again that old sword of Damocles, Saigh said he was not perturbed about that possibility and thought the question of the reserve clause, a cornerstone of the baseball structure, ought to be settled definitely and now might be as good a time as ever.

Marion's Knee Better, Thinks He'll Be Okay

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.

MARTY MARION is jubilant over a sudden change for the better in the condition of his repaired right knee. After taking some strenuous bending exercises recently, the knee joint swelled and became painful. Naturally Marty was discouraged about his chances of playing any shortstop for his Cardinals this year.

"It seemed to get better again all of a sudden," Marty said after yesterday's ball game. "I worked out before the game and if I say it myself, I made a couple of good plays. I really mean the knee felt good, and it didn't swell at all. I'm encouraged. Maybe I'll be able to play some more shortstop at that."

It would mean a lot to the Cardinals if Marion, the old master at the position, could play 120 or 130 games. With Mr. Shortstop back on the job, the Redbirds might even get the pennant fever. Replacing a Marion is a rather tough job.

Big Seven Would Boycott Sooners if They Televise

NORMAN, Okla., March 19 (AP)—Faculty representatives of Big Seven Conference schools voted by telephone to cancel athletic contests with the University of Oklahoma if it decides or is compelled to permit live television of its football games, Dr. George L. Cross, president, said today.

Cross said in a statement:

"This means that the university might find it impossible financially to participate in inter-collegiate athletics next season if the bill concerning television now before the (state) Senate becomes law.

"Without the Big Seven schools there would not be sufficient contests to support a season's activity in any sport. In addition, it is likely that other schools outside the Big Seven also would cancel scheduled contests."

The conference vote comes after a bill was introduced in the Oklahoma senate which would compel the university to telecast its football games next fall.

Under an N.C.C.A. rule voted last year, the member schools are barred from live televising of home games.

The bill, introduced and guided by Oklahoma Senator George Miskovsky, has become one of the hottest issues of the session. It was due for a vote today.

The Justice Department at Washington, D.C., has been requested by Miskovsky to investigate the N.C.A.A. for possible violations of the anti-trust laws because of its ban.

Cross and Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson last week appeared before a Senate committee considering the television bill. They said they were in favor of live telecasting but asked the N.C.A.A. be allowed to work out its own solution. A meeting has been called by the N.C.A.A. to reconsider its stand.

Walter Kraft, Oklahoma's faculty representative to the Big Seven, said he was informed today by Reaves Peters, conference commissioner, that the vote to cancel games with Oklahoma was unanimous.

Penn State Soccer Team To Play Series in Iran

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Penn State's national championship soccer team accepted an invitation yesterday to play a series of games in Iran on grounds that "sports competition is one of the things that can help bring people closer together."

Ozark Champs Win Opener in A.A.U. Tourney

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, March 19 — The Egyptian Mohawks of Arcadia, Mo., winners of the Ozark tournament played in St. Louis, advanced to the second round of the National A.A.U. basketball tournament by beating Chappel, Nebr., 57-52, here yesterday.

However, the Mohawks get a stern test tonight when they meet the Denver Chevrolets, one of the seeded teams, in the final game of a 10-game program lasting all day. The Mohawks' game is scheduled for 11:15 p.m. (St. Louis time).

With only 13:10 of the first half played, the Mohawks, whose team includes five school teachers, piled up a 30-15 lead, largely as a result of fancy hitting by Gene Ruble. But the Nebraskans rallied and drew within three points of the Missouri club on several occasions.

The Mohawks' foe tonight has added Dale Toft of Denver U. and Wayne Tucker of Colorado U.

Most impressive victory opening day was scored by the Springfield One-Day Cleaners, Illinois champions. They beat Los Angeles Jaycees, 60 to 51.

Phillips 66, defending champions and winners of the tournament seven of the past eight years, won't play until tomorrow afternoon. They'll meet Laramie, Wyo.

Forty-one teams from 22 states entered the week-long 1951 tournament.

Four detectives have been assigned to the tournament to guard against gambling, bribery or ticket scalping, Capt. Verne McCoy of the Denver police morals bureau said.

First Round Scores.

Laramie, Wyo., 61; Denver Continental 53.
Amarillo, Texas, 50, Provo, Utah, Jaycees 45.
Spokane, Wash., 58, Sedalia, Mo., Central Business College 38.
Springfield, Ill., 60, Los Angeles Jaycees 51.
Arcadia, Mo., Mohawks 57, Chappel, Nebr., 52.
Fort Collins, Colo. 58, Geyer, Mont., 46.
Colorado Springs 77, Rossville, Ga., 67.

St. Joe Team Loses In Women's National Basket Title Tourney

DALLAS, Tex., March 19 (UP)—Defending champion Nashville Business College gets its first test today in the twenty-third annual Women's National A.A.U. Basketball tournament.

The Nashville sextet, led by their many-times All-American Alline Banks, meet the Dallas Queens, who marked up a 27-20 victory over the Kansas City (Mo.) Dons in a first-round game last night. Nashville, top seeded, had a first-day bye.

The 24-point individual scoring performances highlighted the opening round of play. One of them was turned in by Wanda Edwards, but it wasn't enough to keep her team, Wooten Motorettes of Fort Worth, Tex., from being knocked out 33-28 by little Dixie Queens of Ada, Okla.

Mona Harris of the Denver Denverettes also netted 24 points as her team routed Elite Cleaners of Shreveport, La., 41-26.

Five Texas teams, one from Baltimore, Md., and one from New Orleans marked up victories along with the Denverettes and the Little Dixie Queens in the opening program of the week-long tournament.

Martin Bomberettes of Baltimore defeated St. Joseph (Mo.) Goetz, 35-30; Dallas Hornets won over Pittsfield (Mass.) Professional Drug-Y.M.C.A., 35-25; K-Service Station, Canyon, Tex., ousted Omaha (Nebr.) Commercial Extension, 27-25; New Orleans Dad-Doub Motors trimmed Tintorieria Coahuila of Mexico City, 52-44; Houston (Tex.) Starlettes beat the Okmulgee (Okla.) Cardinals, 23-22; Lackland (Tex.) Air Force Base defeated Kiowa (Kan.) Frigidaires, 29-21, and Dallas Queens knocked out the Kansas City (Mo.) Dons, 27-22.

Teel Totals 201 to Win Palm Springs Golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., March 19 (UP)—Charley Teel shot 67 yesterday to card a 54-hole total of 201 and capture the annual Palm Springs Invitational golf tournament championship.

Teel of Las Vegas, Nev., forged ahead of Johnny Dawson, who plays out of the nearby Thunderbird Club and was holder of a one-stroke lead going into the final day of the three-day tourney. Teel's card was 70-64-67.

Second place honors went to Seattle's Harry Given, who shot 67 for a 67-68-67—202 mark. Bruce McCormick of Lakeside Country Club, Studio City, Calif., tied with Dawson at 204.

Ted Williams in Verbal Form

Gripes After Striking Out Twice, Hits Homer, Then Complains About Exhibition Games.

TAMPA, Fla., March 19 AP)—He homered, but you still never saw an angrier guy than Boston's Ted Williams after he struck out twice in one inning yesterday.

Fanning the Red Sox strong boy was one of the few pleasures Cincinnati pitcher Eddie Erautt got out of the exhibition at the Redleg training camp here—even though the Reds won 15-12.

Erautt lasted only one inning as the Sockers clipped him for seven runs. Temperamental Teddy seemed to be the only batsman Erautt could do anything with in that seventh inning.

Williams, who complained of having a "lousy cold," did manage to poke a terrific blast over right center field fence for three runs, however. Later he complained about playing in exhibition games.

Cincinnati snapped a six-game exhibition losing streak with the victory.

Zoldak and His Sore Arm.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—Sam Zoldak has a sore arm again and he thinks it may be a break.

A lucky break, says the Cleveland Indians' southpaw, because: "It was sore in 1948 and when it got better, I had more stuff than before."

Sam contributed nine victories to the Tribe's pennant victory that year after St. Louis sold him in June for $100,000. But he slumped the next two seasons and wound up with one victory, two defeats for 1949 and 4-2 for 1950.

Phil Rookie Operated On.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19 (AP)—An operation probably has cost rookie Johnny Walz his chance of making the Philadelphia Phillies this season.

Walz, 20-year-old right-handed pitcher up from the Phils farm club at Wilmington, Del., underwent an emergency appendectomy at the Morton Plant Hospital here yesterday.

Jackie Robinson Ailing.

MIAMI, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers second baseman, is still bothered by a strained back muscle, and says his health is more important than playing exhibition games.

Robinson played three innings Saturday night against the New York Giants, but missed the Sunday game entirely.

Ray Mueller to Join Braves.

TAMPA, Fla., March 19 (UP)—Veteran Ray Mueller was expected to report to the Boston Braves by the end of the week to bolster their paper-thin catching corps.

Mueller, who was given his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh Pirates a few days ago, came to terms with the Braves yesterday. The 39-year-old catcher said he would leave the Pirates' Burbank base immediately.

Pettit Disappoints Meyer.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 19 (UP)—Manager Billy Meyer showed keen disappointment today following Paul Pettit's second consecutive unimpressive pitching performance for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pettit was staked to an 11 to 0 first-inning lead over the Oakland Acorns yesterday only to be rocked for eight runs in five innings. The $100,000 bonus kid now has allowed 13 runs in eight innings against minor league competition this spring.

The hard-hitting Pirates belted the Acorns, 15 to 10, in a morning game, then downed San Francisco, 12 to 8, in the afternoon.

Brigham Young Joins Kentucky and Iba's Aggies as Tourney Choices

Illini Play Unbeaten Columbia Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Kentucky and Oklahoma A. and M., college basketball's potent one-two punch, are strong favorites to wade through divisional playoffs this week and meet for the N.C.A.A. championship.

But the road to the title game at Minneapolis March 27 appears much more hazardous for Hank Iba's deliberate Aggies than for the Wildcats, who were No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll.

This Kentucky team which Coach Adolph Rupp compares with his finest productions—and he has had many—is expected to breeze through the Eastern eliminations opening tomorrow night at Raleigh, N. C., and New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Aggies, champions of the fast Missouri Valley Conference and second ranked nationally, are figured to have far rougher sailing in the western playoffs at Kansas City, beginning Wednesday night.

What Changed Things.

1. Kansas State, the Big Seven titlist, sounded a warning by overwhelming Illinois, the Big Ten champion, in a warmup game, 91-72.

2. Brigham Young, kingpin of the Skyline Six, impressed the basketball world with an impressive sweep to the National Invitation championships at Madison Square Garden.

The B. Y. U. Cougars downed St. Louis, Seton Hall and Dayton in order, smashing a red-hot Dayton team, 62-43. They think they can make it a grand slam, but conditions are against them.

Last year when City College turned the trick for the first time in history, all games of both tournaments were played on C.C. N.Y.'s home floor at the Garden.

To equal the achievement, Brigham Young would have to survive days of travel and play on three floors. Strange gyms, however, hold no terrors for these Utah lads, who have never had a home court of their own.

"It's going to be tough because the boys are mighty tired," said B.Y.U. Coach Stanley Watts. "But the boys are on fire—they think they can do it."

How Did They Lose Seven?

Brigham Young showed such poise and class in the invitation that fans wondered how the team ever lost seven games. The Cougars have a 27-7 record.

In Roland Minson, a six-foot basket marksman who covers a floor like a tarpaulin, and jumping Mel Hutchins, a tremendous defender, the Far Westerners have two of the best performers to show in the East.

Brigham Young opens with little San Jose State at 9:45 p.m. (St. Louis time) Wednesday. If the Cougars get past that one, they will meet the Kansas State-Arizona winner. That should give them at least half the answer.

Kentucky will open its bid against Louisville at Raleigh tomorrow night in the second game of a doudleheader that also features crippled North Carolina State and Villanova.

Columbia's unbeaten Ivy League champions, only major unblemished team in basketball, play Illinois in New York as part of a doubleheader also involving St. John's and Connecticut. St. John's won third place in the invitation by beating Seton Hall in a double overtime, 70-68.

The schedule (all times St. Louis time):

EASTERN N.C.A.A.
Tuesday.

At Raleigh, N.C.—6:45 p.m.—North Carolina State (28-5) vs. Villanova (24-5); 8:30 p.m.—Kentucky (28-2) vs. Louisville (19-6).

At New York—6:45 p.m.—St. John's (24-4) vs. Connecticut (22-3); Columbia (22-0) vs. Illinois (19-4).

WESTERN N.C.A.A., AT KANSAS CITY.

Wednesday—8 p.m.—Kansas State (22-3) vs. Arizona (24-5); 9:45 p.m.—Brigham Young (27-7) vs. San Jose State (18-11).

Thursday—8 p.m.—Oklahoma A. and M. (27-4) vs. Montana State (22-12); 9:45 p.m.—Texas A. and M. (16-11) vs. Washington (22-5).

Brigham Young Places Two Players on Stars

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Champion Brigham Young placed its two main stars, Roland Minson and Mel Hutchins, on the National Invitation Basketball Tournament's all-star team chosen by the Associated Press.

Dayton, beaten by B.Y.U., 62-43, in the finals Saturday night at Madison Square Garden, was represented by two players also with the other berth going to St. John's, which won the consolation over Seton Hall, 70-68, in a double overtime.

The team:

Forwards — Roland Minson, Brigham Young; Bob Zawoluk, St. John's.

Center—Don Meineke, Dayton.

Guards—Mel Hutchins, Brigham Young, Leland Norris, Dayton.

No. 5 for War Allies.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 19 (UP)—War Allies pushed his Hipodromo de Tijuana winning streak to five straight races yesterday by nosing out Dina Bam in the six-furlong spring handicap. Jockey Gail Parker drove War Allies over the course in 1:11, overtaking Dina Bam only a few yards from the wire. Mr. Bam, an entry with Dina Bam, was third.

War Allies paid $12.80, $4.00 and $4.20. The Dina Bam-Mr. Bam entry returned $2.80 for place and $2.80 for show.

This rebound went to Freeport, as did a majority of the shots off the backboard in the Illinois state championship final Saturday night against Moline. Freeport defeated Moline and won the title. Freeport players here are GENE SCHMITT (12) and HARLAN FRITZ (25), while identifiable Moline players are BOB ANDERS (32) and AUSTIN DUKE (24).

Freeport's Champions to Be Feted By Citizens' Committee Tomorrow

FREEPORT, Ill., March 19 (AP)—A substantial portion of this city's 22,400 citizens turned out yesterday to welcome home their state high school basketball champions — despite chilly weather and a two-hour delay in the team's arrival.

They were delayed at Dixon, about 30 miles south of here, while a welcoming crowd from the Dixon-Sterling-Rock Falls area feted them. The Freeport players were presented the keys to Dixon by the group.

A caravan of some 200 private cars and a state police escort met the team at Forreston, midway between Freeport and Dixon, and accompanied them the rest of the way home.

A band-led parade punctuated by fireworks displays was held in downtown Freeport with a huge crowd assembled along the streets to cheer the high school heroes. Because of the sun-less, nippy weather, many welcomers remained in cars, parked double throughout the business section.

There the players and their parents were presented to the crowd, and the parents were given commemorative scrap books of the season's triumphs.

Coach Harry Kinert, Mayor Glen F. Kunkle, High School Principal Louis E. Mensenkamp and several of the players gave brief talks.

McKinley (Deacon) Davis, start center for the Pretzels, told the crowd he was throwing away a "lucky" stocking cap he has worn for nine years. He said he had promised his teammates to make this sacrifice if Freeport won the championship.

Forward Harlan Fritz said he was sure he and the others on the squad could "do better—if we just had four more years." Fritz, Davis and most other Pretzel lettermen have been playing together for four years in high school.

A citizens' committee will honor the team at a testimonial dinner tomorrow night.

High School Girl Sets American Swim Record

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19 (UP)—Phebe Cramer, 15-year-old Berkeley (Calif.) high school student, smashed the women's 50-yard breaststroke American record yesterday, swimming the distance in 33.3 seconds.

Miss Cramer broke the five-year mark set by Jane Dillard of Houston, Tex., while swimming the 100-yard breaststroke in a benefit meet for the women's Olympic team.

She narrowly missed breaking the 100-yard record when she churned the distance in 1:52.2, one-tenth of a second from the American mark.

Third Time Is Charm.

SEBRING, Fla., March 19 (UP)—M. E. Stephens Jr., Sebring citrus man, succeeded yesterday in his third attempt to win the National Amateur Senior golf match play title. Stephens won the tournament of amateur golfers over 50 years of age by defeating Glen S. Norville of Oklahoma City, 3 and 1.

Norman Top Scorer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 19 (UP)—Ken Norman, Decatur forward, took scoring honors in the 1951 Illinois Prep basketball tournament.

Norman tallied 79 points in four games to lead all other players. However, his total was far below the tournament record of 104, set by Mount Vernon's Max Hooper in 1950.

Norman Decatur	79
Brothers, Quincy	73
Davis, Freeport	73
Van Vooren, Moline	67
Heitholt, Quincy	66
Meuriot, Decatur	66
Hoke, Moline	59
Dorsey, Freeport	55
Fritz, Freeport	54
Williams, Freeport	52

Only two new records were set in the forty-fourth annual Sweet 16 event. Both were recorded in the Freeport 88-60 rout of Decatur. Freeport's 88 points and the 148 two-team total are the new marks.

Freeport equalled one other record by winning its third state title. Rockford Central, Centralia, Decatur and Mount Vernon share that record with Pretzels.

One way to slow down the opposing player, by planting a foot in his side, was demonstrated by this Yakima boy, ALLEN PERRY, against Seattle Prep Guard CLIFF KAYS in the Washington state basketball tournament. Yakima won the semi-final game, 40 to 36.

Ferrier Leads By Five Strokes At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19 (UP) — Jim Ferrier, who is shooting for his third golf title since March 4, started the last round of the Jacksonville Open today with a five-stroke lead over his nearest rival, Art Wall Jr., of Bronxville, N.Y.

Ferrier shot his third straight 68 yesterday to grab the third-round lead with a 12-under-par 204. Wall posted a 66 on the third round, only one stroke over the course record, to jump into the runner-up spot with a 209.

Ferrier, who claims "breaks" are responsible for the hottest streak of his 11-year pro career, made his own luck with fine golf yesterday. He ran off a three-under-par 33 on the front nine, collecting birdies on the fourth, fifth and eighth holes. He climaxed his third straight four-under-par round with another birdie on the fourteenth hole.

Jack Shields of Cedar Rapids, Ia., deadlocked Ferrier for the second round lead but slipped to third when he shot a 74. He began the last round with a 210.

Lloyd Mangrum, the former P.G.A. champion from Chicago who ruined Ferrier's bid for three straight titles by winning the Seminole pro-amateur crown earlier last week, held fourth spot with a 54-hole total of 211. Mangrum shot a ragged, five-over-par 77 Friday but bounced back with a second round 68 and matched Wall's sparkling 66 yesterday.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del.; Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash.; Jackson Bradley of Chicago and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., were deadlocked with 214's as fourth round play began.

B'nai B'rith Adds Y.M.H.A. Cage Title

B'nai B'rith, already St. Louis Muny basketball champions, won the Y.M.H.A. title by defeating AZA 511 by a 73-64 score. B'nai B'rith will represent the St. Louis Y.M.H.A. in the Midwestern Jewish Welfare Board tournament in Akron, O., on March 24 and 25.

Flyers Score Three in Final Period to Win

CINCINNATI, March 19 (UP)—The St. Louis Flyers scored three times in the final period last night to defeat the Cincinnati Mohawks, 6 to 4, in their final American Hockey League game of the season.

Goals by Jackie Hamilton, Ed Nicholson and Ernie Trigg in the final period gave the Flyers the victory and fourth place in the final regular season standings.

Both clubs failed to make the league playoffs, Cincinnati finishing below St. Louis in the Western Division cellar.

The Mohawks clicked first with a marker at 10:53 of the first period. Jean-Paul Denis took a backward pass from Fern Perrault and netted the puck from 25 feet out.

Cincinnati scored again at 00.20 of the wild-scoring second frame that saw each team tally three times. Jerry Plamondon, Paul Masnick and Bert Hirschfeld tallied for the Mohawks with Jean Lamirande, Cliff Simpson and Al Baccari registering for the Flyers.

Simpson's score came at 9:50 when Mohawk John Lancien missed a pass and the Flyer center picked the puck up at the red line and went in unassisted with no defensemen to check him. Hirschfeld pulled a similar stunt for Cincinnati at 15:22, out-feinting one flyer defenseman to ring the buzzer.

Lamirande scored at 4:32 on a screen shot from 25 feet out. Baccari's marker came at 19:13 when he deflected Bill McComb's screen shot into the net.

Plamondon's opening tally came when he faked two defense men out of position and shot past them from 15 feet out. Masnick rang the buzzer at 14:40, shooting between Red Almas's legs from 10 feet out.

A crowd of 4321 watched the game.

The lineups:

CINCINNATI.		FLYERS.
Francis	G.	Almas
Lancien	D.	Grigg
Nattrass	D.	Milligan
Moore	C.	McComb
Plamandon	L.W.	Backor

Officials — Referee, Red Reynolds. Linesman, Bud Gayer.

First period: Scoring—1, Cincinnati, Dennis (Campeau-Perreault), 10:53. Penalties—none.

Second period: Scoring—2, Cincinnati, Plamandon (Nattrass-Moore), 0:20; 3, Flyers, Lamirande (Nicholson-Hamilton), 4:32; 4, Flyers, Simpson (unassisted) 9:15; 5, Cincinnati, Masnick (Dube-Roche), 14:40; 6, Cincinnati, Hirschfield (Moore), 15:22; 7, Flyers, Baccari (McComb-Hyrmnak), 19:13. Penalties—none.

Third period: Scoring—8, Flyers, Hamilton (Simpson), 7:15; 9, Flyers, Nicholson (Lamirande, Hamilton), 9:08; 10, Flyers, Trigg (Pogue, Kelly), 11:25. Penalties—none.

Saves: Francis, 35; Almas, 33.

Von Cramm, Davidsson Defeat U. S. Players

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 19 (AP)—Germany's Gottfried Von Cramm and Sweden's Sven Davidsson won the men's doubles championship yesterday in the International tennis cup tournament.

Finishing a match interrupted by darkness Saturday, the European tandem downed Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., 3-6, 10-8, 6-2.

The match was interrupted with the Americans leading 4-2 in the final set. The set was started from the beginning and this time Von Cramm and Davidsson breezed through with the loss of two games.

Monkeys Win Mud Match.

The Monkeys A. C. proved the best mudders as they defeated the defending champion Grand Recs, 6 to 0, in a Missouri Rugby Football Union game on a very sloppy Forest Park field yesterday. Roy Craig and Bert Covis each scored three points for the Monkeys.

Flyers Protest Eligibility of Hornet Player

HOPING to prolong their season, the Flyers have filed a protest with the American Hockey League, charging that Pittsburgh used an ineligible player, John McCormack, in nosing out the St. Louis club for the third playoff berth.

The protest is based on the omission of McCormack's name from Pittsburgh's list of eligible players. That list was filed midnight of Feb. 15 but the Hornets said McCormack's name had been left off unintentionally.

Howe Sets New Scoring Record In Hockey Loop

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings are National Hockey League champions for the third consecutive season; and their ace right-winger, Gordie Howe, has set a new league scoring mark.

The Red Wings clinched first place with two victories over the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, 8-2 in Detroit Saturday night and 4-3 in Chicago Sunday night.

Howe picked up four goals and one assist in the two meetings to boost his season's total to 40 goals and 44 assists—84 points, which is two better than the record set by Herbie Cain of Boston in 1943-44.

Montreal, a team that was just about counted out of contention a few weeks back, topped off a hot stretch drive with a 3-1 Saturday night win over Boston Bruins and a 2-2 draw in Boston Sunday.

In the other home-and-home series Toronto Maple Leafs defeated New York Rangers 3-1 and 4-1.

The way things stand now Detroit has clinched first place; Toronto is assured of second; Montreal is in third, three points ahead of Boston and four ahead of New York.

The Rangers have two games to play and the best they can do is tie Montreal in points, but even then the Canadiens would win a playoff spot because they have more victories than the Rangers. That means it's strictly a fight between Boston and New York for the fourth playoff position.

Pro Basket Playoffs To Start Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The first elimination series for the National Basketball Association championship was set today with the close of regular season hostilities last night.

In the last action of the campaign before the playoffs, which get under way tomorrow night, Minneapolis defeated New York, 86-68; Syracuse whipped Boston, 97-89; Fort Wayne dumped Tri-Cities, 95-82, and Rochester halted Indianapolis, 91-79.

In the Eastern Division playoffs, New York tangles with Boston and Syracuse battles Philadelphia, while in the Western section, Indianapolis plays Minneapolis and Fort Wayne tackles Rochester.

All will be two out of three games for the decision. The victors then will play a three-out-of-five series to determine the winner of each division. The finale, pitting the Eastern and Western Division titleholders against each other, will be the best four out of seven games.

Steagall Selected as Tournament Standout

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP)—Little 5-foot 11-inch Scotty Steagall was the most valuable player—perhaps the most outstanding ever—in the thirteenth National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament completed Saturday night.

The towering and talented Hamline University Pipers of St. Paul won their third national (N.A.I.B.) title by beating Steagall and his James Millikin University teammates, 69-61, but the week long play of Scotty was the most outstanding feature of the 32-team meet.

The writers, broadcaster and official who named Steagall the "most valuable" took into account the little man's meet record 143 points for five games, his sparkling play-making and defensive work.

Millikin wasn't up to Hamline in all-around ability and personnel, but the Decatur, Ill., team made a great show of it for the 9500 fans who turned out for the finals.

Big Ten Waives Freshman Rule; Approves Pact For Rose Bowl With 'Ifs'

CHICAGO, March 19 (UP)—The Big Ten Conference today waived its freshmen rule to permit all freshmen and junior college transfer students to compete in intercollegiate events after Sept. 1.

Earlier, the Conference approved a Pacific Coast proposal for extension of the Rose Bowl agreement, but officials warned that the action might not be final.

Faculty representatives today approved the waiver of the freshman rule, an action recommended by the athletic directors at an earlier meeting. The faculty had declined to act on the recommendation before this time.

The Conference also appointed a five-man committee to study the rules and determine which group, the faculty, the directors, or both jointly, have jurisdiction over various sections of the code on recruiting and subsidization.

At its last meeting, the Conference established an appeals system under which Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson has absolute authority to enforce the regulations.

In its vote on the Rose Bowl, the conference voted to extend the pact on its old basis, that no team could compete more than once in three years, or on the Pacific Coast proposal that no team could compete more often than once in two years.

In the five-year-bowl series which ended last New Year's day with a clean sweep by the Big Ten, the Pacific Coast Conference had no limit on the number of times a team could compete, while the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years restriction.

The Big Ten group also expressed willingness yesterday to continue the bowl agreement on the once-every-three-years appearance limit. This apparently was a "rider" to keep an ace-in-the-hole in case the once-every-two-year-proposal is side-tracked.

Yesterday's action must be reviewed by the governing body of each institution within 60 days. Disapproval by even a single school will require another vote by the faculty representatives and athletic directors at the spring meeting in Evanston, Ill., May 25-26. However, a majority vote at Evanston will certify yesterday's recommendation on the Rose Bowl, but still to be specified is whether there will be a two or three year repeat limit.

The catch in the whole thing is that a governing body at a school whose faculty representative is pro-Rose Bowl may turn thumbs down on renewal of the pact, no matter whether the renewal be a continuance of the past Big Ten policy or a two-year appearance agreement.

In that case, the post-season game could be voted out, since the sentiment in yesterday's balloting was reported to be 6 to 4 for renewal on both the basis of two and three year restriction on repeat appearances.

The Pacific Coast Conference, regardless of its feelings, must wait until the May Big Ten meeting before acting finally on the West Coast phase of the Rose Bowl game.

Pat O'Sullivan's 301 Shows Way

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19 (UP)—Pat O'Sullivan, a 23-year-old Irish miss from Orange, Conn., picked St. Patrick's day weekend to score her first major open golf victory.

Miss O'Sullivan, whose best previous triumph was in the 1950 North-South Amateur tournament, led from start to finish to win the Women's Titleholders championship yesterday with a 72-hole total of 301.

The Connecticut girl got the jump on the field when she equalled men's par with a brilliant opening round 72. She followed with 76, collected 77 on St. Patrick's day and toured the last round in 76.

Most of the big names in women's golf, including veteran pros Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Patty Berg, were in the tournament but Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., was closest to Miss Sullivan at the finish. Miss Hanson, national amateur champion, also matched men's par on the last 18 for a 303, two strokes more than the winner.

Miss Berg of Minneapolis and Claire Doran, the Cleveland school teacher, wound up in a third-place tie with 305 each.

Miss Berg collected $750. Mrs. Zaharias, titleholders champion in 1950, and Marlene Bauer tied for fifth with 312's to win $325 each.

St. Louis Club Wins Final Casting Event

The St. Louis Fly and Bait Casting Club's five-man casting team won the ⅝-ounce team shoot event in the St. Louis Sports, Travel, and Boat Show which closed yesterday at Kiel Auditorium. On the team were Forest Moore, Fred Sexauer Sr., Charles Schall, Phil Varney, and Clem Forcade.

Peoria casters were second, and the North Side St. Louis Club was third. A near record crowd of 27,000 persons attended the final session.

St. Rose Team Wins Parochial Tournament

St. Rose won the twenty-fourth annual parochial grade school basketball championship at St. Louis University High last night by trimming St. Mark, 21 to 15. Nick Rallo of St. Rose was named the meet's outstanding player.

Gold basketballs were awarded to a tournament all-star team consisting of Don Hake and Gene Forst, both of St. Mark; Larry Dudley, St. Margaret; Tom Bourke, Our Lady of Lourdes; and Jerry McElroy, St. Rose.

Betty Kuhls Takes Three City Pin Titles

Monsanto's 2812 Is Top Team Score

Miss Betty Kuhls proved the outstanding star in the women's city championship bowling tournament which closed on the Palace Bowl drives last night. All told, she won three championships and pulled down $73 in prize money.

The southpaw, the only Missouri woman to roll a perfect game of 300, won the singles title with 757 (she had 718 for the highest three-game scratch total rolled here this season); rolled a record 1778 to capture the all events and then her 757 also was good for first place in the 600 club sweepstakes.

Monsanto had 2812 to capture the class A team title; McDonnell, 2650, won in Class B and E. Gerleman and L. M. Smith made off with the doubles championship with a 1253 total.

There were two changes among the top ten teams in the five-man event at W. and S. yesterday. The O'Leary-McClintock team from Wellston lanes shot 3152 to take fourth place and Kriegshausers from Stein's shot 3146 for sixth position. Seidel Appliance continues in the lead with 3217 with Special Parts second with 3210.

The Little Joe team of Arway had a high single game of 1102 while nine of the teams bowling yesterday totalled more than 3000.

One more squad of nine teams will complete the team event next Sunday.

Belleville Team Leads.

The Schwartztraubers of Belleville with 3018 rolled into first place in the team event of the national Elks bowling tournament at Grand-Park. Another Belleville squad, the Capitols, took over third place with 2989.

Fuchs's Two Firsts Pace U.S. Track Team to Victory in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 19 (AP)—Big Jim Fuchs won both the shotput and discus yesterday to lead a near sweep by United States track and field forces in an international meet at Chile's national stadium.

A crowd of 10,000 saw a part of the United States team that dominated the Pan-American games recently at Buenos Aires score nine victories and trail in only three events.

Jamaica's Herb McKenley was responsible for one of the United States defeats when he won the 400 meters in 47.5 seconds, a tenth of a second better than the South American record.

He also anchored the Chilean team in the 1600 meter relay to beat America's squad of middle distance runners. The other setback came in the women's broad jump, won by Chile's Lisa Peter with Evelyn Lawler of Gadsden, Ala., fourth.

Fuchs, world record holder in the shotput, won that specialty with a heave of 56 feet, 8 47-64 inches—nearly two feet short of his registered world record of 58 feet, 4 27-64 inches. The former Yale athlete also won the discus with a throw of 161 feet, 11 47-64 inches. His teammate, Dick Doyle, was second with 158 feet, 8 inches.

Betters South American Mark.

Top performances were registered in several events. Harris Ross of Gloucester, N.J., won the 1500 meter run in 3 minutes, 57.3 seconds, bettering his winning time of 4 minutes and 4-10 of a second in the recent Pan-American Games. John Twomey of Roseville, Ill., was at his heels in 3:59.5.

Miss Lawler, beaten in the broad jump, distinguished herself in the 80 meter hurdles for women, winning in 11.3 seconds. That's two-tenths of a second better than the South American record held by Argentina's Noemi Simonetto. Miss Lawler also teamed with Jean Patton, Dolores Dwyer and Nell Jackson to win the 400 meter women's relay in 48.5 seconds, with the Chileans trailing at :51.1. This is the American team that won the Pan-Am relay in :48.7.

The United States men's 1600 meter relay team composed of Don Campbell, Hugo Maiocco, Johnny Voight and Ross lost to the Jamaican-Chilean team paced by McKenley. McKenley hit the tape in 3 minutes, 17 seconds to equal Chile's record. The Americans were clocked in 3:18.4.

Maiocco of Corona, N.Y., was second to McKenley in the 400 meters in :48.1. Voight was fourth.

Dick Attlesey, world record holder in the 110-meter high hurdles, won his specialty in 14.3 seconds. Attlesey's record time is :13.6. He didn't push himself today to beat out Jorn Gevert and Juan Jarrochia, both of Chile. Govert finished in :15.3 and Jarrochia in :16.8.

Campbell Wins Century.

Jean Patton of Nashville, Tenn., won the 200 meter run for women in 24.8 seconds, followed by Nell Jackson of Alabama's Tuskegee Institute, who registered :25.1. Dolores Dwyer of New York was fourth, back of Chilean Andriana Millard.

Don Campbell of Sterling, Colo., outsprinted Jamaica's Herb McKenley to win the 100 meter dash in 10.5 seconds. McKenley was clocked in :10.6, the same as Chile's Fernando Salinas, who came in third. John Voight of Stillwater, Okla., was fourth.

Stephen Seymour won the javelin event with a throw of 219 feet, about seven inches better than his closest challenger, Chilean Janis Stendzenieckѕ.

Julius and Naert Third.

Frank Julius and Joe Naert moved into third place in the doubles of the city handicap bowling event at Floriss with a total or 1346. Another change put L. Jenson and Mitzi Weinstein in sixth place with 1328. Ken Buchert and Mike Vosevich lead the two-man competition with 1363.

W. Hankey went into a tie for fifth place in singles with 709, while Frank McMaster hit 704 to tie for ninth. Charles Gold's 781 is in first place.

Don Carter still shows the way in the all-events with 1988.

Warrensburg Places Three on Star Team

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP)—Three members of the champion Warrensburg Mules landed spots on the M.I.A.A. all star basketball team for 1951.

The selections, announced today, were made by the coaches of the conference for the Associated Press.

Warrensburg players selected on the first team were Art Laney, Glenn Kammeyer and Jim Hoverder. Warl Perry, Kirksville sharpshooter, and Fred Stephens, Springfield, got the other berths.

The top scorer of the loop, Springfield's Jim Murphy who scored 199 points in 10 league games, headed the second all star team. His teammates are George Nathan and Don Buckridge of Maryville, Jim Estes of Cape Girardeau and Jack Trogdon of Springfield.

Kammeyer, a big redhead, averaged 15.4 points and Perry 15.2. Kaney came in with a 13.3 average and Hoverder 13.4.

Second team—Jim Murphy, Springfield; Jim Estes, Cape Girardeau; George Nathan, Maryville; Jack Trogdon, Springfield; Don Buckridge, Maryville.

Kovacs Wins Pro Net Event for Third Time

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 19 (UP) — Once again fireball Frank Kovacs is master of all he surveys in professional clay courts tennis.

The ruggedly-built Oakland (Calif.) veteran won the title for the third straight year yesterday by trimming left-handed Carl Earn of Hollywood, Calif., 7-5, 6-4, 9-7. Kovacs exploited a slight weakness in Earn's backhand for his narrow edge in each set.

Kovacs also teamed with Jimmy Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to win the doubles title by defeating Welby Van Horn of New York and Wayne Sabin of Palm Beach, Fla., 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Four New Men In Lineup as Craigs Triumph

Eddie Leahy, manager of Craig Club No. 1, expects the Municipal Soccer executive committee to approve his use of four former C.Y.C. League players in yesterday's Muny play-offs. The Craigs, with these new players, defeated Santa Cruz, 5 to 3, in overtime, to reach the Senior semi-finals. But Manager Francis Murphy of the defeated team has filed a protest. He believes the four new players are ineligible. The Muny committee will decide the question at its Wednesday meeting.

Other semi-finalists determined yesterday were Craig II Club which defeated Food Center, 3-1; Spanish American Youth team which defeated Simpkins II team, 3-2, and Carondelet club which won from Schumachers, 1-0. Both games at Carondelet Park went into overtime.

If the Santa Cruz protest is disallowed the semi-final games to be played Sunday at Fairgrounds Park will be: Craig I vs. Craig II; S.A.Y. vs. Carondelet.

When he lost four players to the armed services, Manager Leahy says he petitioned the league executive committee for reinforcements. He submitted a list of available players and, he says, was given permission to sign Emil Brcic, Bill O'Toole, Charley Dubois and Ray Arras, all formerly of the St. Agatha club. They replaced the following players who went into military service: Tom Costello, Jack Lyons, Tom Stack and Jerry Sheldon.

Chicago and New York Glovers Meet Tonight

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Richard Guerrero of Chicago will be gunning for his third national Golden Gloves championship tonight when he leads Chicago's crack team against New York's eastern amateur ring kings in the twenty-third annual intercity matches.

Guerrero is one of the sharpest fighting machines in amateur ranks, having won 78 of 80 battles and 16 in a row. His record includes Golden Gloves welterweight titles in 1948 and 1949.

Each team will send eight regional champions and eight alternates into the fray. Other title bouts include: 135 pounds—Juan Curet, New York, vs. Bobby Bickle, Chicago; 147 pounds — Randolph Sandy, New York, vs. Willard Henry, Chicago; light heavyweight — Eldredge Thompson New York, vs. Bobby Jackson, Chicago; heavyweight — Michael Maye, New York, vs. Ernest Fann, Chicago.

New York Eleven Wins.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 19 (AP)—The New York Americans of the American Soccer League showed too much ball control for the Bermuda amateur team yesterday, winning 7 to 3 in an exhibition at the Somerset cricket field. The professional New York club led the Key West Rangers, 5-2 at the half.

Schmidt's Goal Wins C.Y.C. Flag For Innocents

Our Lady of Sorrows teams advanced in two divisions of the C.Y.C. soccer playoffs in the public parks, yesterday. In the Junior division, the stage was set for a deciding match between O.L.S. and St. Thomas when both won their games in the round-robin series. Don Shea and Bob Bush each scored twice and Dan Crimmins once as O.L.S. defeated Holy Name, 5-0. St. Thomas triumphed, 6-0, over St. Paul when goals were scored by McCleary 3, Schwartz 2, and Chenot.

Rich Mulligan and Lou Hirschmugl scored as O.L.S. defeated St. Agnes, 2-0, in a Juvenile division playoff. St. Columbkille won from Blessed Sacrament in the same division, 2-0, on goals by Niewoehner and Vasquez.

The Midget division championship was won by Holy Innocents when Jack Schmidt scored the only goal of the game with Resurrection. St. Philip Neri and All Saints won Intermediate games.

Simpkins, Londoffs Win in Girls' Games

The champion Joe Simpkins team defeated Kutis, 45 to 27, and the Londoffs nipped the Scott Air Base WAFS, 27 to 24 in the final doubleheader of the Greater St. Louis Girls Basketball League yesterday at St. Mary Magdalen Gym. The South Grands will meet the Londoffs tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. to decide third place. South Grand is in second, but the Londoffs could move ahead of Kutis into third by winning.

There will again be a girls city championship tournament. Teams wishing to enter should contact P. M. Meyer, 2109 South Spring avenue, or phone LAclede 1271.

Widmar Impressive As Browns Lose, 9-7

Again Upton and Young, who looks undernourished, too, worked skillfully and nimbly as a combination around second base. And with Delsing hitting the ball sharply and handling himself gracefully in center field, where Ray Coleman had held forth, there seems every assurance of healthy job competition.

So what's a spring exhibition defeat or seven if the Browns can come up with improved play at second base and in center field?

Brownie Notes.

BURBANK, Calif., March 19—Lou Sleater and Dick Starr, both being groomed tentatively as starting pitchers, will face Portland of the Pacific Coast League this afternoon . . . Off Howard Judson, the righthanded Chicago starter, who gave up nine hits and four runs in six innings, the Browns missed a big frame in the fourth, scoring only twice on a walk, a single, a double and a triple . . . Arft, who had doubled, was picked off second just before Upton's triple . . . Widmar's side-arm curve and sinker plainly bothered the Sox, who now have won seven of eight games with six in succession . . .

The last Chicago pitcher, working a quick ninth, was Bob Mahoney, husky 22-year-old righthander drafted from the Cardinals' Omaha farm club, where he had a 20-7 record . . . A crowd of 1528 included Bing Crosby, part owner of the Pirates, passing up the Yankees' game at Los Angeles . . . Russ Bauers still is unsigned, but is being allowed to work out while Charley DeWitt checks with brother Bill over a conditional clause in the contract offered the veteran righthander . . . Bauers wants a major league salary, regardless of whether the Browns send him back to Baltimore, and a bonus arrangement if he stays with the big-league club past a certain date . . . From the way both DeWitt and Bauers tell it, there's no serious difference.

Plea for Letters Floods Boy's Home, Family Asks for Halt

250,000 Messages and 6500 Packages Arrive in Week for Lad Suffering From Cancer.

ADRIAN, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Please don't send Bobby Hiftline any more letters or parcels.

In the last week the Hiftline home has been flooded with 250,000 letters and 6500 packages. Postal workers are sorting incoming mail for the community in the Hiftline home.

The mother had written the editor of The New York Times requesting a "few kind people" to drop a postcard to cheer him up because he was doomed to die of cancer. The Associated Press carried the letter. The avalanche of mail followed.

"We deeply appreciate the kindness people have shown, the time they have taken to write Bobbie, and the many presents they have sent," Mrs. Hiftline said. "But we are so swamped with mail we haven't any room or the time or energy to take care of any more."

The Hiftline farm house already is bursting with Easter bunnies, cakes, toys and comic books. Neighbors and church workers have taken over the task of sorting the huge stacks of mail. The Hiftlines plan to turn over a lot of the gifts to charitable organizations.

"The fact that we are taking the situation in Korea so casually proves beyond doubt that as a nation we have temporarily lost contact with the hopes and fears and aspirations of our boys in the battle line and with the threat they are there to meet. Certainly, the boys who are fighting and dying for us halfway around the world have a different appraisal of how serious it is."

Senator Duff has a table-stakes personality, about as different from the genius of Senator Vandenberg for accommodation as could be imagined, but he also serves who forces people to face the facts.

4 MOVES SEEKING PEACE IN KOREA NOW UNDER WAY

(Rep.), Ohio, said today there is a widespread "rumor" that a compromise will be reached in the Korean fighting as soon as some Administration bills clear Congress.

Brown made the statement at a House Rules Committee hearing on a bill to extend the draft law and start a program of universal military training.

He did not identify the source of the "rumor." Brown said the "rumor" goes like this: When the draft bill, a tax bill and some appropriation bills clear Congress, there will be a compromise that will give North Korea to the Communists, with the United Nations and the Republic of Korea retaining South Korea.

In about four or five years, he said, "after we rehabilitate South Korea," the U.N. will sponsor a plebiscite and all of Korea will "be Red."

Brown said the "rumor" has been published widely. He emphasized that he does not vouch for its accuracy.

CHARLES DECK FUNERAL TOMORROW; BAR OWNER

Funeral services for Charles Deck, well-known downtown bar owner, will be at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Kutis undertaking establishment, 2906 Gravois avenue. Burial will be in Sunset Burial Park.

Mr. Deck, 3403A Utah street, died Saturday at Firmin Desloge Hospital of a heart ailment. He operated Deck's Bar at 301 North Twelfth street, in the Union Electric Building, for the last 15 years. He formerly tended bar for years in a tavern at Sixth and Pine streets.

Surviving are his wife, Ida, two brothers and two sisters.

Wall Street, which has been so insistently waving the inflation banner month after month, took this accord seriously. Some speculators decided that if Snyder and the Reserve Board are agreed that inflation must be checked, then somehow they'd check it. Now that the Reserve Board is no longer pegging Government bond prices, it is in a position to put the squeeze on the banks by selling some of its United States bond holdings. It can become an engine of disinflation.

Reflecting the shift in sentiment, industrial share prices are off about 5 per cent from their recent highs; rails are down 12 per cent; the utilities about 3 per cent. The decline has been going on for about a month. It cannot be construed as a bear market signal. But it certainly suggests that Wall Street is taking inventory.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has also put a foot down on inflation. He refused to sanction an 11-cent-an-hour pay increase in the meat packing industry. Under the 10 per cent wage ceiling adopted by the nonfunctioning Wage Stabilization Board, the CIO United Packinghouse Workers of America was entitled only to a three-cent wage boost. A strike is threatened for March 26 when the present wage contract expires. Johnston's ruling implies that the settlement of Emil Rieve's Textile Workers Union of America with American Woolen is also out of order.

Retailers are noticing some slack. Department store sales, for the week ended March 10, were up only 20 per cent over a year ago. Normally, that would shape up as a fat rise. But this is only two weeks before Easter, and Easter this year is two weeks earlier than last year. And since gains were running at 18 per cent and 24 per cent previously, this doesn't indicate that customers are flocking to shops for Easter finery. Post-Korean buying splurges, partly based on cashing of E bonds, may have filled wardrobes (as suggested here last week).

From now on, corporation earnings reports may not look too good. Declines in profits are likely. First, because prices are under control. Business men can't charge what the traffic will bear. Second, March 15 was a reminder of how painful the higher corporate and personal income taxes can be. Inflation talk may give way to poor mouth.

Bearing on this, Government receipts are outrunning Government expenditures. Taxes were underestimated; military expenditures over-estimated. That, in itself, is disinflationary. The meaning of all this is not that inflation is permanently checked. But, at least, it looks as if we may have some temporary relief from rising prices.

17 REPORTED DEAD IN ANTI-RED BOMB PLOT IN ALBANIA

LONDON, March 19 (UP)—Albania, Russia's smallest and most inaccessible satellite, has declared a state of emergency to stop anti-Russian demonstrations, it was reported today.

The disorders, climaxed by a reported bomb explosion killing 17 persons, were considered the most serious of recent upheavals behind the Iron Curtain.

The Italian Government newspaper Il Popolo said in Rome yesterday that a time bomb placed under a reviewing stand holding high Russian and Albanian officials exploded after a recent parade in Tirana, the nation's capital. Victims were reported to be policemen and bystanders.

The newspaper said its information came from "refugees who succeeded in leaving Albania in recent days."

Forty persons were reported executed and 1000 others imprisoned in the state of emergency which followed the explosion.

The bomb plot, Il Popolo said, capped a "series of disorders" throughout the nation arising from lack of food and other economic causes.

Reports reaching here say an estimated 5000 Russians have taken over the country, about the size of Maryland, with its 1,175,000 population.

Tirana radio disclosed last week Premier Enver Hoxha had demanded the end of all terroristic activity in the nation within 10 days. A Czech newspaper reported earlier this month that Albanian Vice Premier Spiro Spano and Industry Minister Rvta Marko had been "relieved of their posts."

"restrictionists" because they feel that their revolutions are falsely exaggerated or because they dislike the way their financial difficulties have been reported.

This bloc, Binder writes, is trying to whittle down the much more liberal draft convention on gathering and international transmission of news that was written in Geneva in 1948 in the wake of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. This convention was blocked in the U.N. assembly from being opened to signature and is now awaiting adoption of the convention on freedom of information.

The convention on freedom of information, the editor points out, is of much broader application than the convention on newsgathering. The newsgathering convention merely facilitates the work of foreign correspondents. But the freedom of information convention purports to bind the contracting governments to secure to all their nationals and the nationals of member states, the right to receive and pass along information and opinions.

ECONOMY PUT FIRST IN CARRYING OF MAIL

Donaldson Says Railroads Will Get No Special Treatment.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson said today the Post Office hereafter will seek the best and cheapest means to carry the mail without special regard for the railroads.

"No industry has a natural right to the business," Donaldson told a conference of general superintendents of the postal service and other officials.

Because of rail rate increases, he said, the department "can no longer permit the welfare of a railroad or of the community it serves to be the single determining factor if transportation by other means at materially reduced costs to the Post Office Department can be obtained."

At the same time, he said, the welfare of the railroads and the communities will not be ignored. But he said the rights of the taxpayers who bear the cost of the service must be paramount.

M'AFEE NOT OFFERED POST AS STOCK EXCHANGE HEAD

J. Wesley McAfee, president of the Union Electric Co., said today he had not been offered the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange, "formally or informally." A New York newspaper said today that the post would be offered "formally" to McAfee April 1.

The New York paper said McAfee is the choice of the members of a committee set up to find a successor to Emil Schram, who will retire May 1. McAfee, who is 49 years old, said he would be "very much complimented" if the $100,000-a-year job were offered him.

Though McAfee declined comment on whether he would accept the position, friends said he was expected to accept because of the challenge the job offers as third paid president of the exchange. The first president was William McChesney Martin Jr., also of St. Louis, who has been named chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

$31,157,000 U.S. FUND SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—President Truman today sent Congress a supplemental appropriation request of $31,157,000 for the 1951 fiscal year, including $25,000,000 for the re-activation and repair of 100 merchant ships.

N.A.M. ESTIMATES 285 BILLION OUTPUT BY END OF THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—A record 285 billion dollar American production level by the end of this year was estimated yesterday by the National Association of Manufacturers.

It said the level will be sufficient to meet the expected demands of Government, consumers and business without forced stimulation of production.

It added that an analysis of Government data indicated consumer demands can be met "even if those demands are not curbed by additional controls."

The estimate was contained in a report made public by Managing Director Earl Bunting and based on an analysis prepared by George G. Hagedorn, research associate.

It said no attempt was made to gauge production in the event of an all-out war.

Past growth of private output, indicating an annual growth in total production of about nine billion dollars was used in arriving at the 285 billion dollar figure.

Government purchases from the private economy by the end of this year, including defense goods, will amount to about 52 billion dollars, leaving 233 billion dollars for private purchasers, the report said.

RULES FOR EXCHANGING 2½ PCT. TREASURY BONDS

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP) Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder announced rules today governing exchange of 2½ per cent Treasury bonds for those paying 2¾ per cent.

Holders of the lower-interest bonds of June 15 and Dec. 15, 1967-72, may exchange their bonds of either or both series for the new 2¾ per cent paper of the 1975-80 investment series.

The offer will open March 26 for about two weeks, but Snyder reserved the right to close subscription books at any time. Five-year marketable 1½ per cent Treasury notes will be exchangeable for the new 2¾ per cent Treasury bonds, Snyder said.

ARMY RULING ON RESERVES

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The Army announced today that individual enlisted reserves will not be called to active duty if they have less than a year of their enlistments to serve.

DULLEST STOCK TRADE IN YEAR AS PRICES SLIP

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The stock market loafed through an uninspired session today with prices sagging.

It was not a wide market and of 1071 issues traded 611 closed down, 245 up, 215 unchanged.

The decline went slightly beyond a dollar a share, and there were scattered plus signs throughout the list.

Most of the activity, if it can be called that, centered in the rails, steels, motors and radio-televisions.

Although there has been considerable enthusiasm for radio-TV manufacturers because of their large potential earnings capacity both in the civilian and military production fields, it is felt that large inventories of television sets may become burdensome.

The market opened on a lower note and continued to drift downward until early afternoon when a stiffening appeared here and there. Although that didn't result in a change of direction of the entire market, a number of the losers were brought up from their lowest points of the day.

Because of the thinness of trading, a few of the leaders moved erratically at times from plus to minus and back again on just a few sales.

Lower were U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Douglas Aircraft, Admiral Corp., Radio Corp., Zenith (Hallicrafters on the Midwest Stock Exchange traded about unchanged), American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, General Electric, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Sante Fe, Sinclair Oil, Texas Co., American Airlines.

In London selling of British government bonds led to lower prices in the rest of the stock market.

WEEK'S STEEL OUTPUT TO BE BUT SHADE BELOW RECORD

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Steel production this week will be the second highest in history, totaling 2,021,000 net tons of ingots and steel for castings, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated.

The nation's steel mills are scheduled to operate at 101.1 per cent of their rated capacity.

Tonnage this week will be only 4000 tons short of the record 2,025,000 tons turned out in the week of Jan. 29, 1951. This will be the third successive week in which output has topped the 2,000,000-ton mark.

Last week the industry worked at 100.1 per cent of capacity to produce 2,001,000 tons.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—A decline in the corporate bond market was held within narrow proportions in quiet trading today. Fractional declines outnumbered advances by a good margin in slower-than-usual trading.

Bond dealers said there was considerable interest in the booklet giving the formal terms for the new 2¾ per cent non-marketable long-term Government bonds to be offered March 26 in exchange for $19,000,000,000 in long-term 2½s.

Local Bank Clearings.

Local bank clearings for March 19 were $112,900,000 compared with $89,600,000 a year ago. Debits to individual accounts for March 16 were $96,400,000 compared with $80,000,000 same day last year.

FARMERS TO PLANT 1.6 PCT. MORE CORN THAN IN 1950

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that farmers are planning to plant 85,694,000 acres to corn this year. This would be an increase of 1.6 per cent over last year's plantings of 84,370,000 acres.

The department had urged a corn acreage of at least 90,000,000 acres to meet increasing feed needs of cattlemen, hog producers, dairymen and poultrymen. Government defense spending has greatly boosted consumer demand for livestock products.

The spring wheat acreage was forecast at 21,850,000 acres, an increase of 18.1 per cent over the 1950 plantings of 18,509,000 acres. The department had recommended 21,400,000 acres to help meet defense program needs.

KOREAN AND WEATHER NEWS WEAKEN GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—Continued United Nations successes in Korea led to scattered selling of grain and soybean futures today. Wheat and corn were off more than a cent a bushel most of the time and soybeans were down 2 cents or more. Trade was light in anticipation of the Government's report on 1951 prospective plantings, due to be issued after the close of trading. Weekend moisture in parts of the southwestern winter wheat belt also caused more selling in wheat.

You can see the reasons why RCA Victor is America's favorite television!

The Rutland. Beautifully complete—17-inch television, AM-FM radio, automatic changers for all record speeds. You get the equivalent of 3 full-size consoles yet you pay for just 1 cabinet, 1 sound system. Has the "Golden Throat" tone system with extended range. Model 7T143. $595.

They're Million Proof—quality proven in over ~~one~~ two million homes

SEE THE PICTURE QUALITY

SEE HOW EASY IT IS TO TUNE

All controls are instantly accessible—none hidden or hard to reach. You have all you need to get the picture just the way you want—and they're so simple to use a child can tune them.

SEE THE FINE CABINETS

Take your choice of 32 different cabinets styled in Traditional, Regency, Provincial or Modern—finished in walnut, limed oak, even a maple finish, and no extra charge for the favorite—mahogany. Choose from 3 picture sizes—family-size 19-inch that's just right for most living rooms, 17-inch and 14-inch if budget comes first.

HEAR THE "GOLDEN THROAT"

An exact, engineering balance of loudspeaker, amplifier and cabinet—it's the finest tone system in RCA Victor history—and only RCA Victor has it. Enjoy it for records, too—each RCA Victor set without its own phonograph has a phono-jack where you can plug in a record changer like the popular "Victrola" 45 attachment. Just turn a switch on the cabinet front to change from television to records.

SEE THE LOW PRICES

You pay far less than you'd expect for RCA Victor quality—lasting quality for the years ahead. Ask your neighbor! And everything from tubes to built-in antennas is designed from RCA Victor's unmatched experience in producing over two million television receivers. And all RCA Victor sets are Underwriters' Laboratories Approved.

Dazzling Talent At Washington Party

By Elise Morrow

WASHINGTON, March 19.

THERE are almost no night clubs of any distinction in Washington, but a musical performance that would have dazzled any Broadway producer was given privately in a Georgetown drawing room one evening last week.

MRS. W. STUART SYMINGTON

The hostess had collected an array of talent that included Adele Astaire, now divorced from Lord Cavendish and married to a Mr. Kingman Douglass and living in Virginia, and Eve Symington, who was the first of the society chanteuses and sang in New York City during the thirties. Mrs. Symington is the wife of W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. She no longer sings professionally, but her throaty voice is still lovely.

Mrs. Symington's brother, Jerry Wadsworth, plays a very good piano and another guest plunk-plinked at a guitar. The four put on a full-fledged evening's entertainment.

ADELE ASTAIRE is quite gray-haired now, but slim and vivid as she was 20 years ago. She did all her old numbers—swept through the Black Bottom, the Can Can, bumps and grinds, the Charleston, and several improvisations of her own that fit no category. She is still light and airy as a soap bubble, and sings in the same sort of cracked, funny voice as her brother, Fred.

"She really shouldn't do those bumps and grinds in front of the servants," said one of the distinguished statesmen. Mrs. Symington sang not popular songs, but her own favorite little individual things.

Other guests, non-creative but with decorative value, were former Presidential Assistant and Mrs. Clark M. Clifford.

THE GLAMOUR ENDETH not here: Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador, shared Charles Boyer, the French actor and matinee idol, with a select group from resident and official society. Not only Boyer but the pink, bloated British actor, Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Lady Hardwicke, and actress Agnes Moorhead were honor guests at a French Embassy reception.

Mme. Bonnet's entertaining is as careful, economical and almost as stylized as her wardrobe. The sound-little-black-dress philosophy of clothes, the well-worked-out, efficient, unextravagant party routine. No dress which does not have a clear function, no guest whose purpose is not also clear. This policy is entirely sensible, and has made Mme. Bonnet without a doubt the best diplomatic hostess in Washington as well as one of the best dressed women.

SO, WEARING ONE of her black Dior dresses, Mme. Bonnet greeted such varied important ones as Betty Fulbright, the pretty wife of the RFC-investigating Senator from Arkansas and one of Mme. Bonnet's best friends in Washington; the former investment broker, now Ambassador to Ireland, George Angus Garrett and Mrs. Garrett; former Senator from Florida Claude Pepper (now in private law practice) with his fun-loving wife, Mildred. Mrs. Pepper was wearing one of the great threats to mankind, the Washington cocktail party hat. This was an object with an aerial, a foot-long feather which almost decapitated Mr. Laughton.

Mme. Bonnet served champagne, pour La Belle Patrie, Scotch and soda, pour Le Sport, hot cheese hor d'oeuvres and small pastries. Boyer was successful, though middle-aged and hardly as romantic as most women imagined he would be.

"I suppose it was worth it to see him," said one dowager, "but I still feel disillusioned."

Other lucky guests were Patsy Webb, wife of the Under Secretary of State, James E. Webb; Mrs. Hume Wrong, wife of the Canadian Ambassador; V. Adm. Emory Land; Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe; Mrs. Stanley Reed, wife of the Supreme Court Associate Justice; Associate Justice Tom Clark; black-browed, intense Senator Robert Nixon of California with his pretty blonde wife, and the Godey ladies, Mrs. Millard Tydings and Mrs. Rahel Fitch, daughters of former Ambassador to Moscow Joseph E. Davies. Mrs. Tydings and Mrs. Fitch have a quality not quite of the world; they look like a John Singer Sargent painting, with an elaborate, classic, dying swan, old-fashioned beauty.

MRS. PERLE MESTA, our Minister to Luxembourg, will be back in town in 10 days or so for a visit—her first since last fall. It's undoubtedly official, but will probably start a social stir nevertheless. It is to be hoped she does not cross the path of Lady Astor, with whom Mrs. Mesta tangled several years ago. Lady Astor's latest contributions: "More nice people speak English than anything else," and, "Don't give your money to the Government. Anyone can do better with your money than the Government can."

Try and Stop Me

A NEW ORLEANS newspaper, recalling the days when Crescent City courts were run rather informally, cites as an example a day when a man accused of theft had no counsel, and the judge asked a lawyer who was present to withdraw with the prisoner, listen to his story, and then give him such advice as would be for his best interest.

A half-hour later the lawyer returned alone. "Where is the prisoner?" asked the judge. "By this time, your honor," said the lawyer, "I dare say he's 20 miles from here. Your honor told me to give him the best advice for his interest, and as he was obviously guilty, I thought the best counsel I could give him was to cut and run, which he took at once."

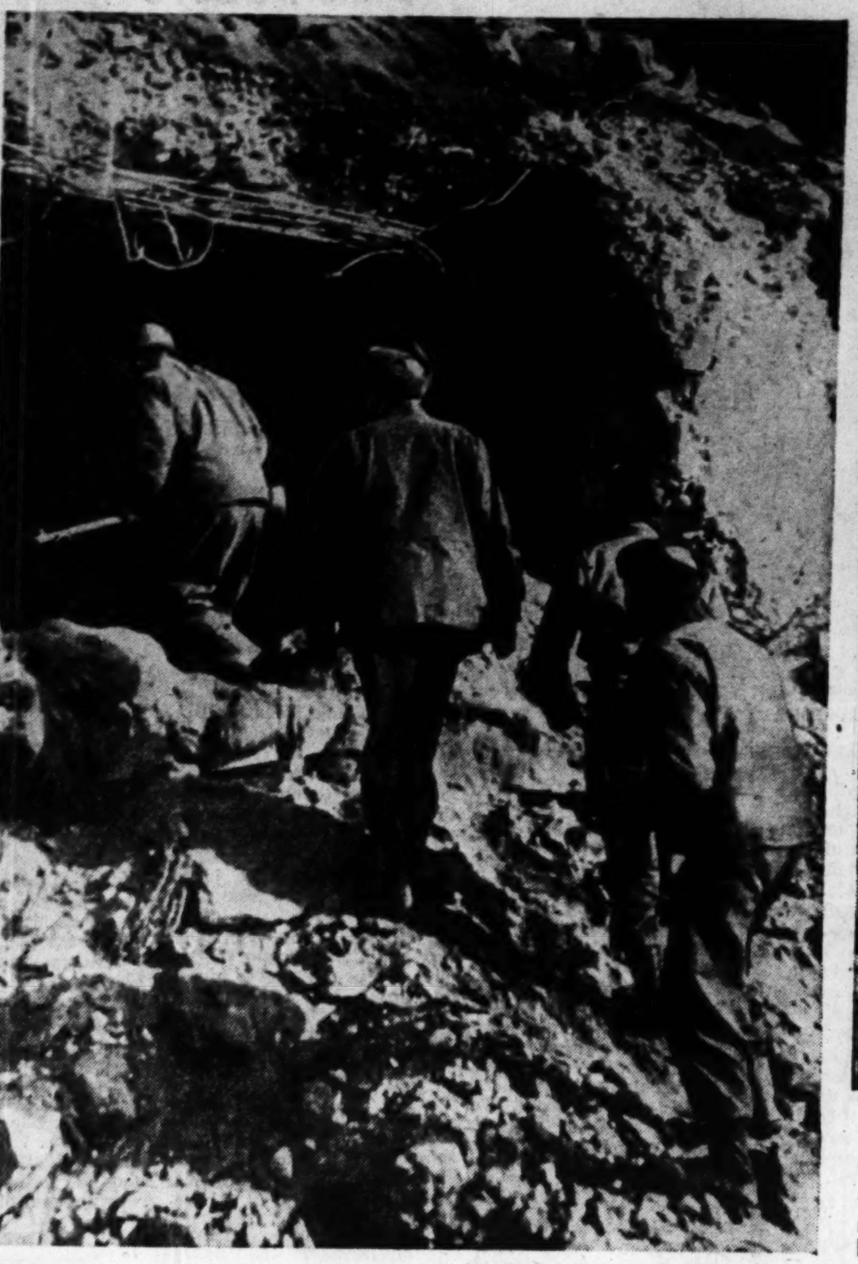
Probing Rubble for Reds



Wariness is the watchword as G.I.s search for enemy soldiers in the rubble on the outskirts of Seoul after taking over the battered city Thursday. The main body of Communist troops had withdrawn from the former South Korean capital but Allied soldiers took no chances on the possibility of guerrilla fighters having been left behind.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

New Yorkers Are Talking About . . .

JOSEPHINE BAKER'S opulent peek-a-boo frocks making audiences gasp at the Strand Theater. Quite a performer. Her skill and neon personality make everything showmanship-shapely. . . . Christopher Fry's play, "The Lady's Not for Burning," hitting double-bingo: It's a Brodway click and also among the top-sellers. . Dancer Valerie Bettis' rubber-hipped torso-twirling on teevy. The medium suits her to a T—for Talent. . . . The daffy advert displaying a gnu and stating "this product is knocking the gnation for a loop with its gnovel cabinets and gnumerous gniceties." Gnutz! . . Teevy rasslers acting with every muscle. They never change their routines. . . . Joe DiMaggio (the ace of diamonds) deciding to hang up his spikes after the 1951 season. Oh, no! The national pastime without Joe is like Broadway without lights. . . . Ace newscaster Cecil Brown's sponsor who manufactures sleeping pills. . . . Edith Pfaf's recorded album. The way she sings the blues relieves you of yours. . . . The film, "U.S.S. Teakettle." It received raves from most critics and stars Gary Cooper, but is attracting only so-so- biz at the Roxy. Tough to savvy. . . Adorable blonde dimwit characters now the rage in show biz: Dagmar on teevy, Judy Holliday in films and Vivian Blaine on the stage. . . . Vending machines in subways offering everything from hot chawklitt to tea mit lemon.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND . . . STAGE STRUCK.

STAGESTRUCK OLIVIA DE HAVILAND: She paid $100,000 for a movie contract release so she could appear behind footlights and greasepaint a Julietching. . . "Guys and Dolls'" golden future: Its advance sale is over $625,000. . . . The popularity of recorded Broadway musical comedy scores. They're generally more profitable than the shows. Incidentally, the score of the 10-year-old Rodgers-Hart hit, "Pal Joey," has just been waxed and it still caresses the ears. . . . The novel episode in the film, "Royal Wedding." Fred Astaire dances up the wall and across the ceiling. Camera magic. . . . CBS' radio drama series, "The Line-Up." Avoids mugg-and-mollodrama cliches and presents realistic bing-bang-up tales. . . . Linda Darnell's beeg secret: Her nickname is Tweedles. She's a tweedheart. (Oh, alrighttt!)

* * *

* * *

"S. PACIFIC" DING-DONGING the cash-register bell to the tune of $2 million. And it's still ringing merrily. . . . The pot-calling-the-kettle-black item: One teevy clown is suing another for swiping gags. The court will have to decide who stole it first. . . . The recording for tots called "Ting-a-Ling"—an infectious sing-a-ling. . . . Ethel Waters' startling autobiog, "His Eye Is on the Sparrow." The frankest confession this side of a psychiatrist's couch. . . . Peggy Lee's version of "Yeah, Yeah, Yeah." A boogee-woogee-dandee . . . Ernest H. Martin's success story. He's co-producer of a pair of super-clicks: "Where's Charley?" and "Guyzndolls." Martin is only 31 years rich. . . . The only three straight plays on Broadway consistently playing to capacity: "Affairs of State," "Bell, Book and Candle" and "Twentieth Century" . . . The Music Hall finally succumbing to the popcorn addiction. It has installed its first bon-bon concession. . . . The Rodgers-Hammerstein ditty-dilly from the soon-due "The King and I." It's called: "I Whistle a Happy Tune." Like a Spring day set to music.

The New Films

By Myles Standish

"SEPTEMBER AFFAIR," at the AMBASSADOR THEATER, is the doomed illicit love affair done in the grand manner, with all the trimmings. The not too brief encounter, here between a lonely American factory owner whose wife won't give him a divorce (Joseph Cotten), and a beautiful, wistful concert pianist (Joan Fontaine), is loaded with atmosphere — the haunting "September Song," picturesque Naples, picturesque Pompeii, picturesque Capri, picturesque Florence, sunny Italian workmen singing "Santa Lucia," quaint restaurants, Chopin dreaming on the piano, Rachmaninoff's piano concerto with full orchestra, idyllic happiness, the voice of conscience (Francoise Rosay), bitter-sweet renunciation. The net sum may not be real, but with Director William Dieterle's sentimental hand, a literate script and work by Cotten and Miss Fontaine that perfectly illumes the mood, it is persuasive and affecting. I think most of the ladies in the audience will agree with Irving Berlin that being miserable, with Joe and Joan, is fun.

The main plot gimmick is hard to swallow—that a hard-headed business man would so completely succumb to the romantic atmosphere as to let the world and his wife believe that he and the girl have been killed in a plane crash, as reported, and go off to live a secret life in Florence with his amour. Anyway the script proves to everyone's satisfaction that lovers cannot live in a vacuum. In this case, the urge to be doing something more important than living a happy existence (building a power project) seems to set Joseph back on the straight and narrow, rather than the call of conjugal duty. But, laggard or not, back he must go, as everyone familiar with the movie code knows from the first hour the lovers casually meet. Perhaps it is the inevitableness of this doom that pervades the film with its chief charm—an agreeable melancholy.

The second feature, "THE COMPANY SHE KEEPS," has Jane Greer, as a parolee from a woman's prison, in love with the same sports writer, sterling Dennis O'Keefe, that Parole Officer Lizabeth Scott worships. When Jane wants to marry Dennis, Lizabeth, by her report to the parole board, can either help the romance or wreck it. Wow! What a sitch! Most tremendous drama since this morning's soap opera.

Her 'Flight From Red Hell'

Hungarian Actress Tells of Escape From Homeland

By Katalin Karady

As Told to International News Service

KATALIN KARADY, HUNGARIAN ACTRESS AND SINGER, AND OLIVER LANTOS, THE "BING CROSBY" OF HIS NATIVE LAND, AS THEY APPEARED IN AUSTRIA AFTER THEIR FLIGHT FROM BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN.

SALZBURG, Austria, March 19.

WE paid $2000 to be smuggled out of Hungary. The price was cheap. For when life becomes the bitter tragedy it has in Communist Hungary, it is hell and sooner or later everyone reaches a breaking point.

The decision to flee comes suddenly—as in the case of Oliver Lantos—or it is carefully planned and thought out for weeks and months ahead, as in my case.

In the West when you don't like your neighbors you are free to pack up and move. If you can't find a job in San Francisco, you can try in Chicago.

In Hungary, you must stay and suffer. No one can leave legally, not when he or she could tell the world that Hungary is a police state where Stalin is absentee ruler and Matyas Rakosi & Co., his landlords. (Rakosi is deputy premier and Communist leader of Hungary.)

To "discourage" these flights to freedom the Communists have set the price for failure at imprisonment, sometimes death.

For example,, we were aware of the story of Stefan Kardos. He was a Hungarian engineer who plotted to escape. He joined 20 other refugees, hired a guide to lead them through a mine belt and across the Austrian-Hungarian border.

* * *

KARDOS alone lived to tell the story. When they were creeping through the bushes toward the frontier, giant spotlights suddenly pinned them against the black ground. At the same time a young priest in the group accidentally touched off a hidden high-explosive mine.

Border police and the mine killed eight and nine others were arrested. Three reached the Soviet zone of Austria so badly wounded they were taken to a hospital, unable to go on. The Russians ordered the three sent back to Hungary. Kardos alone escaped. One of the three women in the hospital was his wife Gisela. She was sent back to Budapest without her legs.

The border is so substantially escape-proof that to try to worm through without help of an experienced "man-smuggler" invites almost certain death. Trains to border points are controlled.

To drive a car for any distance in Hungary you must have a special permit.

Prices for smugglers are high. So are the risks. The Austrian border is fenced with high-voltage barbed-wire. It bristles with land mines, illumination rockets, glaring search beams, bloodhounds and police masquerading as civilians.

The wire is strung in depth, between four and five feet high. The mines are either buried or connected to dangling strands of wire that set them off. Other loose wires set off alarm rockets.

The wire is fixed to wooden fence posts. There are two parallel fences 12 feet apart.

Watchtowers are set 25-feet high and about 100 yards back from the frontier. Practically all wooded areas have been stripped.

All along the border, which runs north-south some 125 miles, these towers are set 500 yards apart. The searchlights seem to be operating continuously. There is at least one heavy machine gun with each searchlight crew.

Of course there are ways to escape. For Lantos and I it was a matter of finding the right guides—for the right price—and putting our lives in their hands.

We crawled on our stomachs, slushed through mud two feet deep, waded icy-cold streams and in all, walked many miles through the rain.

We traveled light. Lantos came through with the clothes he had on his back, and a batch of sheet music. For when we teamed up to give a show in a small border town, Lantos did not know that I had spent three weeks arranging this special show near the frontier simply to make the escape possible. When I told him of the plans, he immediately joined.

He left his mother and father in Budapest. If Lantos had not escaped then, he probably never would—he was due to be drafted into the army the next day.

My Romanian maidservant, Ilona Mohacsi, left with us. She was carrying the only personal clothing we had along, a suitcase with some of my favorite millinery. Half way through the trip the going became so rough we threw the suitcase away.

I left my parents, four brothers and two sisters in Budapest. In my villa I left three fur coats, including a mink, hanging in a conspicuous spot so the houseman would not suspect that I might have fled. I had been under surveillance for months.

* * *

AFTER we finished our guest performance near the border — in recent months we couldn't appear anywhere except on provincial stages—we started out on that cold rainy Monday night together with the maid, two others and two guides.

The border was 15 miles away.

With the applause of the audience still in our ears, we fled like criminals.

At 11:30 that night, while we were on our way, the Budapest radio was broadcasting a program of my recorded songs. Naturally, they were hymns of love for the fatherland.

Those last five miles through the so-called no-man's-land on the Hungarian side were torture. We crawled those miles, yard by yard, on our hands and knees to escape the bloodhounds and searchlights. We were bleeding and wet and dirty.

It seems like a miracle that the mines, the entanglements, the rockets, the watchtowers did not stop us.

By dawn we were in the British zone of Austria. We said, "Thank God," and looked behind at "Little Russia" for the last time.

Tomorrow: Miss Karady tells of the constant pressure the regime exerted on her and Lantos because they were not Communists—and how the entertainment world has become a prime propaganda weapon of the Reds.

Brain Game

CAN you identify these Presidents? Answering six of the eight questions correctly is excellent.

1. Which two presidents, political rivals, died on the same day, July 4, 1826?
2. Which President retired to Montpelier, Va., to edit his famous papers on the Constitutional Convention?
3. What President served only 31 days?
4. Which President was the first inaugurated in Washington, D.C.?
5. Which President was the first to deliver his inaugural address to the nation by radio?
6. Can you name the President whose former tailor shop is now a state museum in Greenville, Tenn.?
7. What President was succeeded in office by Lincoln?
8. Who was the fifth President?

BRAIN GAME ANSWERS—1. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson. 2. James Madison. 3. William Henry Harrison. 4. Thomas Jefferson. 5. Calvin Coolidge. 6. Andrew Johnson. 7. James Buchanan. 8. James Monroe.

When wood posts have to be set in concrete, leave a slight gap between the four sides of the posts and the concrete—¼ inch or so. Fill these gaps with asphalt, tar or caulking compound after the concrete is dry. The filler will protect the post from moisture and prevent the concrete from cracking.

"I DON'T THINK WE SHOULD HAVE LET HIM PICK OUT HIS SCHOOL CLOTHES!"

MY NEIGHBOR SAYS:

Pliers, pruning shears and tin snips will work a good deal easier if you apply a little powdered graphite around the joint where the blades pivot. The graphite is better than oil because it does not collect and hold dust and dirt.

A pair of lips made out of sheet lead slipped over the jaws of a steel vice will protect soft work in the vice from damage by the jaws.

You'll find that glazier's points are easy to remove if the exposed part is bent up away from the glass. The point can then be yanked out with a pair of pliers.

HYDE PARK.

I HAD an interesting reaction from a man who is a registered patent attorney, with a Ph.D., to the discussion on my recent television program between Michael V. DiSalle, Director of Price Stabilization, and James B. Carey.

He writes: "I was somewhat amused at labor's and management's bickering over splitting the profits (or spoils) of business.

"It is common knowledge among engineers and patent lawyers that modern industry increases its efficiency at the rate of about 2 per cent per year, but in wartime this is increased to about 4 per cent per year.

"In other words with the use of improved machines, 98 men can do the work that required 100 men to do the year previously; and in war years, 96 men in the year 1944 did the work that required 100 men to do in 1943.

* * *

"OBVIOUSLY 4 per cent is an average figure, and some industry where common labor is displaced by fast operating machines makes better than 4 per cent of efficiency. Where, in the glass bottle industry, an Owens machine does the work of 800 men, who formerly blew bottles by mouth, obviously this increased efficiency is tremendous in the particular year when the machine displaces 800 men.

"Labor is right when it says it can get higher wages without increasing prices (due to increase in industrial efficiency). But this saving should be passed on to the public and not divided up between management or labor or whatever formula.

"The over-all result is that the common white collar workers, the brains of our society, and this includes school teachers, pay higher prices without commensurate salary increases.

* * *

"IT IS NOT SURPRISING to find plumbers making $6000 a year living next to graduate engineers also making $6000 a year (after 10 years' experience), said engineer spending about five years and $7000 for his education while the plumber learned his trade while earning learner's pay at the age of 19 or 20."

Organized labor, of course, represents all labor, for when they win any benefits unorganized labor profits, too, to a certain extent—if not at once, at least over a period of time. Labor represents the large, consuming public also, so they should be quite willing to see prices stabilized and the profit passed on to the public, since it benefits them to lower prices. In fact, low prices increases their income rather more than increases in wages can possibly do, since wages never keep on a par with the increase in prices.

This is a problem to which management and the public in general should perhaps give some thought.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM 16, a high school sophomore. My mother will not permit me to go out with the boys, even in a group. I was so desperate about this I started sneaking out a month ago and I have met a boy who has fallen in love with me and wants to marry me, and I have consented. It is making me very unhappy sneaking around to be with him like this. Also in my past there are things I dread telling anyone. Do you think I should tell them to this boy, regardless of what the outcome may be? Shall I just go ahead and marry him? He has a good job and can take care of me. Can I marry without telling my mother first? ROUGH.

If you feel bad—as you should—because you have been sneaking out to see this boy, think how much worse you would feel if you ran off and married him without your mother's knowledge. At your age she would have to give her consent to that, anyway, so better abandon that bright idea. Have a heart-to-heart talk with your mother. Try to make her understand that naturally at your age you want the friends and good times the other girls are having. If you have never done anything to make her distrust you—of course you are doing plenty at the moment!—I am sure she will relent and permit you more liberty, if you will show yourself worthy of it. As to your "past"—telling all or not telling, is up to you. Sometimes confession can be a form of selfishness, a laying of your burden onto another's shoulders and giving them grief and worry instead of yourself. If anything that has happened is such that it would affect the future life of yourself and the man you marry, then he would have a right to know about it. Otherwise, generally speaking, what is past is past and can well be forgotten.

Dear Martha Carr:

MRS. KATHRYN OTTO, to whom so many of your readers wrote and sent gifts, because of a letter about her which you put in your column many months ago, passed away on Jan. 14. Many good people are still sending her mail and many do not sign their names and we do not know how to get in touch with them to tell them of her passing. We, members of her family, would like to thank all those who were so kind and to let them know they really made her last days a lot brighter. May God bless them all!

OTTO AND GULDNER FAMILIES.

IN ANSWER TO "Worried": Probably this boy you like is not as grown-up as you are, and he isn't interested in being with the girls just yet, as much as he is in still being a pal and running around with the other boys. If he really wants to come back to you he will do so in spite of the other fellow. In the meanwhile, don't act too worried about it, go out with the crowd as usual. He will probably be back.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO "Gerry": You admit the argument was your fault. Why not admit this to the girl herself and tell her you are sorry? Then you should be able to take up your friendship again.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO "M.K.L.": The Public Library has books on old coins. You should be able to find out about the one you have there.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE Z-273; Lois V., aged 21, is an attractive girl who recently came to Chicago to work.

"Dr. Crane, she is very good company and a lot of fun," her roommate admitted, "but she is very careless about little things. For example, she seldom turns out the lights when we leave for work in the morning. Her toothbrush and paste are usually left lying on the wash basin.

"She drops cigarette ashes around our apartment without worrying about the mess she creates. But she just laughs off such faults by saying she has always been careless.

"And she is always short of money before pay day. When she first arrived in Chicago, she said she had only $35 and no job, but she was so intrigued with a pair of slacks in a department store window, that she bought them for $15.

"She laughed as she told me about her purchase, saying that she knew it was foolish to part with that much money, but she wanted them. Dr. Crane, what makes adults so careless and irresponsible?"

★ ★ ★

THIS CHRONIC CARELESSNESS has been taught to Lois by her environment throughout childhood. It is now a habit, just as the English language is habitual with her.

"But who would teach a child to be careless?" somebody may ask.

Millions of parents teach their children to be careless! They omit the daily insistence that a little girl or boy put his toothbrush away after using it. They permit the youngsters to leave the cap off the tube of toothpaste. He doesn't have to hang up his clothes or deposit the soiled laundry in a hamper, for mamma trots around after him to do these things. As a result, the child learns to depend on mamma or an older brother or sister.

★ ★ ★

IN THE USUAL FAMILY where two boys are separated by only a year or so in age, which youngster is more likely to be the chronic tease? Which one is the better social mixer? Which is more shy and careful? Which one acts somewhat "old maidish" about his toys or possessions and which leaves his clothing scattered around the room, or his toys all over the lawn?

Which one seems bolder, and which acts rather shy or different, especially before strangers? Which takes to salesmanship more naturally?

Which one, in short, is more introvertive and slow to get dressed in the morning? Which is more the dare-devil sort, unworried about danger or the source of his next meal?

★ ★ ★

YOU HAVE ONLY to read the story of the Prodigal Son to see a classical example of the difference between two siblings of the same sex who are closely matched in age.

The older child tends to be the dreamer, slow to dress in the morning, and careful of his possessions. He cares more about the future, and is more inclined to carry grudges or persist on a given line of action because of principles, despite strong opposition.

The younger child has learned to lean upon the older for protection and many ideas, so he enjoys social companionship thereafter. Besides, he is more careless, as a rule, for he hasn't been taught to look after somebody else.

He worries less about the future, and spends his money freely, even to the extent of buying $15 slacks out of a total grubstake of only $35. He usually prefers sales work to science, and mixes easily with people.

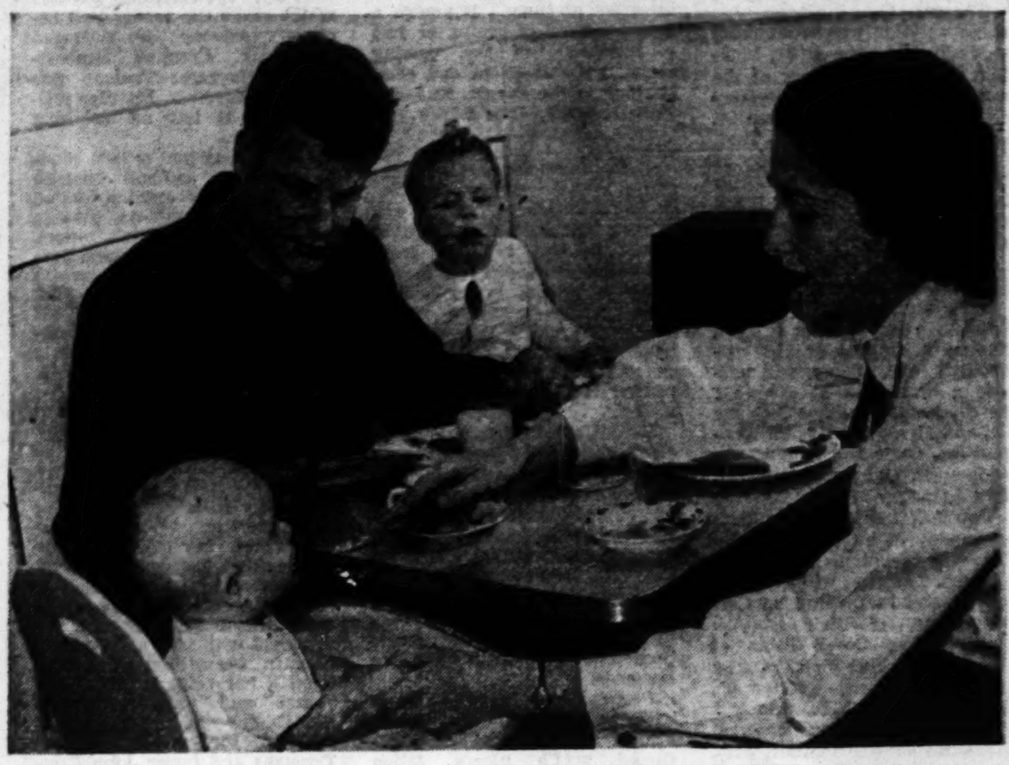
College Instructor Runs for Mayor

Young Louis Jackstadt, Who Teaches Government at St. Louis U., Gets in Race at Collinsville



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

LOUIS JACKSTADT, WHO KEEPS A DAY-TO-DAY DIARY OF HIS RACE FOR MAYOR OF COLLINSVILLE, ENGAGES IN SOME PRACTICAL POLITICS AS HE TACKS ONE OF HIS OWN CAMPAIGN POSTERS TO A TREE.

By Peter Wyden

ONE of the best-documented political campaigns in recent history is in progress at Collinsville, where Louis Jackstadt, 29-year-old candidate for the $800-a-year office of mayor, is keeping a day-by-day diary of his race.

Except for a handful of wild rumors that have been set in circulation about the handsome, husky former football player, the diary won't contain any dynamite. And if it should someday help the candidate get a master's degree in Government the voters of Collinsville won't have to feel that they've been guinea pigs in some academic plot.

It just happens that Lou Jackstadt, a coal miner's son, is an instructor at St. Louis University. More important, he is a native of Collinsville, the youngest man ever to be elected to the school board, and one of quite a few hometown taxpayers who think that it's time for a little fresh young blood at city hall.

Like most small town campaigns the race at Collinsville has been a quiet, polite affair and the atmosphere may not change even as the April 17 election draws closer. No angry charges have been voiced and the word "gambling" has not been dropped in public. Jackstadt is running on the slogan, "Not Just a Shuffle But a Real Change," and that's really all you need to say in a tightly-knit community where everybody knows the score.

After all, every kid down the block had heard that crap games flourished in two gambling joints until quite recently; that three to five bookmakers operated profitably, suffering but mildly from occasional brief close-downs and fines; that it seemed to take extraordinarily long to get new sewers built; and that the holes in the streets could make you see the stars at noon.

If Collinsville is interested in upsetting the old order, Lou Jackstadt would seem to be the man for the job. His political memory goes back to election night, 1932 when Lou was selling papers acclaiming the first victory of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was a moppet then, going to Catholic grade school. Later, while attending public high school, he got a regular route delivering St. Louis papers and once a week he helped cut, fold and distribute the Collinsville Herald.

Summers he harvested and graded potatoes and once filled in at a filling station for a pal on the Collinsville High football squad who had broken his ankle. Lou himself was a blocking back on the team. He also went out for track, running the half-mile in two minutes and ten seconds. He was president of the senior class, a class that is remembered because every youngster in it was summarily—if briefly—expelled for pinning up the class colors in the auditorium in violation of school rules.

Lou graduated at 16, but it was the recession year of 1938 and it looked as if the nimble mind that put him through school in such a hurry might not do him much good. Lou wanted to go into the coal mines, but he was too young. So he went back to the farm where he used to grade spuds. By now they let him work in the horseradish, too, and he no longer had to commute 12 miles on a bicycle. But the pay was still the same—$2 a day, 10 hours a day and no meals.

After a while Lou graduated to the status of soda jerk and "apprentice pharmacist" until, on Feb. 5, 1941—a date he remembers very well—he enlisted in the Coast Guard. Lou spent five years in uniform, first at Ellis Island near New York and then on an Attack Cargo Auxiliary which lugged along ammunition, gasoline and other supplies for amphibious landings in the Pacific.

BARELY arrived in the battle area he received a brief emergency furlough home. His older brother had been killed in action with the Army in Italy. Lou got back to his ship in time to help land the first waves of landing forces on Okinawa and was discharged as a chief storekeeper, a rank equivalent to that of master sergeant in the Army.

Back home in May of 1946, Lou, at 24, started college under the G.I. Bill of Rights. He finished in three years flat, meanwhile meeting and marrying his wife, Neva, a Collinsville girl who used to be a commercial artist with a St. Louis advertising agency. Their son, Paul Michael, now 21 months old, was born the night of Lou's baccalaureate services. He remembers calling the hospital just before the ceremony, stripping off his robe, dashing into a bus and having the transit radio sound off with "When My Baby Smiles at Me." The Jackstadts have another youngster, Stephen Charles, who is five months old.

During the first two years at St. Louis University Lou still had time to play guard on the football squad. Becoming a man with family responsibilities and deciding to stay on in school grading papers and substituting for instructors on a graduate fellowship, Lou found he had to hustle to make more money.

So from the last phase of his undergraduate days right into the present, he took on—for summers, nights and even weekends—perhaps the most remarkable variety of jobs ever held by a mayoralty candidate of 29. He typed up income tax refunds for the Treasury Department. He drove a retail bread route. He again became a practicing soda jerk. He lugged sugar and salt sacks in a catsup factory. He proctored civil service examinations for the state of Missouri. He taught a class of senior girls in "American Problems" at the Academy of the Visitation.

One summer he spent as a "car knocker" for the Pennsylvania railroad, helping repair freight cars. During another stretch he worked as a bouncer (midnight Saturday to 6 a.m. Sunday) at a fancy night club. As a result of this prodigious effort, he and Neva were able, last October, to move into their modest four-room frame cottage at 712 Keebler street. They bought the place on a G.I. loan.

In the spring of 1949, Lou decided to run for the school board. To everybody's surprise, including his own, he nosed out the treasurer of the First National Bank for the post and it's been since then that the people voted a $950,000 bond issue for a Junior High School, the largest bond issue in Collinsville history. Everybody who knew him at the time says that Lou worked as hard for the school as did anybody in town.

His campaign for mayor is the result, at least indirectly, of a political defeat. The defeat was sustained last November by Dr. Paul G. Steinbicker, head of the Government Department at St. Louis U. and Lou's boss. Dr. Steinbicker had run for a seat on the St. Louis County Council. Believing that people teaching government should have practical experience in the field, Dr. Steinbicker suggested that Lou run for city office, especially since local races in Collinsville are non-partisan, everybody-for-himself affairs.

"I WAITED for a candidate to come up that I might want to vote for," Lou says, "but none showed up by the time I made up my mind to run."

Old-timers said that young Jackstadt squirt didn't stand a chance. Not against the incumbent Mayor Gilbert W. Killinger and against Walter "Chick" De Laney, a man with plenty of political experience and never yet defeated.

The old-timers shook their heads even more incredulously when they saw what kind of helpers Lou rounded up for himself. All were rankest amateurs at politics. None was over 35. There was a social worker, a garage mechanic, an engineer, an upholsterer and an accountant or two.

"Let a young man clean up an old mess," the team advertised in the local paper. The ads made up all of the campaign except for one torchlight parade down the main street and the judicious scattering of handbills marked only with the letters, "VJ"—meaning "vote for Jackstadt."

It all looked cut and dried until the primary ballots were counted Feb. 27. Lou was high man. He came close to getting as many votes as his two opponents combined. De Laney ran second. Killinger was a poor third.

Since then, the old guard politicos of Collinsville have taken a more serious view of Lou, the college boy upstart.

Lou Jackstadt isn't worried. Whatever happens, there isn't going to be much glory to being mayor. Even if he wins, he'll still need a new summer job when school closes in June.

Contract Bridge

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1♦	1♥	Pass
2♠	3♣	Double	3♦
3♥	Pass	4♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East collected the ace and king, then laid down the ace of trumps. Next, since South would obviously be able to take the club finesse for himself if (as was likely) he had the A-Q, East exited with a low club.

Declarer did trust East's club bid enough to take the finesse at this point, but even with the queen holding, the situation was not without danger! From East's failure to lead a second trump, it was extremely probable that West still had the J-x of trumps, and since West was marked very short in clubs, South could not expect to ruff many low clubs in dummy, without running into an over-ruff from West. Thus, the best chance was clearly to establish dummy's spade suit, or at least to win three tricks in that department—but the question was: How?

It was perfectly obvious that East had started with five cards (at least) in each minor, and so, since he had had one heart, he could have no more than two spades. West, therefore, was marked with at least four spades and so there was a substantially greater chance that the missing queen was held by West, rather than by East. If West had Q-x-x-x in spades, declarer could not set up the suit by cashing the A-K and ruffing a third round.

So, going on the mathematics of the situation, South took the spade finesse, and he not only lost the hand but had to listen to his partner's withering comments!

The Fat Boy's Diet (for Fat Girls, Too)

The Drinks Add Calories Fast

By Elmer Wheeler

CHAPTER 14

YOU CAN take your drinks or leave them as far as I'm concerned; but if you do drink because of social necessity, or plain desire, here is some information I picked up.

It is necessary to be able to tell the calories in drinks at a glance. Especially after a few of them, when you aren't in a counting mood any longer.

I studied a lot on this, looking for a simplified method of "know-how," so that calories could be counted quickly and easily, right in front of Joe, the bartender, or at the home of a giggling friend.

★ ★ ★

I FINALLY arrived at this method:

★ ★ ★

THE ABOVE way to count alcoholic calories may not be accurate to a calorie, may vary five one way or the other, but it is near enough.

★ ★ ★

OF COURSE, if you cheat on that ounce of firewater, that also adds up. So if you dump just a little more into your glass when the hostess or bartender isn't looking, don't forget to add this upon your Slide Rule later on—if you can remember.

How to remember? I know one fellow who pulls a match off his packet of matches each time he takes an ounce drink, puts it into his side pocket, and when he wakes up next day he knows what his caloric intake was the night before!

★ ★ ★

MARTINIS AND Manhattans are small drinks, but don't let 'em fool you. They usually contain an ounce — so with vermouths they can add up to about 150 calories each.

★ ★ ★

BEER IS 200 calories a bottle. Ale 300 calories! And bock beer—put down that glass. Bock is 370 calories!

A bottle of beer and a bottle of buttermilk are about the same in calories, with 200 each.

★ ★ ★

USUALLY YOU have the dry ones before a meal or with it, wines such as sauterne, Burgundy, champagne and the sweet wines, such as muscatel and port, with the dessert.

It isn't when you drink them that counts, though, so much as how much you drink.

Bacchus was a clever cuss. He was also a fatty, though.

Tomorrow: What to do about the "danger foods."

Reducing Chart Available Free

This chart, 3½ by 6 inches, may be obtained free at the counter in the first-floor lobby of the Post-Dispatch, or by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Fat Boy's Diet Editor, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, St. Louis, Mo.

Since publication of The Fat Boy's Diet began, 45,000 Post-Dispatch readers have called or written for their calorie chart.

There are plenty available for all. Have you got yours yet?

St. Louisans In New York For Visits

By Frances Conant Richards

NEW YORK, March 19.

MR. and Mrs. Mahlon Wallace with their daughter, Tolie, arrived in town just a short time before the Hotchkiss Special pulled into the Grand Central from Lakeville, Conn. They came on to meet their son, Mahlon Jr., a student at Hotchkiss, at the start of his spring vacation. Thursday the family foursome flew to Nassau for the young Wallaces' spring vacations. They will be at the British Colonial for about ten days, returning to St. Louis for the reopening of Mary Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stix are enjoying this season in the sun in Jamaica. They were in New York ten days ago when their son John Stix made news with his direction of the Helen Hayes production of "Mary Rose," Barrie's play put on for the benefit of A.N.T.A.—American National Theater and Academy. Other members of the family joining Mr. and Mrs. Stix here March 4 for the opening performance were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Fainsod (she is the former Elizabeth Stix) and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stix, their son and daughter-in-law. The Fainsods have lived for many years in Cambridge, Mass., where he is connected with the government department at Harvard. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stix came over from Princeton where they are living while he finishes his Ph.D. in physics.

Others in the audience that night were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson—she is the one-time Violet Kauffman—and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Battle FitzGerald of St. Louis whom Mrs. Stix met on Madison avenue the day of the performance in time to invite them.

John Stix is moving up the ladder of success with his talents as a young director. This latest feather in his cap, winning the competition put on by Helen Hayes, came about this fall when she announced that she would produce "Mary Rose" and award the directing powers to the person showing the most promise. Stix was the first of 25 aspiring for the job and won the honor after exchanging views with Miss Hayes as to how he would direct the play.

After graduating from Black Mountain College in North Carolina, he spent a good deal of time in the Army then additional years at the Yale Drama School, arriving in New York in 1949. He then directed a group of actors who had been at the Yale Drama School, moved on to directing in the Provincetown Playhouse in Greenwich Village and has since been asked to become a member of the Actors Studio—an organization providing professional people of the stage with a workshop.

THEATER, as served up at the Dramatic Workshop, has brought together two other former St. Louisians. Ethel Chouteau Dyer, now known as Chouteau Dyer, and Thomas G. Ratcliffe Jr. were both on hand last Thursday night when the Dramatic Workshop put on "Macbeth," Miss Dyer as assistant to the director and Ratcliffe as producer.

Ratcliffe, nephew of Mrs. Eugene D. Nims, is managing director of the Dramatic Workshop and Technical Institute. Miss Dyer, who has been assistant to the director since the founding of the school some years ago, has classes almost daily at the theater on West Forty-eighth street. When a play is in production she is apt to be on duty from morning until well on towards midnight. Recently she and Ratcliffe had a mutual production interest when he supervised students in a scene from Pirandello and she directed a scene of Lorca to illustrate a lecture on contemporary Spanish and Italian drama.

Miss Dyer, who has an apartment in the Village, is expecting a spring vacation visit shortly from her niece, Clarissa Flint, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Flint. Miss Flint will divide her visit between Chouteau Dyer and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Dyer. Randolph Dyer, comptroller of Union Settlement, and his family have an apartment uptown between Columbia University and Riverside Church. While Clarissa is east, her aunt will take her down to Bryn Mawr one day for a look around what promises to be her alma mater.

The Randolph Dyers' daughter, Lisa, is studying at Columbia, which makes getting to classes just a matter of crossing the street. This week the Dyers will also have with them their daughter, Clarissa, who will be on holiday from Wellesley, and their son, John, who will be having spring vacation from Exeter.

Criticism for Crosby

Sir:

SINCE Margaret Truman was sure that John Crosby would not receive a letter from President Truman, I feel moved to say something in her behalf. I thought his criticism of her was very unfair. Why pick on her? She is not the greatest concert singer in the world, neither is she the worst by any means.

We all admire her pluck, her charming good manners and sense of humor, and I like to hear her sing. I do not know Mr. Crosby personally, but I find his column very biased, cynical and extremely irritating. He makes me mad. I have read that critics are the crows that sit on raucous judgment of the world at large. Sometimes they act a little like buzzards.

Perhaps I am being too harsh with Mr. Crosby, who may be a lovely person, temporarily afflicted with ulcers, fallen arches and arthritis of the soul.

Usually if something one reads or sees on television doesn't agree with you, there is always the simple solution of turning off the television or stopping reading. It is a good sign that the same things do not appeal to everyone. But doggone it, we could do with a little less nastiness in this world. There is so much of it, even though some of it is necessary for growth and progress.

Critics are the individuals who should be the most unprejudiced, because the people they so callously criticize spend years of heart-breaking work and effort to strive for a little success, or to enrich the lives and minds of humanity. It only takes one printed comment to write "finis" to an otherwise promising career. It is like an insidious acid that is never completey removed.

Orchids to KSD-TV for showing the Kefauver investigation. It is the finest use television could be put to.

I turned Don Lohbeck off after the first sentence. I did not wish to pollute the air.

MRS. ARTHUR KNECHT
Wood River, Ill.

Tricked, She Says

Sir:

I WAS tricked into reading John Crosby's column in a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch because he had the unmitigated gall to use the picture of lovely Margaret Truman, his current "lamb for slaughter," rather than his own cynical visage which usually gives me warning not to waste my time.

What I think we need nowadays are more critics of the critics, and I'd like herewith to go on record as being one.

I would honesty recommend that Johnny confine himself to market reports or other such dull data if he hopes to establish a rating as a columnist. It is one thing to report a story exactly as you see or feel it, and yet another to refrain from embellishing it with wordy, eye-catching phrases which make the reader boil because someone is scourged needlessly. Crosby's lambasting of Margaret Truman was not only needless, but also pitiless, and it left me seething with anger.

I have long ago ceased reading Crosby's column because he has, in my opinion, failed to give his would-be readers a real and true critic's report. His praises of the Edward Everett Horton television travesty last year was the "straw that broke the camel's back." If that was his idea of worthwhile viewing, then I have a gross misconception of artistic entertainment.

We all love Margaret Truman and whether she can or can't sing makes no difference to most of us. We like to see her wholesome, friendly face smiling at us from a magazine or newspaper, and we adore hearing about her rumored romances and her courageous efforts to achieve recognition in the world of music. She is our own Crown Princess and we are loyal with love and admiration in everything she does. Even if her voice is "thin" and "harsh" and "uninteresting" to Mr. Crosby we love it.

Yours for more Margaret Trumans and fewer John Crosbys.

MRS. WILLIAM H. BURRELL,
Belleville, Ill.

Liked Her Singing

Sir:

I was delightfully entertained by Miss Truman's singing at her concert here. Her voice is of lovely clarity and bell-like tone, and I cannot conceive of Miss Helen Traubel's interest as her coach at any time, if her voice were flat and uninteresting.

M.G.

A Housewife Critic

Sir:

JOHN CROSBY compares Margaret Truman to Ethel Merman . . . "one of the truest singers anywhere around . . ." Shouldn't he have said one of the loudest singers anywhere around, or truly loud singer?

He also thinks Miss Truman got on the Big Show because she's the President's daughter. (That must have taken some thinking.) Yes, Mr. C., just as Portland Hoffa got on because she's Fred Allen's wife. Just as Mary L. got on Jack B.'s show and Gary Crosby got on his father's show and so on.

Ah yes, America is full of infinite possibilities; even I, just a housewife, can be a Critic's Critic.

Guide Trouble in Athens

By Henry McLemore

ATHENS, March 19.

I would have bet my last drachma—and I would have won—that when I engaged a guide to show us the glory that was Greece that I wouldn't get a guide at all, but a young relative of a guide, either a brother, nephew, or cousin.

Invariably, when we get to a city and call up a guide who has been recommended to us by friends, the guide says yes, he'll be there bright and early in the morning.

But he never is. In his place is a relative who explains in the little broken English at his command that his uncle, brother, or cousin, is sick, out of the city, or serving on a jury, but that he'll be glad to take us on a tour.

* * *

I'VE HAD THESE stand-ins all over the world, and without fail they fall into two classes:

1. They know so little that you find yourself explaining points of interest to them.

2. They have some outstanding peculiarity that all but drives you nuts before the sightseeing tour is over.

A few I recall are Jimmy in Budapest who was delighted when we pointed out St. Sophia to him, George in Damascus who looked with scorn on the old city and wanted to show us nothing but the new buildings that were equipped with electricity, another Jimmy in Peiping who carried a bunch of garlic the size of a bridal bouquet in his hand and chewed on it without let-up, making it impossible to get near enough to him to hear what he was saying, and the Sikh who drove us from New Delhi to Agra and refused to look at the Taj Mahal, it being his contention that the Taj was a junk heap and that we should ignore it and spend all our time exploring the Red Fort.

* * *

HERCULES, WHO took us about Athens yesterday, qualifies to stand shoulder to shoulder with these guides. Not only did he show up as a stand-in for his uncle, but he has a marked eccentricity besides.

It is his little quirk to make you make a guess about everything he shows you before he will tell you anything about it.

Your answer, always wrong by several centuries on one side of BC or the other, causes his grin to break into BC laugh. When he is finished laughing he jumps up and down in glee, points his finger at you, and in a voice loud enough to attract the attention of block-away passersby, cries, "You're wrong! You're wrong!"

* * *

THE ROUTINE never changes. We guessed at the age of statues, the sculptor who executed them, the kind of marble used, and we guessed at who this temple honored, and what god or goddess was worshipped here, and the name of that mountain, and who destroyed this, and who restored that.

If it was Hercules' aim to show up our ignorance in all its true glory, he surely succeeded. And he nearly laughed himself to death. By the time we got to the exquisite little temple built in honor of Athena Nike, he could barely stand up.

And I could hardly bear up. When he asked me to guess what it was my patience snapped like an old garter and I answered:

The Broderick Crawfords Shine
. . . with the "Range of the Stars"

"My wife ought to get an Oscar for cooking," says Broderick Crawford. "The way she broils my favorite dish in our Electric Range, she can't be beat!" "The Electric Range broils everything to perfection," says Mrs. Crawford. "It's the nearest thing to charcoal broiling. Whether you want it rare or well done, an Electric Range will give you just the result you want."

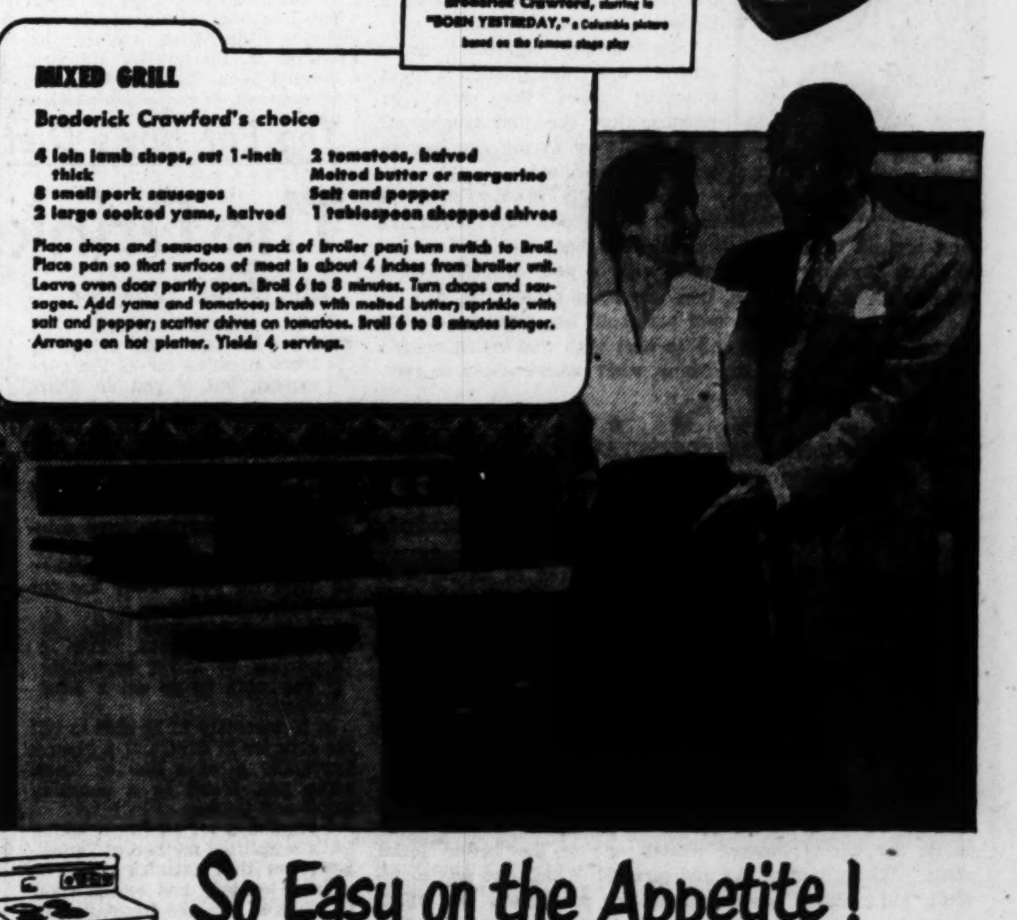
MIXED GRILL
Broderick Crawford's choice

4 loin lamb chops, cut 1-inch thick
8 small pork sausages
2 large cooked yams, halved
2 tomatoes, halved
Melted butter or margarine
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon chopped chives

Place chops and sausages on rack of broiler pan; turn switch to Broil. Place pan so that surface of meat is about 4 inches from broiler unit. Leave oven door partly open. Broil 6 to 8 minutes. Turn chops and sausages. Add yams and tomatoes; brush with melted butter; sprinkle with salt and pepper; scatter chives on tomatoes. Broil 6 to 8 minutes longer. Arrange on hot platter. Yields 4 servings.



So Easy on the Appetite!

DELICIOUS DINNERS are THRIFTY, too!

Replacing Door Panels.

ONE of the nice things about the panels in doors is that while they can be broken or split with relative ease they can also be easily removed and replaced. This fact is called "a compensating factor" and is a good thing.

A broken panel can be removed by gently prying off the four little strips of molding that fit along the edges of the paneling and are nailed to the main body of the door. A wood chisel is fine for taking off these strips but watch out that you don't gouge or scar the wood.

Once the strips are out of the way the panel can be pushed out. Now you need a new panel. If the panels are of the flush type a piece of three-eighths inch plywood cut to size should do the trick. Some panels are thicker than this so you may have to use a thicker piece of plywood.

Molded panels are not so easy to make unless you have a pretty extensive workshop. Your best bet is to take the old panel to a lumber yard or lumber mill. These concerns usually can order or make you a replacement for a slight charge. Second hand lumber dealers often have just what you want at a very low price.

If the panel is going in an outside door the recess in the door where it fits should be coated with white lead and the panel bedded into this. The white lead will produce a good watertight joint which will prevent moisture getting down along the edges of the panel and starting decay.

Once the panel is in place the wood molding goes in along the edges and then you are ready for paint.

Salmon Shortcake

Ingredients: Biscuit dough (made with 2 cups flour), salad oil, ¼ teaspoon celery seed, ⅔ cup ripe olives, 1 No. 1 tall can salmon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup grated American cheese.

Method: Pat biscuit dough to fit into 8-inch round cake pan. Brush top with oil and sprinkle with celery seed. Bake in hot (450F.) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare filling. Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Drain and flake salmon coarsely, removing skin and bones. Melt butter, add onion and cook slowly until tender but not browned. Blend in flour. Add milk and salt and cook and stir until thickened. Pour ½ cup of sauce over olives and fish and heat thoroughly. Add cheese to remaining sauce and stir until cheese is melted. Split shortcake into 2 layers. Spread salmon-olive mixture over bottom loaf and replace top. Cut into wedges and serve cheese sauce over top. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

What's the Origin?

Q. SINCE the word humbug apparently describes a humming insect, why do we use the word in the meaning of a faker, a fraud?

A. To begin with, the word bug originally designated a swollen, terrifying monster; hence, a hobglobin. And this meaning is still familiar in such terms as bugbear: a hobglobin in the shape of a bear; bugaboo; a hobglobin plus the interjection "boo!"; bogey: a hobglobin, another spelling of bug; bug-eyed: with the protruding eyes of a hobglobin.

According to the etymologist, Dr. Walter W. Skeat, certain insects were referred to as bugs" . . . because (they were) an object of terror, exciting disgust."

Skeat also lists an old English word hum as meaning "to trick," hence, a hoax.

Thus we see that the word humbug, when it was coined centuries ago, expressed the idea of a sham hobglobin. By extension, the term humbug took on the meaning of any piece of trickery; also, one who is known to be an impostor, or, as we Americans phrase it, a phony.

Q. What explanation is there for pronouncing the "o" of women like the short "i" of "wind"?—T. A. M.

A. The word woman evolved from the Anglo-Saxon wifmann, meaning "wife man," for the word mann (man) originally meant a person of either sex. Wifman became wimman, and its plural was wimmen.

The singular wimman then became wumman, which finally evolved into woman, in which the "o" retained the sound of the "u" of wumman. And, with the characteristic illogic that is found all through our beautiful but loony language, the modern plural women retained the short "i" sound of the ancient plural wimmen.

Q. Please explain what is meant by "ad lib."

A. It's the abbreviation of the Latin phrase ad libitum, meaning, "at pleasure, at liberty." Among musicians and show people "ad lib." means "to insert a passage or remark that departs from or is in addition to the written part." Comedians, such as Fred Allen and Bob Hope, who are adept in extemporaneous witticisms, are known in show business as expert "ad libbers."

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Calling it "Marmalade."

"MARMALADE" is a fruit preserve which we distinguish in our minds from jelly because the pulp of the fruit remains in it, while in jelly this is strained out. Marmalade is similar to fruit jam; why then do we call it by the three syllable word?

One might answer that we have this word because the ancient Greeks liked fruit preserve no less than persons of modern times. "Marmalade" goes back to their word for it.

Just exactly how "jam" came to be the popular name that it is for fruit preserve is less easy to trace. It has been suggested that it is from the verb, "to jam," meaning to press, to squeeze, which would be more descriptive of jelly than jam. But there is also the Arabic "jamad" denoting "ice" or "jelly," and "jamid," congealed.

"Marmalade" we have directly from the French "marmelade," which goes back to the Portuguese "marmelada." What is concealed here is the quince, the fruit which makes perhaps the most delicious of all marmalades; the word for it is "marmelo." This in turn is out of the Latin "melimelum," literally "honey apple." And it all started with two Greek words joined together—their words for honey, plus apple.

MANDRAKE—By Lee Falk and Phil Davis

—HEADED BY A WOMAN EXPLORER, LENORE—
WHAT HAPPENED TO THOSE TREETOPS?
GO NO FARTHER, MISSY LENORE!
TABOO!

STEVE ROPER—By Saunders and Woggon

SOME MAN PHONED AND I HEARD MISS KIT PROMISE TO MEET HIM, MR. ROPER --OUT BY THE GATE!
GOOD! WE PARKED OUR CARS IN THE SHRUBBERY ON THE BACK DRIVE, HANNAH! --AND WE'LL WAIT IN HERE-- WITH THE LIGHTS OFF!
WHAT A TIME FOR STEVE TO COME OUT! SUPPOSE HE SAW ME TALKING TO "BRAIN STORM"-!
BUDDY BALLENTYNE!-- AND HE'S TURNING IN!!
SAUNDERS WOGGON

WILLIE DEE—By Vic Green

BINGO BANGO HAS HAD TO BE TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL AND SHAG WON THE FIGHT!
HOW DID YOU DO IT SHAG?
AH DID IT WIF MAH LI'L OLE SECRUT WEAPON, SON—MAH HOSSSHOE!
DID YOU PUT IT IN YOUR GLOVE?
IS IT A LUCKY HORSESHOE? DID YOU JINX HIM?
NO
DID YOU THROW IT AT HIM?
NO
DID HE MISS YOU?
NO, HE HIT REAL HARD WITH HIS ATOMIC SMASHER PUNCH
THEN HOW IN THE WORLD DID YOU USE IT TO WIN? DON'T KEEP US IN SUSPENSE...TELL US QUICK!
THE ONLY SENSIBLE WAY AH COULD USE IT....
...AS A MOUTHPIECE, NATCHULLY!

BUZ SAWYER—By Roy Crane

PERHAPS I SHOULD THANK YOU FOR HELPING MY WIFE TO SAFETY, BUT—YOU CERTAINLY SHOULD, DUNCY-BOY!
TAFFY, I'LL THANK YOU TO STOP CALLING ME DUNCY-BOY!
HA, HA! IS THAT SO?? AND MAYBE YOU'D RATHER BE CALLED MOUSY-BOY.
MOUSY-BOY! HA-HA!
I'VE HAD ENOUGH OF YOU!

RIP KIRBY—By Alex Raymond

WAKE UP, WHITEY! I HEARD A SHOT! SEEMED TO BE DOWN BY THE WATER....
WIDOW! WHAT WAS THAT NOISE?
LOOK AT 'EM RUN! I'VE REALLY STIRRED UP THE ANIMALS!

KERRY DRAKE—By Alfred Andriola

I'M SORRY, KERRY, BUT PERSECUTING A POPULAR IDOL LIKE DANNY DOLLTALK COULD KICK BACK ON MY OFFICE! I FORBID YOU TO PUSH THE CASE!
OKAY, BARR! I'LL LAY OFF—OFFICIALLY!
MEANWHILE, IN THE KITCHENETTE OF DANNY'S APARTMENT...
SOME SWEET SETUP, DANNY BOY!—A $600 HAUL FROM THE DUMMY—AND A STRAIGHT CHUTE TO THE INCINERATOR, WHERE WE CAN BURN UP THE EVIDENCE EVERY DAY!

HENRY—By Carl Anderson

REX MORGAN, M. D.—By Dal Curtis

SEE YOU TOMORROW, CRAIG! TAKE IT EASY!
DO I HAVE A CHOICE, DOCTOR?
WHY, MISS CAROTHER! I THOUGHT YOU HAD LEFT ON SOME PRESSING BUSINESS!
I STARTED, DR. MORGAN, BUT CRAIG THINKS HIS BIG SISTER SHOULD SLOW DOWN.. SO I DECIDED TO GET A DOCTOR'S ADVICE ON EXACTLY HOW THAT CAN BE DONE!
YOU NEED A HOBBY .. SOME KIND OF DIVERSION FROM YOUR USUAL WORK!
NOW, DOCTOR! CAN'T YOU BE MORE SPECIFIC?
